Hope Vanishes for Australian PM

By JOHN FITZGERALD

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — The disappearance of Prime Minister Harold E. Holt while swimming in the surf threatens Australia with political crisis and possibly the break-up of the coalition that has governed the country since 1949.

There was almost no hope that Holt could have survived the rip-tides that swallowed him up Sunday while he swam off Portsea, 37 miles south of Melbourne.

Bad weather forced suspension of the massive sea and air search today. The tides off Portsea have claimed three other swimmers in the last 10 years without yielding their bodies.

Deputy Prime Minister John McEwen, the leader of the Country party, took over the government helm until Holt's liberal party, the larger member of the coalition, elects a new party leader and prime minister.

Federal Treasurer William McMahon, the deputy party leader, was in line to succeed Holt. But observers in Canberra believed his election would drive the Country party out of the coalition because he and McEwen disagree on a number of key issues.

Defense Minister Allen Fair-

hall and Foreign Minister Paul Hasluck were also considered likely candidates for the Liberal leadership.

Governor-General Lord Casey was expected to announce the presumption of Holt's death Tuesday, although the prime minister's press secretary, Tony Eggleton, told newsmen today: "We are all hanging onto a shred of hope that Mr. Holt is alive."

Holt, 59, was an excellent swimmer and skindiver. He was wearing swim trunks and beach shoes as he walked from his maroon Pontiac to his favorite "rock plunge" at noon Sunday.

An old friend, Alan Stewart, walked out into the surf a good distance behind Holt and watched him dive and disappear beneath the waves.

Stewart said the surf was too rough for him, and when the prime minister failed to surface, he ran to give the alarm.

Australians today accepted as fact that their prime minister had died in the sea he loved, and they were greatly saddened.

"Like President Kennedy he was not given time to show what he could do," said the Sydney Morning Herald. "The great tasks to which he set himself were unfinished. The war in Vietnam still rages. The withdrawal of Britain from the Far East has only just begun. Australia's relationship with her neighbors in Asia are still shadowy and undefined."

Holt had 692 days in office after taking over from Sir Robert Menzies. He stood staunchly by President Johnson's Vietnam policy, defending the bombing of North Vietnam and refusing to accept a settlement which would give victory to the Communists. Six thousand Australian troops are fighting with the allies in South Vietnam.

Very much the maker of his own foreign policy, Holt made two far-ranging tours through Asia, three to Britain and the United States, and attended the summit conference of Vietnam allies in Manila.

The Holt family—his wife, Zara, his three stepsons and their wives spent the night at the family's compound at Portsea.

At a Christmas carol program in Sydney's Hyde Park, a throng of 15,000 was shocked by the announcement of Holt's disappearance and bowed heads in silent prayer. One woman broke the silence with a loud sob, "My God, my God."

3 U.S. Jets Downed; MIGs Account for 2

SAIGON (AP) — American planes continued raids on North Vietnam's heartland for the fifth straight day today, and the U.S. Command reported the loss of three jets Sunday—two of them downed by Communist MIG interceptors.

The U.S. Command did not immediately reveal details of the raids today, but Tass, the Soviet news agency, said American planes made a "massive raid" on Hanoi's northeastern district.

Several Dogfights

American spokesmen reported one MIG probably downed by U.S. fighters in the several swirling air battles over Hanoi Sunday. The American casualties were an Air Force F106 Thunderchief and an F4 Phantom brought down by a MIG21 and a MIG17. The three crew members aboard the two American planes were missing.

The third American plane downed, another Phantom, was hit by ground fire over North Vietnam's southern panhandle. One of its two crewmen was killed and one was rescued.

Including Sunday's casualties and a Phantom shot down Saturday by a MIG21, U.S. records list 36 American planes and 99 MIGs shot down in aerial combat so far in the war. A total of 765 U.S. warplanes have been reported lost over the North.

Bad Weather

A freakish break in the monsoon weather—which began last Thursday—has permitted the heavy raids on key North Vietnamese targets after a one-month lull which permitted the Communists to rebuild shattered facilities.

North Vietnam's carefully hoarded MIGs apparently were out in greater numbers Sunday than in the previous days of the renewed assault, when only four to six of the Red interceptors would dart in and out of American formations.

In the five days of renewed aerial combat, the MIG pilots have downed three U.S. jets, while the Americans claimed only one "probable."

U.S. pilots logged 145 missions today, the largest number reported during the current weather break. The priority targets were the MIG airfields at Kep and Phuc Yen, the vital bridge complex between Hanoi and the rail lines emanating from Hanoi and Haiphong.

Returning pilots reported wide spread damage but detailed reports were withheld pending the study of reconnaissance photos.

Air Force spokesmen have said only about 30 of North Vietnam's MIGs are kept in the country, at Kep, Phuc Yen and Gia Lam, which also handles international civilian flights and is still out of bounds to U.S. warplanes.

The rest of the North Vietnamese air force—estimated at about 50 MIGs—normally stays in Red China with pilots flying them down for brief periods of combat.

Little ground action was reported.

Two Marines Killed

Two U.S. Marines were killed and 40 wounded when a mortar round fired by other Marines accidentally landed in their position Saturday night near Hoi An, just below the big Marine base at Da Nang, the U.S. Command said.

Leathernecks guarding South Vietnam's northern frontier were getting more Communist artillery and mortar fire at the Con Thien outpost. Five were killed and 31 seriously wounded Saturday and 13 were wounded Sunday.

An enemy rocket and machine-gun attack killed four Americans and wounded 16 at a base camp 74 miles northwest of Saigon a few miles from the Cambodian border.

Crewmen of the U.S. aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk, en route to the Gulf of Tonkin for her fifth combat tour of the Vietnam war, fought a fire in a tire storage area for three hours Sunday night.

A Navy spokesman at Subic naval base in the Philippines, where the 80,000-ton carrier had stopped over Saturday, said several crewmen inhaled too much smoke but there were no serious injuries. He said damage was minor, no planes were affected and the ship's operational capability was not impaired. Cause of the fire was not immediately known.

Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick, D-N.Y., touring Vietnam, told newsmen that "when American patience ends, something will have to be done about Cambodia" as an infiltration route for North Vietnamese soldiers. The Cambodian government meanwhile issued another denial that its territory provided refuge for Communist troops. It said it was replying to charges by U.S. Rep. Mendel L. Rivers, D-S.C. The charges were "flagrant lies," it said.

Rocky and Levitt Team for Tax Hike

NEW YORK (AP) — The state will have to boost taxes by $500 million or more to continue its aid to local communities, Gov. Rockefeller says.

Rockefeller said, however, that he did not know what form the new taxes would take.

The Republican governor has indicated he was contemplating an increase in business taxes, which have not been raised in his nine years in office. He also has implied that he was considering increases in the income tax or sales tax.

Rockefeller spoke to newsmen Sunday before urging the U.S. Olympic Committee to select Lake Placid as its designee for the 1976 Winter Olympics.

In Albany, State Comptroller Levitt suggested that a 20 per cent surcharge of the state income tax and a general increase in business taxes would be among the least painful ways of producing more revenue next year.

The Democratic officeholder said that taxpayers would find the surcharge and business tax hike more palatable than increases in the state sales tax or income-tax rates.

The Republican governor said that state aid to local government was increasing in the areas of welfare, education and possibly Medicaid.

Rockefeller noted proposed legislation to increase welfare by $150 million and to increase the ceiling on cost per school pupil from $660 a year to $800.

This measure would cost $240 million a year more, he said.

The Medicaid program could cost an additional $95 million a year, he said.

"We are facing a crisis," Rockefeller said. We are doing everything we can to cut spending, but the indication is that if the state is going to help local communities, the tax increases look like it will be $500 or $600 million."

Levitt spoke about the surcharge and business taxes in a "Study of Optional Sources of Tax Revenue." The study and an accompanying letter were sent to each member of the Legislature. He made no flat recommendations but expressed his opinions on various possibilities.

Levitt said the proposals to raise the state sales taxes or income - tax rates would tend to hit low - income taxpayers the hardest.

Imposing a 20 per cent surcharge on all income tax bills would produce the same amount of revenue as a 1 per cent increase in income tax rates and "would affect all taxpayers in the same proportion," he said.

Currently, rates are graduated — from 2 per cent of the first $1,000 of net taxable income, to 10 per cent on income over $15,000. To raise the 2 per cent to 3 per cent and so forth would produce between $380 million and $400 million, Levitt said.

A 1 per cent increase in the state's 2 per cent sales tax would yield $340 million, Levitt said. He noted, however, that several communities have imposed a 3 per cent local sales tax, which would mean raising the share of state revenue represented by business taxes has declined from 37 per cent to 16 per cent.

Levitt told the legislators in his letter to give careful thought to all tax - increase proposals and to avoid hasty decisions.

"I would be remiss if I did not point out the need to keep

As for business taxes, Levitt said the Legislature would be well-advised . . . to take a hard look at the growing imbalance between taxes on individuals and taxes on businesses."

He said that, in the past 20 years, the share of state revenue represented by business taxes has declined from 37 per cent to 16 per cent.

Levitt told the legislators in his letter to give careful thought to all tax - increase proposals and to avoid hasty decisions.

"I would be remiss if I did not point out the need to keep the state's tax structure as progressive as possible in the face of locally imposed increases in real property taxes and sales taxes, which are necessarily regressive in nature," he said.

The comptroller also opposed the elimination of the present income tax credits — the system that permits single persons to deduct $10 from their final tax bills and married couples $25.

He said that to eliminate this credit "would bring $130 million a year in additional revenue, but it would seriously impair the nature of the income tax, by imposing a standard burden without respect to income level."

Suicide Is Ruling In Motel Shooting

A 22-year-old Brooklyn man took his life by shooting himself in the head with a shotgun after registering as a guest at the Howard Johnson Motor Lodge on Route 28 in the Town of Ulster.

County Coroner William S. Keyser, who investigated at the scene of the shooting with State Police BCI officers, said Richard Merrin Zernit of 800 Cortelyou Road Brooklyn, died of massive cerebral hemorrhages due to self-inflicted gunshot wounds.

Coroner Keyser gave a formal finding of suicide at the conclusion of the investigation, which was conducted by Senior BCI Investigator Edward Shannon and Investigators Fred Grunewald and Joseph Ventriglia of the Kingston Substation.

According to authorities, Zernit, who had resided with his mother, Gail and stepfather, William Zernit, arrived in Kingston at about 5:45 p. m. on Friday and he reportedly called his home and spoke to his parents. During the conversation he gave no indication that he thought of taking his life, it was reported by authorities.

Zernit, an accountant, had been attending Pace College where he hoped to obtain his Master's degree.

Judging from the clothing he had in his 1967 automobile, Zernit came to this area for a weekend of skiing at area resorts. After registering at the motel lodge on Route 28, Zernit retired after putting a "Do Not Disturb" sign on the door of his room, it was reported.

Zernit had registered for one day only, and was supposed to have checked out at noon on Saturday. At 1:30 p. m., Paul Tresvik, an employee at the motel and Mrs. Joan Benham manager, went to the man's room to investigate. Receiving no response from inside they entered the room and discovered Zernit on a bed with a 12-gauge shotgun beside him.

Management immediately notified State Police and Dr. Herbert Derman later pronounced Zernit dead. The body was removed to the morgue at Kingston Hospital.

Coroner Keyser said the man evidently shot himself at about 10 a. m. Saturday. No one in the area had heard the fatal shot and it is believed that after placing the gun at his head Zernit muffled the report of the shot with a pillow.

As far as could be learned from relatives, the young man enjoyed a happy life at home and apparently had no worries.

Coroner Keyser said no notes were found in the room.

Father's Fight Futile

Dog Pack Kills Two Boys

LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP) — A pack of German shepherd dogs attacked and killed two small boys Sunday while their father fought futilely to save them by clubbing the animals with a rake.

The attack, near a creek behind the victims' home in nearby Madison Heights, included two neighborhood dogs the boys apparently had played with before.

The victims were Gene Anthony Goodman, 5, and Kenneth Goodman, 4, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene H. Goodman of Madison Heights.

Goodman and his wife are in Lynchburg General Hospital where they are being treated for shock.

Amherst County Sheriff-elect Mahlon H. Bryant said Goodman, sobbing, told him that when he reached the snarling pack he beat at the frenzied animals with a rake, his shoes and anything else he could find to turn them away from his bloodied sons.

Two of the dogs were impounded by local authorities. A third could not be caught and was shot to death. Police were looking for a fourth dog but said there may have been only three in the attack.

"My daughter's a nurse and helped her back up to the house. I ran on over the hill and met Goodman coming up the hill all dazed. He was carrying one poor bloody little body and he said the dogs had the other boy down by the creek."

"I went down there and saw some dogs but I never did let the other boy," Scott said.

Rescue squadmen found the body later, Scott said, about 300 yards from the scene of the attack.

Bryant said Mrs. Goodman was inside her home at about 3:30 p.m. with her other child, Cindy, 1, when she heard screams from the creek. She called to her husband then ran to a neighbor's house for help.

"I was lying in bed when she knocked on the door," said Morton P. Scott, "My wife let her in and she was crying said some dogs had her boys down by the creek."

"I went down there and saw some dogs but I never did let the other boy," Scott said.

Rescue squadmen found the body later, Scott said, about 300 yards from the scene of the attack.

Dr. Jack Faulkner, Amherst County medical examiner, said the eldest boy died of loss of blood from severe lacerations all over his body.

Bryant said the dogs that were impounded belong to Earnest Floyd, a Lynchburg man who owns property adjoining the Goodman land. The scene of the attack was approximately on the property line.

He said Floyd usually kept the dogs penned up but had let them run loose Sunday as they had occasionally in the past. Floyd also had given the Goodman children permission to play on his land and to play with the dogs, which they had many times before, Bryant said.

Floyd's dogs are in the custody of the Amherst County dog warden, Bryant says it will be up to the commonwealth's attorney and the courts to decide their fate.

"My daughter's a nurse and helped her back up to the house. I ran on over the hill and met Goodman coming up the hill all dazed. He was carrying one poor bloody little boy and he said the dogs had the other boy down by the creek."

"I went down there and saw some dogs but I never did find the other boy," Scott said.

Rescue squadmen found the body later, Scott said, about 300 yards from the scene of the attack.

Dr. Jack Faulkner, Amherst County medical examiner, said the eldest boy died of loss of blood from severe lacerations all over his body.

Bryant said the dogs that were impounded belong to Earnest Floyd, a Lynchburg man who owns property adjoining the Goodman land. The scene of the attack was approximately on the property line.

He said Floyd usually kept the dogs penned up but had let them run loose Sunday as they had occasionally in the past. Floyd also had given the Goodman children permission to play on his land and to play with the dogs, which they had many times before, Bryant said.

Floyd's dogs are in the custody of the Amherst County dog warden, Bryant says it will be up to the commonwealth's attorney and the courts to decide their fate.

Parker Tries New Career: Director

By GENE HANDSAKER
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Good luck on a brand-new career," reads a telegram thumbtacked to a wall in Fess Parker's dressing room. "Hope this is the first of many."

Parker's new career—that of directing as well as starring in a segment of his Daniel Boone television series—was thus saluted by his producer.

"I've been involving myself more and more in the writing and production and decided it was time to get my feet wet as a director," drawled television's onetime Davy Crockett.

Parker, now 43 and a millionaire businessman, is in his fourth year as Boone. Some stars of long-running series become bored, he said—"merely deliver the body and leave. Or—a series can open up new vistas."

Six-foot-six Fess Elisha Parker Jr. has been finding new vistas ever since he came out of the University of Texas to spark a fanatical hero worship among U.S. small fry in 1955-56 as Davy Crockett, king of the wild frontier.

Kids were so many conks caps like Davy's that the price of raccoon fur quadrupled in four months.

Merchandise grossed nearly $500 million in Crockett clothes, guns, toys, etc. Parker's and 16 other recordings of the theme song sold eight million copies. Crowds up to 250,000 in Detroit besieged him on tours of U.S. cities and 13 foreign countries.

Parker tried to escape the frontier image with "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," 26 television episodes he now says "weren't too good. When I finally matured in this business I realized I should maximize my wonderful opportunity."

The maximizer of new vistas is a songwriter and recording star who has written a movie script that three major studios are considering. His company, Fesper Enterprises Inc., is developing three movie properties and has a television series well along in the planning.

After a 10- or 12-hour work day, Parker changes from buckskins and boots to sports clothes from a $6,000 wardrobe that includes $250-suits and $30-shirts.

He drives home to his wife and two children in a Lincoln Continental sedan with saddle leather bucket seats specially tracked to accommodate his long legs.

The Parkers' Newport Beach residence is temporary. A pilot licensed to fly multiengine planes, Parker plans to commute 100 miles by helicopter to the $400,000-Spanish adobe he's building on 16 beachfront acres at Santa Barbara.

That city is where he owns a 338-unit mobile home park and plans to build another. He's on the board of regents of Santa Clara University. For relaxation he sails a 32-foot yacht and thumps a dressing room piano. "Each area you move into," remarked the many-faceted Parker, "takes you one step farther into the next."

Business Week in Review

NEW YORK (AP) — Optimistic predictions about the course of the U.S. economy in 1968 came out this past week. But words of caution were heard, too.

The forecasts covered the general economy, automobile production, housing starts and manufacturers' sales.

The outlook was enhanced when General Motors Corp., the No. 1 automaker, and the United Auto Workers Union agreed on a new three-year contract that will raise wages and benefits of 380,000 workers 6 per cent.

The contract is almost identical with agreements the union reached earlier with Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. Ford was struck for two months and Chrysler lost some production because of local work stoppages.

General Motors workers at 127 plants in 70 cities will get about $1 an hour in wage and benefit increases over the current average of $4.70.

In some cases, analysts said business improvement would be contingent on enactment of an income tax increase and a cut in government spending.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York said, "underlying cost and price pressures in the economy show no signs of diminishing."

"The need for fiscal restraint," the bank added, "is compelling, not only to contain price pressures domestically but also to protect the dollar in the international exchanges."

Albert T. Sommers, economist for the National Industrial Conference Board, commented: "Now that the long-heralded and endlessly forecast expansion (in the economy) has begun, it does not look very much like the forecasts. In fact, it is very unboomlike."

Dr. Saul B. Klamman, economist for the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks, predicted the nation's economy will grow at an 8 per cent rate next year, compared with an expected rate of 5½ per cent this year.

But without federal fiscal action, he added, "we are fearful of first half (of the year) imbalances which could lead to a second half decline."

Standard & Poor's Corp., a leading investment advisory firm and financial publisher, said it expected in the first half of next year strong advances in industrial production, gross national product, manufactured goods prices, business volume and profit margins.

Henry Ford II, chairman of Ford Motor Co., forecast sales of passenger cars in 1968 would rise to 9.3 million, second only to the record 9.5 million sold in 1965.

"Car sales next year should be bolstered by rising employment and personal income, by the present high level of personal liquid assets and low level of personal debt," he said.

Ford estimated 1967 industry sales at 8.4 million cars, including 785,000 imports.

Michael Sumichrist, economist for the National Association of Home Builders, said he looks for 1968 housing starts to total 1.4 million units, up 10 per cent from the expected total for 1967.

A Commerce Department survey indicated that manufacturers expect an increase of 3.5 per cent in sales in the first three months of next year, which would be the best performance in two years.

The Labor Department reported that the unemployment rate fell sharply to 3.9 per cent of the labor force in mid-November from a two-year high of 4.3 per cent in October.

Arthur M. Ross, commissioner of labor statistics, said the decline was due to an acceleration of economic activity from a "slow situation" in September and October. He added that this resulted in more jobs for women and teen-agers.

Concluding Asian Tour

Resnick Blasts 'Bugouts'

By LYNN MULVANEY

Senators J. W. Fulbright, Eugene McCarthy and Robert Kennedy belong to the bug-out faction regarding Vietnam, says Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick, who is presently concluding a tour of Southeast Asia.

"The three should at least come over here and listen to these people before they make up their minds," declared the announced candidate for the U. S. Senate from New York, in an interview at Da Nang.

"They say we are doing the wrong thing here, but ask them for workable alternatives. They have never given one."

Resnick, a strong supporter of President Johnson's Vietnamese policies, said McCarthy, a Minnesota Democrat, "is one of the most ill-advised political adventurers in history."

McCarthy, who plans an anti-war challenge to President Johnson, "has as much chance as a Viet Cong standing in the middle of the Da Nang air base runway," Resnick said. American patience ends, something will have to be done about Cambodia as an infiltration "Maybe he's tired of politics and wants to go out in a blaze of glory," he commented on the entering of McCarthy into four presidential primaries.

Is Winning War

Resnick, who announced in mid-November his own intentions to unseat N. Y. Sen. Jacob Javits concluded yesterday that the United States is "winning the war and we're winning it big. I've been told this by privates, captains and generals," he said.

He told newsmen that "when

Greek Stymie Over Monarch

ATHENS (AP) — Negotiations between the Greek military junta and King Constantine over his return to the throne appeared deadlocked today after the Greek cabinet discussed the king's terms. There was no indication the military regime would accept them.

Informants said the 27-year-old king, who fled to Rome Thursday after unsuccessfully trying to start a counter coup against the junta, demanded immediate free elections and a halt to revision of the constitution.

The military dictators want the king back to give them a facade of legitimacy. But their terms included continued exile for Constantine's mother, Queen Frederika, and puppet status for the king.

Greek Foreign Minister Panayiotis Pipinellis and the Orthodox primate, Archbishop Ieronimos, conferred with Constantine at the Greek Embassy in Rome Saturday, and Pipinellis reported to Premier George Papadopoulos, the regime's strongman, immediately on his return.

The Cabinet held a 2 1/2-hour meeting Sunday but made no announcement afterward. Reliable sources said today the regime has retired five army generals, including the former defense minister, Gen. Gregory Spantidakis, and several other top officers accused of conspiring with the king. It was the second major purge in the armed forces since the April 21 coup in which a group of colonels overthrew the parliamentary government.

Spantidakis, who was in Brussels for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization meeting during the attempted counter coup, now is in Rome with the king. There has been speculation that the new constitution being prepared by the regime played a part in the king's attempt. Informants said the proposed document would strip the king of his power to appoint premiers and ministers and strengthen the executive branch of government over the legislature.

The regime has said repeatedly it would restore democracy after a plebiscite on the new constitution. The 20-man committee of legal experts preparing the document has said it should be ready within a week.

Guests of Jaycees

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina dependants of American servicemen in Vietnam, particularly their children, were guests of the Raleigh Jaycees at a Christmas party.

Gen. Robert York, commanding general of Ft. Bragg Army post, and the Seymour Johnson Air Force Base drill team shared the spotlight with Santa Claus.

Siberian Populace

The population of Siberia, whose area accounts for more than one-fourth of the entire Asian continent and 60 per cent of the territory of the U.S.S.R., is only about 32.5 million, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Queen Frederika, a native of Germany, has been an issue in Greek politics for years. She was accused of exerting too much influence on her husband, the late King Paul and since his death her critics have charged that she is the power behind Constantine.

There was some talk that Princess Irene, the king's 25-year-old sister, might be put on the throne for an interim period as a compromise. But this sounded like a junta idea which the royal family would never agree to.

Since arriving in Rome, Constantine has stayed within a six-block area of the city's fashionable Parioli section and has avoided contact with outsiders.

An Italian student who identified himself as secretary of the Young Socialist League was fined Sunday night for littering after he spread leaflets in front of the Greek Embassy. They said: "Send (Interior Minister Stylianos) Patakos, the fascists, the king and his mother to Yaros (a Greek prison island)."

The junta faced new quarrels with Turkey. Turkish Foreign Minister Ihsan Sabri Caglayanil accused the Greek regime of "threatening the existence of the Turkish minority of Greek Thrace," on Turkey's western frontier. He warned that if measures to "oppress and subdue" the Turkish minority were not stopped, Turkey might take retaliatory measures.

It was believed the measures would be against the large Greek minority living in Turkey. Turkey and Greece came to the brink of war last month in a dispute over Cyprus. To prevent a Turkish invasion of Cyprus, Greece bowed to Turkish demands, including the withdrawal of 12,000 Greek soldiers illegally on Cyprus.

Kouandete Heads Dahomey

COTONOU, Dahomey (AP) — 15 officers, ranging from major down to warrant officer, who led a coup against Dahomey President Christophe Soglo Sunday, made himself head of a provisional government today.

Radio Cotonou announced, Kouandete and fellow army officers engineered the overthrow, bloodlessly, the third coup since Dahomey gained independence from France in 1960.

Soglo, 58, who led the two previous coups, was unharmful but under house arrest with his wife, U.S. Ambassador Clinton Knox reported.

Kouandete named himself president, defense minister and information minister, the radio said. He headed a committee of

Two civilians from the Soglo regime were retained in the provisional cabinet, which the military said would rule until a new constitution is submitted to a referendum in six months.

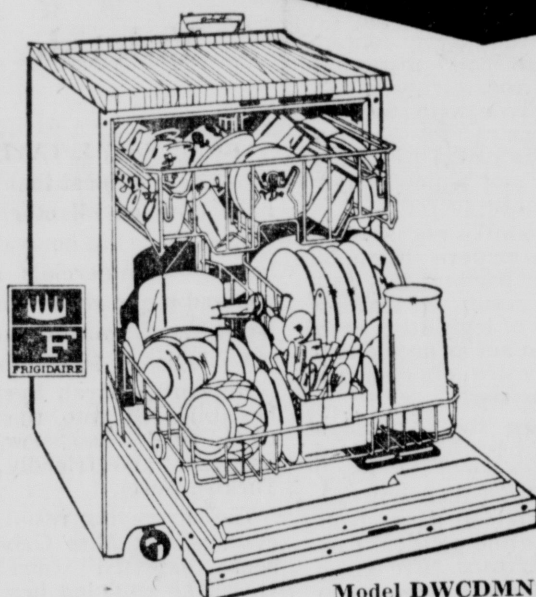

The civilians are Dr. Emile Zinsou, the foreign minister, and Pascal Chabi Kao, who moves from minister of labor to minister of finance.

Greek Stymie Over Monarch

ATHENS (AP) — Negotiations between the Greek military junta and King Constantine over his return to the throne appeared deadlocked today after the Greek cabinet discussed the king's terms. There was no indication the military regime would accept them.

Informants said the 27-year-old king, who fled to Rome Thursday after unsuccessfully trying to start a counter coup against the junta, demanded immediate free elections and a halt to revision of the constitution.

The military dictators want the king back to give them a facade of legitimacy. But their terms included continued exile for Constantine's mother, Queen Frederika, and puppet status for the king.

Greek Foreign Minister Panayiotis Pinielis and the Orthodox primate, Archbishop Ieronymos, conferred with Constantine at the Greek Embassy in Rome Saturday, and Pinielis reported to Premier George Papadopoulos, the regime's strongman, immediately on his return.

The Cabinet held a 2½-hour meeting Sunday but made no announcement afterward.

Reliable sources said today the regime has retired five army generals, including the former defense minister, Gen. Gregory Spantidakis, and several other top officers accused of conspiring with the king. It was the second major purge in the armed forces since the April 21 coup in which a group of colonels overthrew the parliamentary government.

Spantidakis, who was in Brussels for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization meeting during the attempted counter coup, now is in Rome with the king.

There has been speculation that the new constitution being prepared by the regime played a part in the king's attempt. Informal sources said the proposed document would strip the king of his power to appoint premiers and ministers and strengthen the executive branch of government over the legislature.

The regime has said repeatedly it would restore democracy after a plebiscite on the new constitution. The 20-man committee of legal experts preparing the document has said it should be ready within a week.

Siberian Populace

The population of Siberia, whose area accounts for more than one-fourth of the entire Asian continent and 60 per cent of the territory of the U.S.S.R., is only about 32.5 million, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Queen Frederika, a native of Germany, has been an issue in Greek politics for years. She was accused of exerting too much influence on her husband, the late King Paul and since his death her critics have charged that she is the power behind Constantine.

There was some talk that Princess Irene, the king's 25-year-old sister, might be put on the throne for an interim period as a compromise. But this sounded like a junta idea which the royal family would never agree to.

Since arriving in Rome, Constantine has stayed within a six-block area of the city's fashionable Parioli section and has avoided contact with outsiders.

An Italian student who identified himself as secretary of the Young Socialist League was fined Sunday night for littering after he spread leaflets in front of the Greek Embassy. They said: "Send Interior Minister Stylianos Patakos, the fascists, the king and his mother to Yavros (a Greek prison island)."

The junta faced new quarrels with Turkey. Turkish Foreign Minister Ihsan Sabri Caglayan accused the Greek regime of "threatening the existence of the Turkish minority of Greek Thrace," on Turkey's western frontier. He warned that if measures to "oppress and subdue" the Turkish minority were not stopped, Turkey might take retaliatory measures.

It was believed the measures would be against the large Greek minority living in Turkey. Turkey and Greece came to the brink of war last month in a dispute over Cyprus. To prevent a Turkish invasion of Cyprus, Greece bowed to Turkish demands, including the withdrawal of 12,000 Greek soldiers illegally on Cyprus.

Civilian Casualties

The war in South Vietnam is harsh for civilians there. It is more lethal for civilians than for combatants. Based on the available information, the civilian toll in South Vietnam will reach 100,000 this year—76,000 wounded and 24,000 killed, with by far the greatest number due to Viet Cong terrorists and raids.

That will compare with the expected total military combat deaths of 19,000—projected from the 11-month figure of 8,001 Americans and 9,566 South Vietnamese killed. These figures do not include other allied casualties or American and South Vietnamese military wounded.

In the first 11 months this year, Government statistics show that Viet Cong terrorists killed 3,487 civilians, wounded 6,861 and kidnapped 4,487. Of the rest of the casualties, 40 per cent were attributed to Viet Cong raids, booby traps and mines; 30 per cent to allied artillery and air strikes and 30 per cent to small arms fire, mortar rounds and other weapons in direct engagements leading to liberation of their towns and villages.

The allies are doing everything possible to keep civilian casualties as low as possible. Military operations and air and artillery strikes are coordinated with the Vietnamese province and district chiefs. Pilots are carefully briefed. Warning leaflets are often dropped before allied action. In a war of movement, where there are few fixed combat areas, it is very difficult to avoid hitting civilians when they are overrun in battle.

Vietnam Service Emblem

As in the two world wars, service flags and lapel buttons are now authorized by the Defense Department under regulations that soon should make a display of these symbols of personal response to the colors nationwide. For more than a million homes will be authorized to fly service flags for the men and women, half of whom are now in Vietnam, the rest having been rotated out after completing their term of service.

Flags with a blue star on a white field may be displayed by members of the serviceman's immediate family, for each family member on active duty, or who has served his term. In the case of the death of a military member of the family while on active duty, a smaller gold star may be superimposed over and within the border of the blue star. Organizations may show a flag with a single blue star and a numeral indicating the number on active duty.

Naturally, the flags and lapel buttons may not be used for advertising or commercial purposes. Manufacturers meeting the design specifications should have the emblems on sale within a few months. By spring at least, they should be available for public use. They will be a strong refutation of the dissenters who have mocked patriotism by their protests.

Collecting Taxes

All but seven states are now co-operating with the federal government in an effort to lead the taxpayer not into temptation.

With Alaska the latest to join the list, 43 states, plus the District of Columbia, are swapping information with the Internal Revenue Service to help track down and collect taxes, reports Commerce Clearing House.

The IRS, for instance, uses state information to facilitate enforcement of highway use taxes, motor fuel and transportation taxes. The state uses federal information to make sure that taxpayers are really paying the state levies they claim as deductions on their federal income tax returns.

The computer is in there, too, of course. Automatic data processing systems using high-speed magnetic tape are making tax info exchange faster and more accurate.

Foreign Minister Tran Van Do of South Vietnam bases his prediction of an end of the war in the foreseeable future on some solid facts. He said the situation in North Vietnam is almost disastrous and the Communist Chinese have had to reduce their aid. Two good reasons if the enemy will listen to reason.

Dr. Kenneth Sell of the U.S. Naval Medical Research Institute says several dogs which have received heart transplants are still alive two years after the surgical transfer. Prospects for such long-term success in the case of the South African patient who received a heart transplant depends on how the human body accepts the strange organ the first 10 to 11 days.

Police in Indonesia have a new way of curing crime. They shaved the head of a businessman who defrauded people with a sex stimulant and the heads of three abductors of a young woman. Each shaved head was paraded with signs proclaiming their misdeeds. Here, they would appeal that their rights have been trespassed.

"I Stand on My Constitutional Rights!"

David Lawrence Says Party Responsibility Absent in Congress

By DAVID LAWRENCE
WASHINGTON—"Responsibility government" is a phrase that has long been given a special meaning in political science as an attribute of democracy, but "irresponsible government" would more accurately describe the present relations between the President and the Congress of the United States.

The latest example of disunity has been revealed in a speech by President Johnson, on the one hand, and the contrary opinion subsequently voiced by Senator Mike Mansfield, Democrat, the leader of the majority party in the United States Senate. Mr. Johnson, in his address before the AFL-CIO convention on Tuesday night, said that 47 Democrats were defeated in the 1966 Congressional elections and were "replaced by 47 Republican nay sayers."

The President stressed, moreover, that a substantial percentage of Republicans had voted against legislation which he had recommended to the present Congress. But he made no mention of those Republicans who had voted to support his programs.

Senator Mansfield the next day, on the other hand, took occasion to credit the Republicans with providing the margin of victory for many of these same administration bills. He said:

"There are nay-sayers and yes-sayers in both parties. So if any blame is to be placed, it should be spread impartially."
Mr. Johnson caught the point and thereupon declared that "everything Congress does has help from both sides, to some degree."

The tragedy of this debate, however, is that, while it brings out into the open a weakness in the American system—the absence of party responsibility—no remedy is being offered to cure the defect.

Congress is floundering today largely because the two major parties are split. Coalitions are formed for reasons of expediency as each measure of vital importance comes up for a vote. The Republican leaders have no more control over their members than do the Democratic leaders.

There was a time in American history when members of each political party in Congress met in a formal "caucus" and privately threshed out their differences. Once a majority in that conference favored a particular bill, the dissenting members were virtually bound by the decision and found it necessary to vote with the majority of their own party.

The real reason why members of either the Republican or Democratic party in Congress do not follow the leadership of their own party is that they feel that may not be able always to justify this to their constituents back home. Loyalty to a party means less and less nowadays, as individual members seek at the polls the support of voters in both parties. Unfortunately, such a system leads only to confusion and to the passage of "compromise" legislation that is not liked by the majority in either party.

In previous years, members of Congress were satisfied to make public protest against a particular piece of legislation and also to cast their votes against it in a party caucus. This was designed to let constituents back home know that everything possible had been done and that there was danger of losing a formal affiliation with the party by a refusal to vote for such measures as the caucus had approved.

Today no conferences within each party are binding upon the members. With few exceptions, moreover, such dissenters run on the party ticket, too. As a rule, they get the benefit also of party funds and the campaign support of party leaders.

In Great Britain, where occasionally there are dissents within a party, the normal course is to support the decisions of the party conference. When a substantial number of the members disagree and vote with the opposition party, an election frequently is called to decide whether or not a new major party should take power.

In this country no effective system to achieve harmony within each party is in existence. The result is that on every piece of legislation each member can act as an individual irrespective of responsibility to his party.

Some day the American system will have to be revised so that there will be party discipline. Only then will the people be able to fix responsibility upon the political party to which they have given the majority of their votes in an election.

gray on the cheek. Well, no use bothering Denise with it. He faked dinner, pushing the chops and carrots from one side of the plate to the other and, when the news started on television, Charlie retired. Denise did too; she was never permitted to see a late show. He said "Night" and turned on his side. He didn't believe in God, or a hereafter, but he believed in Denise and, for a moment, Charlie longed to kiss her goodbye.

But that would have alarmed her, because he hadn't done it in years. It made Charlie feel sad, to know he was going off into an eternal void without even saying "You were a good kid." She deserved something. Suddenly, the chill deepened and he clamped his knees and teeth together and he wondered if, all along, people who die know about it but find it impossible to tell anybody.

He began to be afraid, which was another strange emotion. If only it would come quick, like a flash, and take him. He didn't want to die whimpering. The wrists were locked between his bare bony knees, and Charlie felt that he was trying to breathe under water. Then darkness engulfed him and he and the night were as one. There was no past, no present, no future, just a whirling of cold space. In the morning, Denise shut off the alarm clock, stretched her tired limbs, and reached for a robe.

She went over to Charlie's side of the bed and caressed his shoulder. "Charlie," she murmured. "Charlie," she stirred. The rheumy old eyes opened. He studied the plain face of his wife. Tears stood in the almond bowls of his lids, and they did not fall. They shimmered. He whispered: "I never knew how beautiful you look." ...

Drew Pearson Says News Coverage Charged With Impeding U.S.-Viet Diplomacy

On Nov. 26 Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson reported that one of the top OAS lobbyists for a new Secretary General was Luis Raul Betances, OAS administrative director, despite the fact that OAS officials were forbidden to try to influence the election. Betances, it was reported, had been decorated by Panama and was lobbying for the Panamanian ambassador.

On December 1 Betances was suspended by the OAS for lobbying.

WASHINGTON—Freedom of the press and the efficiency of diplomacy are clashing in Vietnam. American diplomats appear frustrated and furious over American newspaper stories, and have complained in dispatches to Washington that the U.S. press seems to be working against them. The press alienates Asian leaders faster than the diplomats can placate them, it is alleged.

What happens is that Asian leaders read the American newspapers and news magazines avidly and seize upon the slightest insult, real or fancied, to blow up a storm. Diplomats are convinced that it was the American press which turned both Prince Sihanouk of Cambodia and Ne Win of Burma against the United States.

Prince Sihanouk has bitterly resented glib press depictions of him as "mercurial" and "volatile." References to his saxophone-tooting, play-boy past have turned him purple with rage.

One reason why the State Department encouraged Jacqueline Kennedy to visit Cambodia was to melt Sihanouk toward the United States. But State Department diplomats claim that American newsmen took advantage of Sihanouk's new leniency to do some snooping. They discovered what they claimed was a vacated Viet Cong camp inside Cambodia. Angriily, Sihanouk returned to his rigid, anti-American stance and thereafter barred all U.S. newsmen from his country.

General Ne Win of Burma was also softening toward America when he read a recent issue of Time magazine which incorrectly reported that he was isolating himself from the public and that the U.S. was supplying him with counter-insurgency weapons in violation of his neutrality policy. Like Sihanouk, the general immediately hardened again toward Washington.

Irrked King of Thailand

Even Thailand's King Bhumibol, strongly pro-American, has got his back up at times over U.S. press reports. He was incensed, for example, over stories that he had been afraid to step out of his helicopter during a set-down in the troubled northeast region of his country. Actually, he had started out boldly from the helicopter, but his security guards pleaded with him to come back.

He was furious, too, over press descriptions of his troops in Vietnam as "mercenaries." Actually they are poorly-paid soldiers, many of them draftees, from the regular Thai army. The king was also upset over embarrassing—and inaccurate—news reports that U.S. planes were bombing communist positions inside Thailand.

Asian leaders, who largely control their own press, have difficulty separating U.S. news accounts from official pronouncements. They also haven't developed the American politicians' tough skin regarding press criticism. Result: A news story such as Time's recent report on Burma can actually cause a setback in diplomatic relations.

In this case, Time told of the reported shipments of U.S. counter-insurgency weapons to Burma and the presence of a mission to train Burmese pilots. Time added that the United States was not anxious to get bogged down in Burma, declaring: "The country's rapid rate of deterioration makes South Vietnam seem almost a model of stability."

The story was lifted straight out of the Far Eastern Economic Review, which published it under the byline of Peter Boog. He is described in diplomatic dispatches as an "unreliable" news stringer who worked for several years in Burma and moved recently to Hong Kong.

The truth is that no U.S. shipments of counter-insurgency weapons have been requested by Burma nor are any anticipated. Furthermore, General Ne Win was touring Burma, mingling with his people first in northern Burma, then in southern Burma, during the period Time magazine reported he "had not been seen in public."

While such inaccuracies would hardly disturb a U.S. politician, the article outraged Ne Win and seriously damaged American-Burmese relations.

Capitol News Capsules

Ungrateful Guest—The American Embassy in Zambia gave a party honoring South African folk singer Miriam Makeba, who has appeared on the Ed Sullivan show and other TV broadcasts in this country. Immediately after the party in her honor, Miss Makeba headed straight for Tanzania to appear on the same platform with the black power rabble-rouser, Stokely Carmichael, where she sang anti-American, pro-communist songs. The rally was so viciously anti-American that 12 American passengers aboard a ship in port were warned it would be dangerous for them to go ashore.

Greek Troublemaker—Gen. George Grivas, ordered home from Cyprus to avert war between Greece and Turkey, has been placed under guard. The ruling military junta blames Grivas for precipitating the Cyprus crisis by killing Turkish Cypriots. The incidence nearly provoked war with Turkey and forced the Greek military junta to make humiliating concessions, including the withdrawal of 18,000 Greek troops from Cyprus. This was what touched off King Constantine's revolt.

GOP Gold Dust Twins—The two GOP Congressmen frequently called the Gold Dust twins, Albert Quie, Minn., and Charles Goodell, N.Y., finally came to a parting of the ways over the OEO anti-poverty bill. Quie voted for the bill, Goodell voted no. Quie explained on the floor that he had done a lot of soul-searching, but did not reveal that he was under heavy pressure from civil and church groups in Minnesota who want to provide jobs for the poor.

Henry J. Taylor Says

Yuletide Disaster Hits Miss Gabor

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

In a development that should have dimmed all other news Miss Gabor is in hot water for her TV commercials urging you and me to repair the gear boxes and transmissions in our jalopies at $4.50 a throw.

Hungary's Sarah Bernhardt has billeted into this electronic field—no stranger to bonanzas and friendly as a Turkish towel.

The disarming result, however, is that Miss Gabor has been "assessed" (and paid) $1,000 for applying her talent and whatnot in behalf of a repair outfit called Aarmco, headquartered in a town unabashedly named King of Prussia, Pennsylvania.

You don't get much of such constructive oratory as Miss Gabor's any more and she was presumed to know this company as well as she knows her own clothes closet or her equestrian Magyar ancestors knew their ponies. She was also presumed to know the dangers of serving in something of the function that a pilot fish serves a shark. But, alas, she did not. And Leo Durocher had come and gone in this slot unsashed.

New York State Attorney General Louis Lefkowitz's consumer fraud department charged some Aarmco franchise holders with the "repair" of nonexistent parts in the $4.50 deal and the alleged procurement of misrepresented transmission materials from junk shops, a source surely frowned upon by Miss Gabor, a very with-it gypsy, had she known the truth. The denouement is a pity, and it's unseasonable, but, as Jimmy Durante says, "It's the conditions that prevail."

Meanwhile, on another unseasonable front, uninsured father-of-five William N. Debnam drove into a Paterson, N.J., telephone pole. Superior Court Judge Harold Kolovsky ruled that the state's Unsatisfied Claims Fund was entitled to $9,000 from him for the pole and his injured passengers. Judge Kolovsky stipulated payment at $5 a month.

Mr. Debnam takes home $80 a week. Noting that it would take Mr. Debnam 150 years to pay his sudden debt his boss has given him a raise.

The New York Telephone Company, in turn, is paying $8 million a year. Repairs Manager Paul D. Covill tells me, just to keep its coin phones working. The coin instruments, including 3,700 sidewalk booths, are hit by a problem that is sweeping the country like the Loch Ness monster coming up out of the deep.

You drop in your hard-earned dime. Nothing happens except that you lose your dime, and as many coins as you put in.

Our telephones are the envy of the world. In France 313,000 people are awaiting phone service. Installation delays average 14 months. In Moscow only central points have directories. Tokyo has a low subscribers' rate but the installation costs $450. A phone installation in Mexico can cost as much as $2,000. But our paradise has been invaded by The Stuffer.

For your information, the Stuffer is a predatory citizen who jams coins in a special way. Then he returns, on a route he's selected, uses his "unstuffing" method and gets eight or 10 dimes at a crack.

An average 40 phones on his daily route that yield an average 80 cents each brings the Stuffer an income of $32 a day, tax free, which is of itself an outstanding incentive through the gyp section in the Great Society.

Mr. Covill told me that science is charging into the situation, however, to close the gap on this type of untaxed free enterprise and save us our last dimes as well.

The Bell System is starting to equip its coin boxes with an anti-stuffing gadget. The Stuffer still can put the phone out of order, but the profit incentive would be sunk without a trace. The coin slot becomes automatically blocked by the new device. You don't lose your dime; the Stuffer gets nothing.

Resnick's Trip

Editor, The Freeman:

Congressman Resnick's

shrill cries parroting the President's war policy would merely be ridiculous if he were not a member of our government.

The image of Mr. Resnick, his children and the remainder of his entourage visiting

South Vietnam in order to report accurately to the American people is less than obscure.

Or is the trip a kind of family-vacation-fact-finding mission. In either case it has all the elements of travesty and the war in Vietnam is too savage and too tragic to be bandied about in such an irresponsible way.

What will Mr. Resnick tell us about corruption in high places? What will Mr. Resnick tell us about the 2,000-

000 refugees created by our scorch-earth policy? What will Mr. Resnick tell us about

65 per cent of the South Vietnamese who oppose the present contrived military government that the United States actually supports? What will

Mr. Resnick tell us about the growing number of articulate

American soldiers who return sick at heart? What will

Mr. Resnick tell us about our persistence in wailing "North Vietnamese aggression," when only 55,000 North Vietnamese soldiers at the very most operate in South Vietnam and that the Americans and the corrupt South Vietnamese military are fighting against an estimated 235,000 indigenous South Vietnamese in what is a civil war?

What will Mr. Resnick tell us about land reform, about poisonous chemicals that have polluted countless acres in South Vietnam? And what will Mr. Resnick tell us about

Brown & Root, the Texas

based construction company who have supported Presi-

Johnson's political rise to power and who have been awarded the chief contracts in the one billion, six million

What will Mr. Resnick tell us about all these?

Civilian Casualties

The war in South Vietnam is harsh for civilians there. It is more lethal for civilians than for combatants. Based on the available information, the civilian toll in South Vietnam will reach 100,000 this year—76,000 wounded and 24,000 killed, with by far the greatest number due to Viet Cong terrorists and raids.

That will compare with the expected total military combat deaths of 19,000—projected from the 11-month figure of 8,001 Americans and 9,566 South Vietnamese killed. These figures do not include other allied casualties or American and South Vietnamese military wounded.

In the first 11 months this year, Government statistics show that Viet Cong terrorists killed 3,487 civilians, wounded 6,861 and kidnapped 4,487. Of the rest of the casualties, 40 per cent were attributed to Viet Cong raids, booby traps and mines; 30 per cent to allied artillery and air strikes and 30 per cent to small arms fire, mortar rounds and other weapons in direct engagements leading to liberation of their towns and villages.

The allies are doing everything possible to keep civilian casualties as low as possible. Military operations and air and artillery strikes are coordinated with the Vietnamese province and district chiefs. Pilots are carefully briefed. Warning leaflets are often dropped before allied action. In a war of movement, where there are few fixed combat areas, it is very difficult to avoid hitting civilians when they are overrun in battle.

Vietnam Service Emblem

As in the two world wars, service flags and lapel buttons are now authorized by the Defense Department under regulations that soon should make a display of these symbols of personal response to the colors nationwide. For more than a million homes will be authorized to fly service flags for the men and women, half of whom are now in Vietnam, the rest having been rotated out after completing their term of service.

Flags with a blue star on a white field may be displayed by members of the serviceman's immediate family, for each family member on active duty, or who has served his term. In the case of the death of a military member of the family while on active duty, a smaller gold star may be superimposed over and within the border of the blue star. Organizations may show a flag with a single blue star and a numeral indicating the number on active duty.

Naturally, the flags and lapel buttons may not be used for advertising or commercial purposes. Manufacturers meeting the design specifications should have the emblems on sale within a few months. By spring at least, they should be available for public use. They will be a strong refutation of the dissenters who have mocked patriotism by their protests.

Collecting Taxes

All but seven states are now co-operating with the federal government in an effort to lead the taxpayer not into temptation.

With Alaska the latest to join the list, 43 states, plus the District of Columbia, are swapping information with the Internal Revenue Service to help track down and collect taxes, reports Commerce Clearing House.

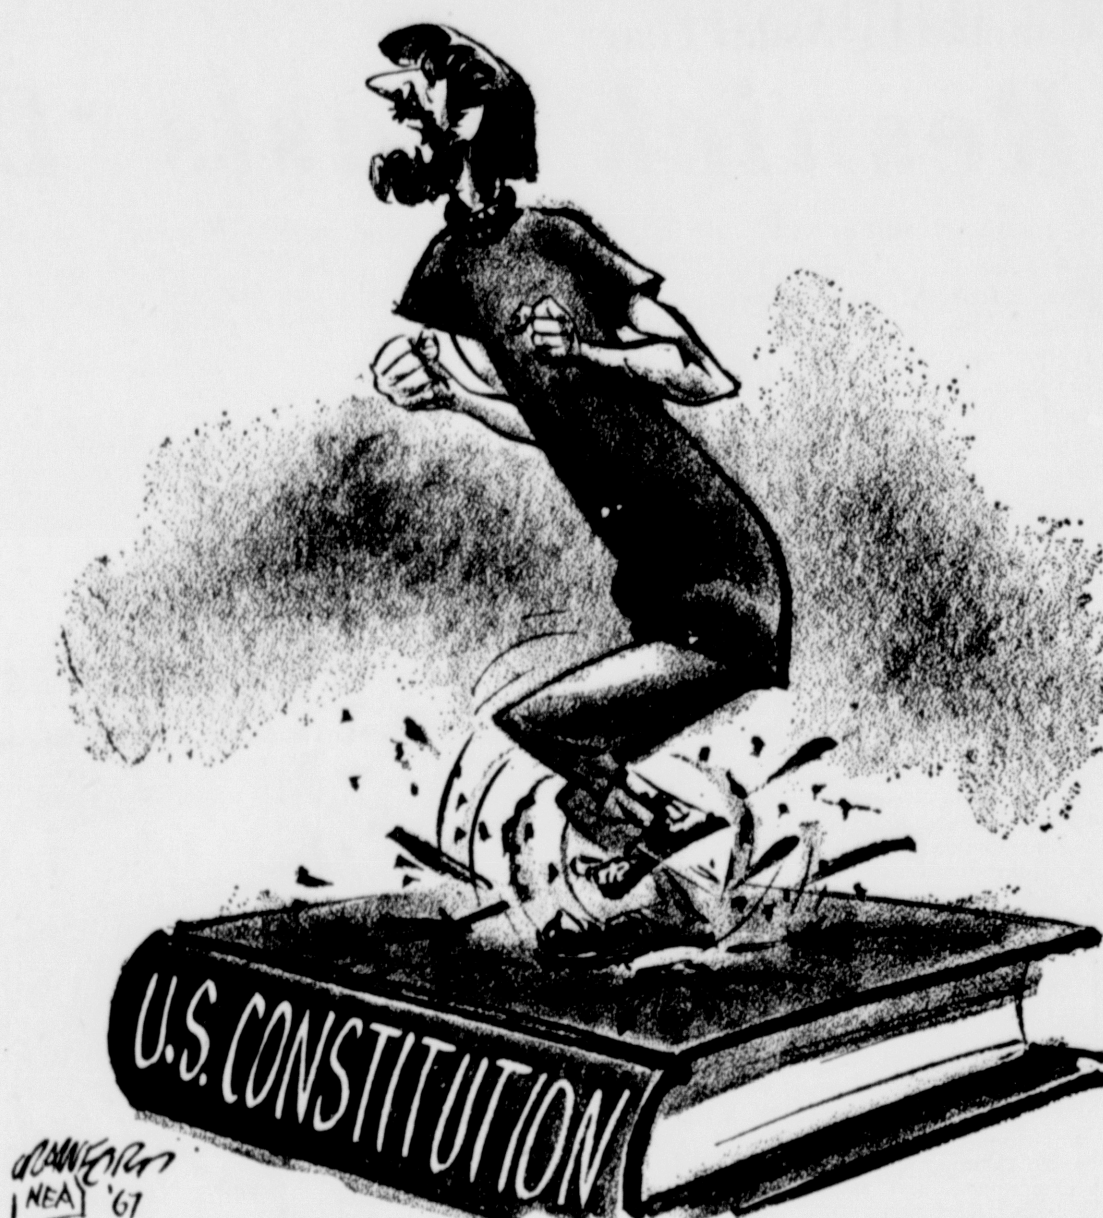

The IRS, for instance, uses state information to facilitate enforcement of highway use taxes, motor fuel and transportation taxes. The state uses federal information to make sure that taxpayers are really paying the state levies they claim as deductions on their federal income tax returns.

The computer is in there, too, of course. Automatic data processing systems using high-speed magnetic tape are making tax info exchange faster and more accurate.

Foreign Minister Tran Van Do of South Vietnam bases his prediction of an end of the war in the foreseeable future on some solid facts. He said the situation in North Vietnam is almost disastrous and the Communist Chinese have had to reduce their aid. Two good reasons if the enemy will listen to reason.

Dr. Kenneth Sell of the U.S. Naval Medical Research Institute says several dogs which have received heart transplants are still alive two years after the surgical transfer. Prospects for such long-term success in the case of the South African patient who received a heart transplant depends on how the human body accepts the strange organ the first 10 to 11 days.

Police in Indonesia have a new way of curing crime. They shaved the head of a businessman who defrauded people with a sex stimulant and the heads of three abductors of a young woman. Each shaved head was paraded with signs proclaiming their misdeeds. Here, they would appeal that their rights have been trespassed.

"I Stand on My Constitutional Rights!"

David Lawrence Says Party Responsibility Absent in Congress

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—"Responsible government" is a phrase that has long been given a special meaning in political science as an attribute of democracy, but "irresponsible government" would more accurately describe the present relations between the President and the Congress of the United States.

The latest example of disunity has been revealed in a speech by President Johnson, on the one hand, and the contrary opinion subsequently voiced by Senator Mike Mansfield, Democrat, the leader of the majority party in the United States Senate.

Mr. Johnson, in his address before the AFL-CIO convention on Tuesday night, said that 47 Democrats were defeated in the 1966 Congressional elections and were "replaced by 47 Republican nay sayers."

The President stressed, moreover, that a substantial percentage of Republicans had voted against legislation which he had recommended to the present Congress. But he made no mention of those Republicans who had voted to support his programs.

Senator Mansfield the next day, on the other hand, took occasion to credit the Republicans with providing the margin of victory for many of these same administration bills. He said:

"There are nay-sayers and yes-sayers in both parties. So if any blame is to be placed, it should be spread impartially."

Mr. Johnson caught the point and thereupon declared that "everything Congress does has help from both sides, to some degree."

The tragedy of this debate, however, is that, while it brings out into the open a weakness in the American system—the absence of party responsibility—no remedy is being offered to cure the defect.

Congress is floundering today largely because the two major parties are split. Coalitions are formed for reasons of expediency as each measure of vital importance comes up for a vote. The Republican leaders have no more control over their members than do the Democratic leaders.

There was a time in American history when members of each political party in Congress met in a formal "caucus" and privately threshed out their differences. Once a majority in that conference favored a particular bill, the dissenting members were virtually bound by the decision and found it necessary to vote with the majority of their own party.

The real reason why members of either the Republican or Democratic party in Congress do not follow the leadership of their own party is that they feel that may not be able always to justify this to their constituents back home. Loyalty to a party means less and less nowadays, as individual members seek at the polls the support of voters in both parties. Unfortunately, such a system leads only to confusion and to the passage of "compromise" legislation that is not liked by the majority in either party.

In previous years, members of Congress were satisfied to make public protest against a particular piece of legislation and also to cast their votes against it in a party caucus. This was designed to let constituents back home know that everything possible had been done and that there was danger of losing a formal affiliation with the party by a refusal to vote for such measures as the caucus had approved.

Today no conferences within each party are binding upon the members. With few exceptions, moreover, such dissenters run on the party ticket. To a rule, they get the benefit also of party funds and the campaign support of party leaders.

In Great Britain, while occasionally there are dissents within a party, the normal course is to support the decisions of the party conference. When a substantial number of the members disagree and vote with the opposition party, an election frequently is called to decide whether or not a new majority should take power.

In this country no effective system to achieve harmony within each party is in existence. The result is that on every piece of legislation each member can act as an individual irrespective of responsibility to his party.

Some day the American system will have to be revised so that there will be party discipline. Only then will the people be able to fix responsibility upon the political party to which they have given the majority of their votes in an election.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The thought was so insidious that, in retrospect, it had no beginning. All afternoon he had been beset by a vague depression, an unease, a silent sinking. Around the boardyard, Charlie had always been strident, positive. When the mechanics saw him coming down the narrow walkways between the schooners and cabin cruisers, wrenches began to turn, hammers hit, paint brushes curled red against old hulls.

A tough man, Charlie. He was tall and skinny, with a swirl of uncombed gray on top and a face sagging like an empty valise. He wanted a dollar's worth of work for a dollar and he wasn't afraid to lose a customer who wasn't worth keeping. He was the same at home. Denise knew that, at 5:35 p.m., when he strode through that door, he expected to see dinner plates on the table and the smell of food inching through the rooms.

There were no children. And Denise had long ceased to be a delight. She was a housekeeper, a creature without opinions who washed his work shirts, kept the apartment spotless, and trembled when he said: "What's this?" She was lumpy, a putty face with big blue veins throbbing in her hands.

There had been a picture of her on an end table; a young blonde with winsome face and enormous hope. One night Charlie had picked it up and muttered: "For God's sake" and tossed it into the garbage. Denise begged permission to retrieve it, but Charlie said: "What for? You don't look like that. You're like me, Kid. Over the hill."

It had gone off, in the morning, with the potato peels, the empty cans and bits of paper. She wanted the picture, just to look at once in awhile and think of old times—her mother and father, the sister who married and moved to Canada, and the days of dates and dances. But it was dangerous to cross Charlie, and she watched, dry-eyed, as the garbage men picked up the barrels and took it off.

Then the final day had come for him, and somehow, Charlie knew it. It was a thing without pain, but it was present. Coming home, he rattled along Route 37 and he watched the red sun stand on the cold wind-swept fields and he knew that he would never see another. He didn't need a doctor; it was a feeling so real, so pronounced, that death revealed itself almost as a secret guest.

At the apartment, he growled the gruff hello, with no kiss, and washed in the bathroom and wondered why the thought of death had never occurred to him before. Maybe he had been too busy making that buck. He studied the worn face in the mirror and saw the dullness in the eyes, the gray on the cheek. Well, no use bemoaning Denise with it. He faked dinner, pushing the chops and carrots from one side of the plate to the other and, when the news started on television, Charlie retired. Denise did too; she was never permitted to see a late show. He said "Night" and turned on his side. He didn't believe in God, or a hereafter, but he believed in Denise and, for a moment, Charlie longed to kiss her goodbye.

But that would have alarmed her, because he hadn't done it in years. It made Charlie feel sad, to know he was going off into an eternal void without even saying: "You were a good kid." She deserved something. Suddenly, the chill deepened and he clamped his knees and teeth together and he wondered if, all along, people who die know about it but find it impossible to tell anybody.

He began to be afraid, which was another strange emotion. If only it would come quick, like a flash, and take him. He didn't want to die whimpering. The wrists were locked between his bare bony knees, and Charlie felt that he was trying to breathe under water. Then darkness engulfed him and he and the night were as one. There was no past, no present, no future, just a whirling of cold space. In the morning, Denise shut off the alarm clock, stretched her tired limbs, and reached for a robe.

She went over to Charlie's side of the bed and caressed his shoulder. "Charlie," she murmured. "Charlie." He stirred. The rheumy old eyes opened. He studied the plain face of his wife. Tears stood in the almond boats of his lids, and they did not fall. They shimmered. He whispered: "I never knew how beautiful you look." . . .

Drew Pearson Says News Coverage Charged With Impeding U.S.-Viet Diplomacy

On Nov. 26 Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson reported that one of the top OAS lobbyists for a new Secretary General was Luis Raul Betances, OAS administrative director, despite the fact that OAS officials were forbidden to try to influence the election. Betances, it was reported, had been decorated by Panama and was lobbying for the Panamanian ambassador.

On December 1 Betances was suspended by the OAS for lobbying.

WASHINGTON—Freedom of the press and the efficiency of diplomacy are clashing in Vietnam. American diplomats appear frustrated and furious over American newspaper stories, and have complained in dispatches to Washington that the U.S. press seems to be working against them. The press alienates Asian leaders faster than the diplomats can placate them, it is alleged.

What happens is that Asian leaders read the American newspapers and news magazines avidly and seize upon the slightest insult, real or fancied, to blow up a storm. Diplomats are convinced that it was the American press which turned both Prince Sihanouk of Cambodia and Ne Win of Burma against the United States.

Prince Sihanouk has bitterly resented glib press descriptions of him as "mercurial" and "volatile." References to his saxophone-toting, playboy past have turned him purple with rage.

One reason why the State Department encouraged Jacqueline Kennedy to visit Cambodia was to mellow Sihanouk toward the United States. But State Department diplomats claim that American newsmen took advantage of Sihanouk's new leniency to do some snooping. They discovered what they claimed was a vacated Viet Cong camp inside Cambodia. Angri-ly, Sihanouk returned to his rigid, anti-American stance and thereafter barred all U.S. newsmen from his country.

General Ne Win of Burma was also softening toward America when he read a recent issue of Time magazine which incorrectly reported that he was isolating himself from the public and that the U.S. was supplying him with counter-insurgency weapons in violation of his neutrality policy. Like Sihanouk, the general immediately hardened again toward Washington.

Irked King of Thailand

Even Thailand's King Bhumibol, strongly pro-American, has got his back up at times over U.S. press reports. He was incensed, for example, over stories that he had been afraid to step out of his helicopter during a set-down in the troubled northeast region of his country. Actually, he had started out boldly from the helicopter, but his security guards pleaded with him to come back.

He was furious, too, over press descriptions of his troops in Vietnam as "mercenaries." Actually they are poorly-paid soldiers, many of them draftees, from the regular Thai army. The king was also upset over embarrassing—and inaccurate—news reports that U.S. planes were bombing communist positions inside Thailand.

Asian leaders, who largely control their own press, have difficulty separating U.S. news accounts from official pronouncements. They also haven't developed the American politicians' tough skin regarding press criticism. Result: A news story such as Time's recent report on Burma can actually cause a setback in diplomatic relations.

In this case, Time told of the reported shipments of U.S. counter-insurgency weapons to Burma and the presence of a mission to train Burmese pilots. Time added that the United States was not anxious to get bogged down in Burma, declaring: "The country's rapid rate of deterioration makes South Vietnam seem almost a model of stability."

The story was lifted straight out of the Far Eastern Economic Review, which published it under the byline of Peter Boog. He is described in diplomatic dispatches as an "unreliable" news stringer who worked for several years in Burma and moved recently to Hong Kong.

The truth is that no U.S. shipments of counter-insurgency weapons have been requested by Burma nor are any anticipated. Furthermore, General Ne Win was touring Burma, mingling with his people first in northern Burma, then in southern Burma, during the period Time magazine reported he "had not been seen in public."

While such inaccuracies would hardly disturb a U.S. politician, the article outraged Ne Win and seriously damaged American-Burmese relations.

Ungrateful Guest—The American Embassy in Zambia gave a party honoring South African folk singer Miriam Makeba, who has appeared on the Ed Sullivan show and other TV broadcasts in this country. Immediately after the party in her honor, Miss Makeba headed straight for Tanzania to appear on the same platform with the black power rabble-rouser, Stokely Carmichael, where she sang anti-American, pro-communist songs. The rally was so viciously anti-American and stirred up such anti-American sentiment that 12 American passengers aboard a ship in port were warned it would be dangerous for them to go ashore.

Greek Troublemaker—Gen. George Grivas, ordered home from Cyprus to avert war between Greece and Turkey, has been placed under guard. The ruling military junta blames Grivas for precipitating the Cyprus crisis by killing Turkish Cypriots. The incidence nearly provoked war with Turkey and forced the Greek military junta to make humiliating concessions, including the withdrawal of 18,000 Greek troops from Cyprus. This was what touched off King Constantine's revolt.

GOP Gold Dust Twins—The two GOP Congressmen frequently called the Gold Dust twins, Albert Quie, Minn., and Charles Goodell, N. Y., finally came to a parting of the ways over the OEO anti-poverty bill. Quie voted for the bill, Goodell voted no. Quie explained on the floor that he had done a lot of soul-searching, but did not reveal that he was under heavy pressure from civil and church groups in Minnesota who want to provide jobs for the poor.

Henry J. Taylor Says Yuletide Disaster Hits Miss Gabor

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

In a development that should have dimmed all other news Miss Gabor is in hot water for her TV commercials urging you and me to repair the gear boxes and transmissions in our jalopies at $4.50 a throw.

Hungary's Sarah Bernhardt has billowed into this electronic field—no stranger to bonanzas and friendly as a Turkish towel.

The dismaying result, however, is that Miss Gabor has been "assessed" (and paid) $1,000 for applying her talent and whatnot in behalf of a repair outfit called Aarmco, headquartered in a town unashamedly named King of Prussia, Pennsylvania.

You don't get much of such constructive oratory as Miss Gabor's any more and she was presumed to know this company as well as she knows her own clothes closet or her equestrian Magyar ancestors knew their ponies. She was also presumed to know the dangers of serving in something of the function that a pilot fish serves a shark. But, alas, she did not—and Leo Durocher had come and gone in this slot unscathed.

New York State Attorney General Louis Lefkowitz's consumer fraud department charged some Aarmco franchise holders with the "repair" of nonexistent parts in the $4.50 deal and the alleged procurement of misrepresented transmission materials from junk shops, a source surely frowned upon by Miss Gabor, a very with-it gypsy, had she known the truth. The denouement is a pity, and it's unseemable, but, as Jimmy Durante says, "It's the conditions that prevail."

Meanwhile, on another unseasonable front, uninsured father-of-five William N. Debnam drove into a Paterson, N. J., telephone pole. Superior Court Judge Harold Kolovsky ruled that the state's Unsatisfied Claims Fund was entitled to $9,000 from him for the pole and his injured passengers. Judge Kolovsky stipulated payment at $5 a month.

Mr. Debnam takes home $80 a week. Noting that it would take Mr. Debnam 150 years to pay his sudden debt his boss has given him a raise. The New York Telephone Company, in turn, is paying $8 million a year. Repairs Manager Paul D. Covill tells me, just to keep its coin phones working. The coin instruments, including 3,700 sidewalk booths, are hit by a problem that is sweeping the country like the Loch Ness monster coming up out of the deep.

You drop in your hard-earned dime. Nothing happens except that you lose your dime, and as many coins as you put in.

Our telephones are the envy of the world. In France 313,000 people are awaiting phone service. Installation delays average 14 months. In Moscow only central points have directories. Tokyo has a low subscribers' rate but the installation costs $450. A phone installation in Mexico can cost as much as $2,000. But our paradise has been invaded by The Stuffer.

For your information, the Stuffer is a predatory citizen who jams coins in a special way. Then he returns, on a route he's selected, uses his "unstuffing" method and gets eight or 10 dimes at a crack.

An average 40 phones on his daily route that yield an average 80 cents each brings the Stuffer an income of $32 a day, tax free, which is of itself an outstanding incentive through the gyp section in the Great Society.

Mr. Covill told me that science is charging into the situation, however, to close the gap on this type of untaxed free enterprise and save us our last dimes as well.

The Bell System is starting to equip its coin boxes with an anti-stuffing gadget. The Stuffer still can put the phone out of order, but the profit incentive would be sunk without a trace. The coin slot becomes automatically blocked by the new device. You don't lose your dime; the Stuffer gets nothing.

If I were given to pessimism, I'd say it's quite impossible, but, then again, you may remember what happened recently in Milan, Italy. Burglars attempting to break into a jewelry store bored through the wrong wall, the Milan police have reported, and found themselves in a bakery.

There are stars of hope as well as thunder and lightning in our sky.

New Style Budget Would Raise Federal Spending to $200 Billion

By WILLIAM J. EATON
Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14—President Johnson has ordered the preparation of a new-style budget to send to Congress about Feb. 1. It could raise the annual federal spending total close to the $200 billion level and probably will show a larger deficit than the old-style budget.

Budget Director Charles E. Schultze announced the change-over, based on recommendations of the President's Commission on Budget Concepts last October, would take effect for the fiscal year starting July 1.

The bipartisan commission, headed by Chicago banking executive David M. Kennedy, said the past budget presentations have been too confusing for the taxpayer to understand. They recently have listed three separate budgets—administrative, cash and national income accounts.

By adopting the commission's proposals for a single spending figure, Mr. Johnson is taking considerable political risk in an election year. If the new-style budget had been used last January, for example, the President's spending estimate would have been $175.5 billion instead of $135 billion in the most familiar administrative budget.

His estimated budget deficit a year ago was $8.1 billion, at most, while the commission's budget would have shown $10.3 billion in red-ink.

Excludes Trust Funds
Experts have said the major flaw with the administrative budget is that it excludes the huge, and growing, trust funds under the Social Security and federal highway programs.

Mr. Johnson may have felt adoption of the New Budget might reduce the fiscal credibility gap that has arisen over his claims for spending reductions and Vietnam war expenses. The panel included the Democratic chairman and ranking Republican members of the Senate and House Appropriations Committees, who went along with the reforms suggested.

The President gave ground on one political controversy—inclusion of the so-called

"participation certificates" in the spending totals. Until now, sales of "PC's"—or shares in government loans—have been deducted from spending totals. This cut the budget deficit by a $4 billion or more in the last fiscal year. Republicans called it a "gimmick" to disguise the size of the deficit.

After the commission recommended a switch in budget treatment of "PD's" over the objections of administration members, the President relented. This may help close the credibility gap, too.

At the same time, there may be some sizable shock when the President's New Budget goes to Congress. Treasury observers think it may go as high as $185 billion in fiscal year 1969 and nudge the $200 billion mark a year from now.

Schultze alluded to this problem in a gingerly way. "The 1969 (budget) presentation will require some adjustment in public thinking about government finance," he said in a statement.

"For many years emphasis was placed on the single 'administrative' budget, which excluded Social Security funds, the highway trust funds and other earmarked accounts whose receipts and expenditures exceeded $45 billion."

"The new concept is much more comprehensive. It includes all the funds administered by the federal government. The totals of both receipts and expenditures in current and past year will, therefore, be significantly higher under the new concepts."

The New Concept
Under the new concept, the spending total would have been $175.5 billion for fiscal 1968 and the President would have asked for new spending authority—appropriations—of $192.8 billion.

The three old-style budgets—administrative, cash and national income accounts—won't go into the wastebasket for a while, however. Their totals will be listed during the transition year to provide a point of reference to past budgets.

It will take another two years, Schultze said, to convert the budget to an accrual accounting system as the commission also urged. A presentation on loan subsidies also has been deferred indefinitely.

Guevara's Failure, Clue To Crippling Viet Reds

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Enough information is now available on the death of Ernesto Che Guevara to evaluate the failure of his Communist insurgency in Bolivia.

Guevara's failure has four lessons for Vietnam and future Vietnam.

1—Guevara's insurgency depended almost solely on military force. His primary strategy seemed to be the creation of a guerrilla army which would, by hit-and-run tactics, confuse, demoralize and destroy the Bolivian army.

Guevara's men made little or no attempt to build up a base of support among the country people among whom they operated. They created no friendly people's organizations. They had no interlocking village youth and women's groups and farmers associations and no real political "liberation" front in which the common man participated.

As a result, the farmers and villagers repeatedly informed to the government on the location and movement of Che's men.

2—The farmers and villagers, as Guevara himself remarked, didn't seem interested in the revolution. Bolivia had, in its own way, made a considerable attempt to improve the lot of the farmer. Progress may not have been spectacular, but it has been relatively steady. This limited success apparently was enough to discourage the country people from risking their lives in a shaky guerrilla movement.

3—The Bolivian army, with the co-operation of American aid and intelligence training, struck early—before the Communists had time to build up their strength. The Bolivian forces thus caught Guevara's movement off balance.

Since Communists undergrounds normally take 10 to 20 years to mature, early action is usually possible. If the action is well-planned, the serious fighting phase of the "war" can be short.

4—The Communist groups in Bolivia were split and fighting among themselves. In recent years five Bolivian Marxist-Leninist parties vied with each other. Guevara's men had made little progress in infiltrating the Bolivian miners, among whom anti-government feelings often run strong.

The lessons for Vietnam are clear. It is as important to infiltrate, win over or weed out (through the creation of strong rival organizations) the Viet Cong village and hamlet youth and women's groups, farmer's associations and other local political organizations as it is to win military battles.

It is essential to take steps to exploit the difference between local Viet Cong groups in the south and between the VC and Hanoi.

It is necessary to step up further the actions that will create among South Vietnam's villagers the belief their own government will give them the chance to improve their own future.

The Guevara episode makes it clear that it is much less costly in lives, money and suffering to nip future Red subversive insurgencies when they are young and weak—whether in Asia, Latin America or Africa. Vietnam cost too much.

Viet Cong's National Goals

By BETTY FLYNN
Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

UNITED NATIONS, Dec. 14—The Viet Cong use of the United Nations to circulate a text of their "national goals" reinforces their attempts to demonstrate independence from Hanoi and Peking, some diplomats here believe.

The Rumanian delegation, after hesitating for five days, submitted a 27-page document to Sec-Gen. U. Thant late Tuesday on behalf of The National Liberation Front of Vietnam.

The text will be released today to 122 member delegations and the press.

The document is believed to be a 7,500-word text of the Viet Cong "National Program," formulated last summer and published in September.

Some diplomats here believe recent Viet Cong diplomatic moves indicate it wants to demonstrate its independence from Hanoi and Peking.

Western sources, including the U. S., Britain and France, point out the Viet Cong are dependent on Hanoi for military and political support.

However, some non-aligned delegates say the Viet Cong, in using the U. N. as a forum, goes against the Hanoi and Peking view that the U. N. is not competent to deal with the matter of Vietnam.

A Viet Cong effort earlier this fall to send two or three persons to lobby at the U. N. was squelched when the U. S. made it clear it would receive NLF representatives only if they came on official business.

U. S. Ambassador to the U. N. Arthur J. Goldberg has polled Security Council members on their willingness to agree to discussing Vietnam at a meeting.

However, the final decision on whether the U. S. should push for such a council meeting has not yet been made.

Why the Viet Cong chose Rumania as the channel through which it would contact the U. N. has puzzled some analysts here, as Bucharest is not one of the 19 capitals in which the NLF has offices.

Some say Rumania was asked to transmit the Viet Cong request because Foreign Minister Corniliu Manescu is the president of the General Assembly, and thus would lend his prestige to their move.

Pilot and House Hawk Differ on Sanctuaries

By PETER LISAGOR
Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14—A returning U. S. fighter pilot and a veteran House hawk have made separate and coincidental responses to President Johnson's appeal for some "workable" plan to help end the war in Vietnam.

Their proposals came amid rising speculation that administration policymakers are taking a fresh look at the enemy "sanctuaries" in Cambodia and Laos. The White House has declined comment on whether the possibility of "hot pursuit," long advocated by military commanders in Vietnam, is being considered.

Mr. Johnson permitted Col. Daniel "Chappie" James Jr., combat ace in both Korea and Vietnam, to use the cabinet room at the White House to state his quiet opposition to a bombing pause and to express the view that he would like to see Haiphong harbor "go up."

The President, who introduced the strapping Negro to reporters, left the room before James himself began to answer questions and was not aware of the pilot's responses.

Asked what he had told the President, James reviewed briefly the nature of the air campaign over North Vietnam, the fact that the enemy is "putting up a lot of stuff these days," and the hampering influence of the weather in the next few months.

He then said that what fighter pilots hate most is "to stand down," to let up in pressure on the enemy, because such pauses make the air war tougher when it resumes. The air strikes slow down the movement of goods and supplies into the south, he said.

But James stood opposed to Chairman L. Mendel Rivers (D.-S.C.) of the House Armed Services Committee on the issue of "hot pursuit" into Cambodia and Laos.

Rivers said that a secret investigation by a subcommittee headed by Rep. Porter Hardy (D.-Va.) left no question that the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces were using Cambodia as a sanctuary and staging area for offensive actions in South Vietnam.

The subcommittee, Rivers reported, believes that "adequate surveillance measures are not being carried out," and that "immediate steps should be taken to correct these intolerable situations."

For his part, pilot James said he liked to chase any enemy in his sights to the kill. But he added that the "political implications warrant our policy of not permitting hot pursuit."

ently suspecting the reactions here to recent enemy actions at Dak To and Loc Ninh, in which heavy casualties were inflicted on U. S. and allied forces by the Communists, who fled across the border, has warned against carrying the war across the Cambodian and Laotian borders.

But the U. S. military in Vietnam, led by Gen. William C. Westmoreland, have complained that the enemy's sanctuary strategy places the allies at an intolerable disadvantage and forces risky "thin-outs" of troops elsewhere in Vietnam. They have made no secret of their desire to pursue the enemy to their base camps.

New Style Budget Would Raise Federal Spending to $200 Billion

By WILLIAM J. EATON
Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14—President Johnson has ordered the preparation of a new-style budget to send to Congress about Feb. 1. It could raise the annual federal spending total close to the $200 billion level and probably will show a larger deficit than the old-style budget.

Budget Director Charles E. Schultze announced the change-over, based on recommendations of the President's Commission on Budget Concepts last October, would take effect for the fiscal year starting July 1.

The bipartisan commission, headed by Chicago banking executive David M. Kennedy, said the past budget presentations have been too confusing for the taxpayer to understand. They recently have listed three separate budgets—administrative, cash and national income accounts.

By adopting the commission's proposals for a single spending figure, Mr. Johnson is taking considerable political risk in an election year. If the new-style budget had been used last January, for example, the President's spending estimate would have been $175.5 billion instead of $135 billion in the most familiar administrative budget.

His estimated budget deficit a year ago was $8.1 billion, at most, while the commission's budget would have shown $10.3 billion in red-ink.

Excludes Trust Funds
Experts have said the major flaw with the administrative budget is that it excludes the huge, and growing, trust funds under the Social Security and federal highway programs.

Mr. Johnson may have felt adoption of the New Budget might reduce the fiscal credibility gap that has arisen over his claims for spending reductions and Vietnam war expenses. The panel included the Democratic chairmen and ranking Republican members of the Senate and House Appropriations Committees, who went along with the reforms suggested.

The President gave ground on one political controversy—inclusion of the so-called

"participation certificates" in the spending totals. Until now, sales of "PC's"—or shares in government loans—have been deducted from spending totals. This cut the budget deficit by a $4 billion or more in the last fiscal year. Republicans called it a "gimmick" to disguise the size of the deficit.

After the commission recommended a switch in budget treatment of "PD's" over the objections of administration members, the President relented. This may help close the credibility gap, too.

At the same time, there may be some sizable shock when the President's New Budget goes to Congress. Treasury observers think it may go as high as $185 billion in fiscal year 1969 and nudge the $200 billion mark a year from now.

Schultze alluded to this problem in a glibly way. "The 1969 (budget) presentation will require some adjustment in public thinking about government finance," he said in a statement.

"For many years emphasis was placed on the single 'administrative' budget, which excluded Social Security funds, the highway trust funds and other earmarked accounts whose receipts and expenditures exceeded $45 billion."

"The new concept is much more comprehensive. It includes all the funds administered by the federal government. The totals of both receipts and expenditures in current and past year will, therefore, be significantly higher under the new concepts."

The New Concept
Under the new concept, the spending total would have been $175.5 billion for fiscal 1968 and the President would have asked for new spending authority—appropriations—of $192.8 billion.

The three old-style budgets—administrative, cash and national income accounts—won't go into the wastebasket for awhile, however. Their totals will be listed during the transition year to provide a point of reference to past budgets.

It will take another two years, Schultze said, to convert the budget to an accrual accounting system as the commission also urged. A presentation on loan subsidies also has been deferred indefinitely.

Guevara's Failure, Clue To Crippling Viet Reds

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Enough information is now available on the death of Ernesto Che Guevara to evaluate the failure of his Communist insurgency in Bolivia.

Guevara's failure has four lessons for Vietnam and future Vietnam.

1—Guevara's insurgency depended almost solely on military force. His primary strategy seemed to be the creation of a guerrilla army which would, by hit-and-run tactics, confuse, demoralize and destroy the Bolivian army.

Guevara's men made little or no attempt to build up a base of support among the country people among whom they operated. They created no friendly people's organizations. They had no interlocking village youth and women's groups and farmers' associations and no real political "liberation" front in which the common man participated.

As a result, the farmers and villagers repeatedly informed to the government on the location and movement of Che's men.

2—The farmers and villagers, as Guevara himself remarked, didn't seem interested in the revolution. Bolivia had, in its own way, made a considerable attempt to improve the lot of the farmer. Progress may not have been spectacular, but it has been relatively steady. This limited success apparently was enough to discourage the country people from risking their lives in a shaky guerrilla movement.

3—The Bolivian army, with the co-operation of American aid and intelligence training, struck early—before the Communists had time to build up their strength. The Bolivian forces thus caught Guevara's movement off balance.

Since Communists undergrounds normally take 10 to 20 years to mature, early action is usually possible. If the action is well-planned, the serious fighting phase of the "war" can be short.

4—The Communist groups in Bolivia were split and fighting among themselves. In recent years five Bolivian Marxist-Leninist parties vied with each other. Guevara's men had made little progress in infiltrating the Bolivian miners, among whom anti-government feelings often run strong.

The lessons for Vietnam are clear. It is as important to infiltrate, win over or weed out (through the creation of strong, rival organizations) the Viet Cong village and hamlet youth and women's groups, farmer's associations and other local political organizations as it is to win military battles.

It is essential to take steps to exploit the difference between local Viet Cong groups in the south and between the VC and Hanoi.

It is necessary to step up further the actions that will create among South Vietnam's villagers the belief their own government will give them the chance to improve their own future.

The Guevara episode makes it clear that it is much less costly in lives, money and suffering to nip future Red subversive insurgencies when they are young and weak—whether in Asia, Latin America or Africa. Vietnam cost too much.

The Talk Was Economy But Congress Voted Much Money

BY WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
WASHINGTON (AP) — The 90th Congress adjourned its first session after a prolonged running battle with President Johnson over taxes and spending. It talked much of economy but voted a record-breaking budget, hiked Social Security payments and raised the pay of federal employees, including the military.

Returns Jan. 15
It shelved Johnson's proposal for a 10 per cent income tax surcharge but provided for sharply increased payroll levies to finance the broadened Social Security benefits. And it boosted postal rates.
It will return Jan. 15 to pick up where it left off, with a lot of unfinished business at hand for the presidential election year.

The 11-month session that started last Jan. 10 was highlighted by refusal to consider the President's request for an inflation-fighting tax increase and a last-minute directive to the administration to cut spending about $4.1 billion—with Congress excluded from the reduction.

It was the longest session since 1963, when adjournment came on Dec. 30.

The 90th did not kill any of Johnson's "Great Society" programs enacted by the 89th Congress when there were 47 more Democrats in the House and four more in the Senate. But it reshaped some of them and cramped others financially.

It was a Congress frustrated by prolongation of the war in Vietnam, a burgeoning government deficit, rising crime and racial conflict, and the threat of higher taxes—along with the spectre of facing the voters next year under those politically embarrassing conditions.

Record Defense Fund
It voted more for national defense, $82.13 billion, than any other Congress. Its total appropriations of around $157 billion set a record.

Although he described it as "a productive Congress," President Johnson didn't think much of its increased Republican membership. He referred to the GOP minority as "wooden soldiers of the status quo" who tried to kill some of his domestic programs.

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan agreed that it was "a productive Congress," but credited what he called its good record to the presence of more Republicans.

Even some of the President's once stalwart backers in his own party fell out with him over the war in Vietnam. Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, missed few opportunities to jab at Johnson on foreign policy. And at the session's end Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota was trying to wrest the 1968 presidential nomination from Johnson.

It extended the draft law for four years; gave the anti-poverty program a two-year lease; continued the Teachers Corps; extended the food-stamp program; increased Social Security benefits; provided new benefits for veterans, enacted a reserve forces "bill of rights"; passed a meat-inspection law; raised the pay of government employees; boosted postal rates; financed the model-cities and rent subsidy programs; and continued the foreign-aid program with reduced financing.

Not acted on finally, in addition to tax increases, was legislation dealing with crime prevention, congressional reorganization, detailed disclosure of interest charges, protection of civil rights, copyright law revision, gun control, and election-law reforms.

Some of the major measures left on the shelf with adjournment have passed either the Senate or the House and will be in a position for advancement next year. Some have not yet emerged from committees.

In the field of national defense and internal security, Congress enacted laws to authorize procurement of $25 billion worth of military equipment, to build $2.3 billion worth of military housing and other construction, to spend $2.6 billion for Atomic Energy Commission projects, and to continue the loan of naval vessels to friendly nations.

In international affairs, it did these things:

—Increased the U.S. share of financing the International Development Bank's fund for special operations.

—Continued the Peace Corps program.

—Ratified a treaty for exploration and use of outer space.

—Ratified the U.S.-Soviet consular agreement.

Domestic legislation enacted included:

—A ban against a threatened railroad strike pending recommendations of a special labor board.

—An increase in the national debt ceiling.

—Extension of the Appalachian Regional Development program.

—Extension of the life of the Civil Rights Commission.

—Creation of a Public Broadcasting Corporation to facilitate development of educational and cultural television and radio.

—Reorganization of the District of Columbia government.

—Extension of the Community Health Centers program.

—Authority for the Interior Department to participate in construction and operation of nuclear-power and sea-water desalting programs.

Sherlock Holmes Letters Have Urgency Ring

BY GRANVILLE WATTS
LONDON (AP) — The Abbey National Building Society receives some curious mail, filled with such phrases as "the police are stumped" and "I beg of you please hurry."

The letters are addressed to Sherlock Holmes, the famous fictional detective who solved the most mysterious cases and explained afterward to his assistant, "Elementary, my dear Watson."

The problem is that Holmes' creator, author Arthur Conan Doyle, gave him an address of 221B Baker St. There is no 221B today, but there is a 221—the Abbey National Building Society, one of Britain's biggest home loan companies. Postmen deliver the Holmes letters there.

It seems a good many people believe that Holmes not only existed—but is still alive.

At a rough guess this would make Holmes 113 years old.

"We get at least one letter a week," said an Abbey employee.

"Some of those who write, particularly from abroad, clearly believe that Holmes really exists."

Among hundreds of letters received over the years are many from behind the Iron Curtain.

Many simply ask Holmes for his autograph or photograph but others have a desperate ring.

Occasional letters are obvious hoaxes.

Where people appear to be in genuine difficulties, the writers are advised to get in touch with a lawyer or the police.

Abbey employees appear to be as good Holmes fans as the next man and writers are let down gently.

They are told: "We are sure you are aware that Mr. Holmes is no longer with us."

Two Injured In Accidents
Two women were treated at area hospitals Sunday following two separate accidents, police report.

Ursula J. Valle, 23, of 484 Delaware Avenue, was treated at Kingston Hospital for lacerations of the leg and elbow. She was injured after the car in which she was traveling lost control on Broadway and skidded into a retaining wall, officials said.

According to police, the Valle woman was headed north on Broadway when she went out of control on loose gravel near West Chestnut Street. Police said the mishap occurred at 2:30 a. m.

A 19-year old girl was injured Sunday when her auto smashed into a pole at the corner of Albany Avenue and Wrentham Street.

The girl, Barbara A. Dixon of 36 Harwich Street, was treated at Benedictine Hospital for chest injuries. Police said the accident resulted when the Dixon auto turned from Albany Avenue into Wrentham Street.

The 90th did not kill any of Johnson's "Great Society" programs enacted by the 86th Congress when there were 47 more Democrats in the House and four more in the Senate. But it reshaped some of them and cramped others financially.

It was a Congress frustrated by prolongation of the war in Vietnam, a burgeoning government deficit, rising crime and racial conflict, and the threat of higher taxes—along with the spectre of facing the voters next year under those politically embarrassing conditions.

Record Defense Fund

It voted more for national defense, $82.13 billion, than any other Congress. Its total appropriations of around $157 billion set a record.

Although he described it as "a productive Congress," President Johnson didn't think much of its increased Republican membership. He referred to the GOP minority as "wooden soldiers of the status quo" who tried to kill some of his domestic programs.

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan agreed that it was "a productive Congress," but credited what he called its good record to the presence of more Republicans.

Even some of the President's once stalwart backers in his own party fell out with him over the war in Vietnam. Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, missed few opportunities to jab at Johnson on foreign policy. And at the session's end Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota was trying to wrest the 1968 presidential nomination from Johnson.

It extended the draft law for four years; gave the anti-poverty program a two-year lease; continued the Teachers Corps; extended the food-stamp program; increased Social Security benefits; provided new benefits for veterans, enacted a reserve forces "bill of rights"; passed a meat inspection law; raised the pay of government employees; boosted postal rates; financed the model-cities and rent subsidy programs; and continued the foreign-aid program with reduced financing.

Not acted on finally, in addition to tax increases, was legislation dealing with crime prevention, congressional reorganization, detailed disclosure of interest charges, protection of civil rights, copyright law revision, gun control, and election-law reforms.

Some of the major measures left on the shelf with adjournment have passed either the Senate or the House and will be in a position for advancement next year. Some have not yet emerged from committees.

In the field of national defense and internal security, Congress enacted laws to authorize procurement of $25 billion worth of military equipment, to build $2.3 billion worth of military housing and other construction, to spend $2.6 billion for Atomic Energy Commission projects, and to continue the loan of naval vessels to friendly nations.

In international affairs, it did these things:

—Increased the U.S. share of financing the International Development Bank's fund for special operations.

—Continued the Peace Corps program.

—Ratified a treaty for exploration and use of outer space.

—Ratified the U.S.-Soviet consular agreement.

Domestic legislation enacted included:

—A ban against a threatened railroad strike pending recommendations of a special labor board.

—An increase in the national debt ceiling.

—Extension of the Appalachian Regional Development program.

—Extension of the life of the Civil Rights Commission.

—Creation of a Public Broadcasting Corporation to facilitate development of educational and cultural television and radio.

—Reorganization of the District of Columbia government.

—Extension of the Community Health Centers program.

—Authority for the Interior Department to participate in construction and operation of nuclear-power and sea-water desalting programs.

Sherlock Holmes Letters Have Urgency Ring

BY GRANVILLE WATTS
LONDON (AP) — The Abbey National Building Society receives some curious mail, filled with such phrases as "the police are stumped" and "I beg of you please hurry."

The letters are addressed to Sherlock Holmes, the famous fictional detective who solved the most mysterious cases and explained afterward to his assistant, "Elementary, my dear Watson."

The problem is that Holmes' creator, author Arthur Conan Doyle, gave him an address of 221B Baker St. There is no 221B today, but there is a 221—the Abbey National Building Society—one of Britain's biggest home loan companies. Postmen deliver the Holmes letters there.

It seems a good many people believe that Holmes not only existed—but is still alive.

At a rough guess this would make Holmes 113 years old.

"We get at least one letter a week," said an Abbey employee.

"Some of those who write, particularly from abroad, clearly believe that Holmes really exists."

Among hundreds of letters received over the years are many from behind the Iron Curtain.

Many simply ask Holmes for his autograph or photograph but others have a desperate ring.

Occasional letters are obvious hoaxes.

Where people appear to be in genuine difficulties, the writers are advised to get in touch with a lawyer or the police.

Abbey employees appear to be as good Holmes fans as the next man and writers are let down gently.

Two Injured In Accidents

Two women were treated at area hospitals Sunday following two separate accidents, police report.

Ursula J. Valle, 23, of 484 Delaware Avenue, was treated at Kingston Hospital for lacerations of the leg and elbow. She was injured after the car in which she was traveling lost control on Broadway and skidded into a retaining wall, officials said.

According to police, the Valle woman was headed north on Broadway when she went out of control on loose gravel near West Chestnut Street. Police said the mishap occurred at 2:30 a. m.

A 19-year old girl was injured Sunday when her auto smashed into a pole at the corner of Albany Avenue and Wrentham Street.

The girl, Barbara A. Dixon of 36 Harwich Street, was treated at Benedictine Hospital for chest injuries. Police said the accident resulted when the Dixon auto turned from Albany Avenue into Wrentham Street.

Serious Questions Are Raised in Wake of Heart Transplant

LONDON (AP) — Some British doctors and clergymen are worried that the successful heart transplant case of Louis Washkansky in South Africa has given doctors new God-like powers to decide who lives and who dies.

Granting the Dec. 3 surgery in South Africa was a medical triumph, the doctors and clergy fear a conflict may arise between a doctor's duty to do all he can to save a patient's life and the doctor's anxiousness to save another patient's life by transplanting a heart, liver or other vital organs from the first patient.

Washkansky, meanwhile, said Friday night in Capetown he felt "100 per cent." In a tape recorded interview he also commented, "I feel very lucky to be the first man in the world to have a new heart."

In a letter to the London

Times a Birmingham surgeon wrote: "What is the next step—removal of a vital organ from a cancer patient who will probably die in six months, or from a mongol child who may not survive beyond the age of 20? I think we must watch our step."

The Rev. David Bartle, an Episcopalian, expanded on the same theme in another letter. "It would seem that an old ethical problem about the preservation of life is being presented in a startling new form, since the heart must be taken from the donor so soon after death."

This, he said, raises the question of when death occurs—when the heart stops, when the doctor says death occurs.

The danger, he warned, is a potential donor, will be treated with the best medical skill to save his life, but "a hurried approach may lead to abuse of possible skill to save his life."

"He will not be treated by Prof. A.G. Riddel, head of those who are going to perform surgery at the infirmary, said: 'Anybody who comes into hospital, irrespective of whether he

Given Citizenship After Viet Wounds

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A German-born soldier who lost his legs while fighting for the United States in Vietnam has been granted citizenship by this nation.

Army Pfc. John M. Wyspianski, 21, of Rochester, took the oath of citizenship Thursday while seated in a wheelchair at the Veterans Administration Hospital here. Judge John O. Henderson of U.S. District Court presided as the GI's mother, Mrs. Parenka Wyspianski, and brother, John R., 19, looked on.

After the ceremony, the new citizen explained why he wanted to become a naturalized American, a decision he revealed to hospital officials last week. The usual 30-day waiting period was waived.

"I felt if I could fight for my country, it really should be my country. I've been thinking about it for a long time," he said.

Wyspianski, a native of Hadersleben, Germany, was drafted in January 1966 and is scheduled to be discharged from Army service next month. His hospitalization will last another year.

The soldier was wounded last May 15 in a land mine explosion near Cu Chi while serving with the 199th Light Infantry Brigade.

After his hospital treatment, Wyspianski hopes to attend col-

23,000 Draft For February

WASHINGTON (AP) — A total of 23,000 men will be drafted in February, with all of the draftees going into the Army.

The Pentagon's February call compares with 34,000 for January. This month's 18,200 was the usual seasonal low.

In Congress, a bill introduced Friday, final day of the session would require that students in junior colleges receive the same draft deferments as those in four-year institutions.

Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., filed the bill, saying Selective Service regulations are being interpreted in a way that adversely affects such students. He said this amounts to "second-class citizenship" for them.

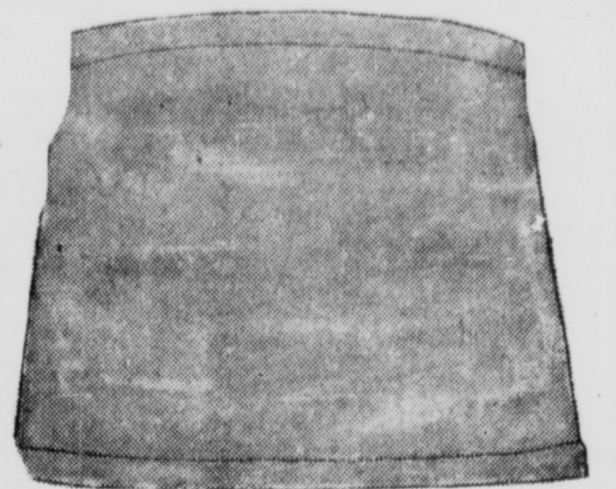

The Patman bill will be considered in the session convening Jan. 15.

Income Jumps To New High In November

WASHINGTON (AP) — Personal income took its biggest jump in more than two years during November, with rising wages and salaries accounting for the bulk of the gain, the Commerce Department reported today.

Income rose by $5.8 billion at an annual rate during the month to reach a record pace at $641.7 billion. It was the biggest advance since September 1965.

The department said wages and salaries increased by $5.4 billion and only $2 billion of this stemmed from the ending of automobile and other strikes which had depressed payrolls the previous two months.

Continued economic expansion accounted for most of the gain in payrolls, the department added.

The new report continues the rosy economic picture painted for November by government statistics published earlier.

Those reports had recounted the sharpest increase in industrial production in three years, the sharpest drop in the unemployment rate in six years and a 1.5 per cent increase in retail sales which recouped most of October's decline.

These data presumably will give the administration's 10 per cent tax surcharge an added boost when the House Ways and Means Committee takes up the tax proposal Jan. 22.

More than half of the payroll advance came in manufacturing where wages and salaries rose by $3.1 billion at an annual rate.

Farm income and dividends declined slightly but all other types of income advanced.

Demonstrate At SUNY In Buffalo

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Over 100 demonstrators, including students and teachers, marched at the State University at Buffalo today in protest against the on-campus appearance of Dow Chemical Co. recruiters.

No incidents were reported immediately although some anti-war students had threatened to obstruct the recruiters. Dow manufactures napalm used by U.S. forces in Vietnam.

Pickets chanted outside the service center building while Dow recruiters interviewed students inside.

The university students, voting by a 4 to 1 margin in a referendum last week, endorsed the right of Dow and the Central Intelligence Agency to recruit prospective employees on campus.

Previously, the Faculty and Student Senates had gone on record in favor of an open-campus policy for all prospective employers.

INVESTOR FORUM

Bootlegging became a household word many years ago. A constitutional amendment was passed, making the production and sale of alcoholic beverages illegal. This was against the will of the people.

As a result, speak-easies were opened. Everywhere, drinking clubs were organized and in thousands of homes small bars were set up.

After years of this disreputable illegal business, the legislation was repealed and liquor became respectable again.

History repeats itself. More than 30 years ago, Congress passed laws making the possession of gold as money illegal. And now, just as the people rebelled against Prohibition, they are protesting the laws that forbid the possession of gold.

The recent devaluation of the pound sterling has touched off a gigantic demand for gold. And, just as under the illegality of liquor years ago, so now the bootlegging of gold is growing by leaps and bounds.

For instance, in 1961 the United States established a regulation forbidding Americans to stash gold abroad. Enforcement of this regulation is most difficult.

England's pound devaluation has disrupted monetary conditions throughout the sterling and dollar world. That is easy to understand. Suppose you had 1,000 pounds sterling and suddenly the value of these pounds was cut by 14 %. Would you not earnestly desire to get some gold? Or some value that would not be deliberately devalued?

Americans with more or less clandestine bank accounts in Canada, England, Belgium, France, Switzerland and several other countries bought an estimated $800 million worth of gold in Europe in November, 1967.

False addresses and secret bank accounts are greatly used in accumulating the metal. The Secret Service, the Customs Bureau and the Office of Foreign Assets Control are agencies actively employed in hunting down gold buying.

The Republic of France has dropped out of the London gold pool and today this country has the second largest holding of the metal in the world. As this column recently stated, one of these days President De Gaulle may force the price of gold higher.

Yes, history does repeat itself. When laws are passed which the public in general will not obey because of the temper of the people, such events as the bootlegging of liquor and now of gold take place.

And it is my belief that with Uncle Sam's gold supply rapidly diminishing and the international demands for it increasing, it is just a question of time before the present price of gold will be marked up significantly.

To my readers: Personally, I have considerably increased my gold shares—common stocks of belted against Prohibition, they (Managing Money, Dr. France's new 48-page guide to investing, is now available. Ask Travia's Resignation

NEW YORK (AP) — State Sen. Jack E. Bronston has called for the resignation of Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia, accusing the speaker of "dictatorship-by-patrol." The Queens Democrat made his charges in a weekend statement announcing he would again introduce a series of bills for legislative and elective reform.

Noting that Travia once referred to these bills as "old chestnuts," Bronston added: "In view of the continuous and conspicuous failures of the Democratic party in this state under the leadership of district leader, speaker, assemblyman and convention president Travia, I respectfully suggest that Speaker Travia is the 'old chestnut' of them all."

"We cannot move the Democratic party, or the state by rewarding failure," Bronston said. "Travia retains his power by appointing 'political cronies and 'no shows' to joint legislative committees."

Patronage, Bronston added, made it possible for Travia to become president of last summer's Constitutional Convention and to "preside over the most extravagant failure of the State's history."

The constitution produced by the convention was rejected by the voters in November.

Sailors While Away Hours at Pranks, Races

GREAT BITTER LAKE, Egypt (AP) — The foreign sailors on the 14 ships stranded in the Suez Canal while away the long hours after their shipboard chores with visits back and forth, lifeboat races and pranks.

In one sailing race Sunday, the crew of the Swedish ship Nippon won for large boats. The British freighter Melampus was named champion of the smaller boat group. The multicolored sails glided over the surface of the big lake that forms the central section of the canal amid whistles from their mates watching from their ships.

The anchorage of the 14 ships looks like an exotic seascape of vacationing sailors, but they are virtually prisoners of war.

There are ships from the United States, Britain, Sweden, West Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria and France. They were going through the canal on June 5 when the Arab-Israeli war started and were herded into the Great Bitter Lake. Subsequently the canal was blocked by nine Egyptian obstacles.

Most of the crewmen were repatriated, but skeleton crews are left on board.

Reagan Sees More Frugality

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan has promised Californians more frugality in state government during 1968, particularly in programs which consume the most tax dollars—welfare, medical care and education.

The Republican governor presented a blueprint of the second year of his "Creative Society" program in a television and radio broadcast Sunday evening.

He pledged his administration would live within its means without raising taxes again. But the real needs of the state's nearly 20 million citizens won't be sacrificed in the name of cost-cutting and economy, Reagan said.

Despite the savings so far, Reagan said, the state's financial picture "is still grim."

Income Jumps To New High In November

WASHINGTON (AP) — Personal income took its biggest jump in more than two years during November, with rising wages and salaries accounting for the bulk of the gain, the Commerce Department reported today.

Income rose by $5.8 billion at an annual rate during the month to reach a record pace at $641.7 billion. It was the biggest advance since September 1965.

The department said wages and salaries increased by $5.4 billion and only $2 billion of this stemmed from the ending of automobile and other strikes which had depressed payrolls the previous two months.

Continued economic expansion accounted for most of the gain in payrolls, the department added.

The new report continues the rosy economic picture painted for November by government statistics published earlier.

Those reports had recounted the sharpest increase in industrial production in three years, the sharpest drop in the unemployment rate in six years and a 1.5 per cent increase in retail sales which recouped most of October's decline.

These data presumably will give the administration's 10 per cent tax surcharge an added boost when the House Ways and Means Committee takes up the tax proposal Jan. 22.

More than half of the payroll advance came in manufacturing where wages and salaries rose by $3.1 billion at an annual rate. Farm income and dividends declined slightly but all other types of income advanced.

Personnel income for the first 11 months of this year came to $624.2 billion at an annual rate, $42 billion or seven per cent above the comparable period last year.

Demonstrate At SUNY In Buffalo

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Over 100 demonstrators, including students and teachers, marched at the State University at Buffalo today in protest against the on-campus appearance of Dow Chemical Co. recruiters.

No incidents were reported immediately although some anti-war students had threatened to obstruct the recruiters, Dow manufactures napalm used by U.S. forces in Vietnam.

Pickets chanted outside the service center building while Dow recruiters interviewed students inside.

The university students, voting by a 4 to 1 margin in a referendum last week, endorsed the right of Dow and the Central Intelligence Agency to recruit prospective employees on campus.

Previously, the Faculty and Student Senates had gone on record in favor of an open-campus policy for all prospective employers.

INVESTOR FORUM

Bootlegging became a household word many years ago. A constitutional amendment was passed, making the production and sale of alcoholic beverages illegal. This was against the will of the people.

As a result, speak-easies were opened. Everywhere, drinking clubs were organized and in thousands of homes small bars were set up.

After years of this disreputable illegal business, the legislation was repealed and liquor became respectable again.

History repeats itself. More than 30 years ago, Congress passed laws making the possession of gold as money illegal. And now, just as the people are protesting the laws that forbid the possession of gold.

The recent devaluation of the pound sterling has touched off a gigantic demand for gold. And, just as under the illegality of liquor years ago, so now the bootlegging of gold is growing by leaps and bounds.

For instance, in 1961 the United States established a regulation forbidding Americans to stash gold abroad. Enforcement of this regulation is most difficult.

England's pound devaluation has disrupted monetary conditions throughout the sterling and dollar world. That is easy to understand. Suppose you had 1,000 pounds sterling in savings in a British bank and suddenly the value of these pounds was cut by 14 1/2%. Would you not earnestly desire to get some gold? Or some value that would

City Accident Injures Pair

Two persons were injured Sunday in a collision at Mountain View and Lounsbury Place.

Taken to Benedictine Hospital were Albert H. Tannin, 40 Overlook Drive, and Steven M. Zang, Sherry Lane. Tannin was treated for broken ribs and contusions. Zang suffered head injuries.

Police said Tannin was headed south on Mountain View. Zang was traveling west along Lounsbury Place. Police stated they collided at the intersection.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

Dec. 18, 1947 — A Christmas pageant portraying the Nativity was scheduled at the Old Dutch Reformed Church.

Herbert Powell of Fair Street was elected high priest at the annual meeting of the Mt. Horeb Royal Arch Masons.

Dec. 18, 1957 — Proceedings were started against four area tavern owners for allegedly serving liquor to a 17-year-old minor.

Lawrence Ayer of Ellenville became the 20th member of Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts, to earn Eagle Scout rating.

not be deliberately devalued? Americans with more or less clandestine bank accounts in Canada, England, Belgium, France, Switzerland and several other countries bought an estimated $800 million worth of gold in Europe in November, 1967.

False addresses and secret bank accounts are greatly used in accumulating the metal. The Secret Service, the Customs Bureau and the Office of Foreign Assets Control are actively employed in hunting down gold buying.

The Republic of France has dropped out of the London gold pool and today this country has the second largest holding of the metal in the world. As this column recently stated, one of these days President De Gaulle may force the price of gold higher.

Yes, history does repeat itself. When laws are passed which the public in general will not obey because of the temper of the people, such events as the bootlegging of liquor and now of gold take place.

And it is my belief that with Uncle Sam's gold supply rapidly diminishing and the international demands for it increasing, it is just a question of time before the present price of gold will be marked up significantly.

15 Arrested In Buffalo

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Fifteen persons, three of them women, face a variety of narcotics charges after their arrest during police raids on four homes and a restaurant on Buffalo's near East Side.

Asst. Det. Chief Michael A. Amico, who coordinated the simultaneous raids early Sunday, said quantities of heroin, cocaine and implements to administer them also were seized.

He did not disclose the amounts. Federal and state authorities assisted city police in the raids.

Ten of those arrested were charged with possession of heroin and loitering in a place where illicit drugs were used; two were charged with possession of cocaine and the other three with possession of instruments to administer narcotics.

One of the accused also was charged with obstructing police by physical force, Amico said. The defendants ranged in age from 18 to 48.

Amico described one of the homes as a major distribution point for narcotics and a "shootin' gallery" where addicts gathered to administer the drugs.

That location was listed as 913 Ellicott St.

Publish Paper

A Watervliet Arsenal metals testing program, and the application of fluidic devices at the installation are the subjects of articles published in the current issues of two national scientific periodicals.

Physical metallurgist, Richard S. DeFries (17 Southern Dr.), Latham, is the author of a Super Alloy for Mortar Tubes, in Metals Progress published by the American Society for Metals.

The article describes DeFries' investigation of four steels and three superalloys leading to the determination that the alloy, Inconel 718 had the combination of strength, ductility and endurance best suited for use in tubes for the 81mm mortar.

Despite the savings so far, Reagan said, the state's financial picture "is still grim."

Ask Travia's Resignation

NEW YORK (AP) — State Sen. Jack E. Bronston has called for the resignation of Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia, accusing the speaker of "dictatorship-by-patrons...to the tune of $1,500,000."

The Queens Democrat made his charges in a weekend statement announcing he would again introduce a series of bills for legislative and elective reform.

Nothing that Travia once referred to these bills as "old chestnuts," Bronston added:

"In view of the continuous and conspicuous failures of the Democratic party in this state under the leadership of district leader, speaker, assemblyman and convention president Travia, I respectfully suggest that Speaker Travia is the 'oldest chestnut' of them all."

"We cannot move the Democratic party, or the state by rewording failure," Bronston said.

Bronston said Travia retains his power by appointing "political cronies and 'no shows' to joint legislative committees."

Patronage, Bronston added, made it possible for Travia to become president of last summer's Constitutional Convention and to preside over the most extravagant failure of the decade.

The constitution produced by the convention was rejected by the voters in November.

Sailors While Away Hours at Pranks, Races

GREAT BITTER LAKE, Egypt (AP) —The foreign sailors on the 14 ships stranded in the Suez Canal while away the long hours after their shipboard chores with visits back and forth, lifeboat races and pranks.

In one sailing race Sunday, the crew of the Swedish ship Nippon won for large boats. The British freighter Melampus was named champion of the smaller boat group. The multicolor sails glided over the surface of the big lake that forms the central section of the canal amid whistles from their mates watching from their ships.

The anchorage of the 14 ships looks like an exotic seascape of vacationing sailors, but they are virtually prisoners of war.

There are ships from the United States, Britain, Sweden, West Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria and France. They were going through the canal on June 5 when the Arab-Israeli war started and were herded into the Great Bitter Lake. Subsequently the canal was blocked by nine sunken obstacles.

Most of the crewmen were repatriated, but skeleton crews are left on board.

Reagan Sees More Frugality

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan has promised Californians more frugality in state government during 1968, particularly in programs which consume the most tax dollars—welfare, medical care and education.

The Republican governor presented a blueprint of the second year of his "Creative Society" program in a television and radio broadcast Sunday evening.

He pledged his administration would live within its means without raising taxes again. But the real needs of the state's nearly 20 million citizens won't be sacrificed in the name of cost-cutting and economy, Reagan said.

Despite the savings so far, Reagan said, the state's financial picture "is still grim."

CANCER HELP—Herbert M. Siller (R), treasurer of Siller Beef Co., presents $1,000 check to Richard M. Kalish, 1967 industrial chairman of Ulster County Unit Cancer Crusade. Kalish lauded the meat concern's contribution saying "your firm's decision to include a gift to the ACS in this year's budget will bring us all closer to the day when cancer joins that growing list of diseases which have already lost their terror." Construct Oil Dump Near Haiphong

WASHINGTON (AP)—Shielded by rainy-season weather that has hampered U.S. air raids, North Vietnam has assembled a huge new oil depot piled with thousands of fuel drums, U.S. government sources say.

The new fuel dump—apparently a key one in supporting the truck movement of war supplies toward South Vietnam—is said to be only two miles south of Haiphong.

Because it lies so close to a population center, sources said the oil depot would be attacked only if U.S. pilots could see it clearly and bomb visually. This restriction would preclude radar bombing through overcast.

A month-long period of heavy rains over North Vietnam broke last week and U.S. bombers have been concentrating on knocking out bridges and communication links close to Hanoi and Haiphong as apparent first priority. The rainy season is expected to last several more months, so the good bombing weather may not continue for long.

During the monsoon rains and heavy cloud cover, the North Vietnamese reportedly have repaired most of the bridges, railroads, highways and airfields which were pounded by U.S. bombers and fighter-bombers during intense, wide-ranging raids last summer and early fall.

The new oil depot is reported to be close to a stream which the North Vietnamese have dredged recently so that oil tankers can move out of Haiphong harbor and partway up the river where they discharge their loads of fuel drums into barges.

U.S. intelligence is aware of considerable barge-building activity. It includes the assembling of metal barges which evidently have come into Vietnam in prefabricated sections.

This all coincides with a continuing shift of big amounts of the war supplies and equipment from truck to barge movement, sources said.

Among other targets hit by American bombers in past months, sources said, two trans-shipment points southwest of Haiphong have been rebuilt.

Understands Loss

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Gov.-elect John Bell Williams, his left sleeve empty, limped across a Veterans Hospital room to greet a young soldier who had lost both his legs in the war in Vietnam.

Williams reached down and shook Sgt. Gerald W. White's hand. The governor-elect lost his arm in a World War II airplane crash that also mangled his leg.

White was awarded the Bronze Star Friday. Williams attended the ceremony.

White commented, "This is one of the few times I'm at a loss for words. Give your support to the boys in Vietnam. It's going to be a bad Christmas for them."

It was reported that fertilizer, once a major commodity entering North Vietnam, no longer is showing up on the docks to any important extent. Instead, foodstuffs represent a growing proportion of the goods and material being unloaded at Haiphong and other ports.

Officials said recently that food shipments are receiving top priority, along with oil products, in unloading at Haiphong. This has suggested a food problem in North Vietnam.

The Communists have been diverting some cargo ships to Hon Gai, North Vietnam's second largest port, about 18 miles northeast of Haiphong. The United States has never acknowledged any strikes against the harbor facilities at Hon Gai.

Recreation Area Set in Saugerties

The Town of Saugerties made two advancements in recreation Saturday when the Town Board accepted a recreation area in Barclay Heights and purchased 30 additional acres to expand Cantine Memorial Field.

Members of Saugerties Jaycees presented a dedicatory

Also at the special meeting, the Town Board by unanimous vote adopted a resolution authorizing the purchase of 30 acres of land adjacent to Cantine Memorial Field and Market Street Extension.

The purchase was made from the Henry Knaust Estate for $27,000. The project will be financed with a $17,000 unexpended balance in the town budget and a $10,000 anticipation bond, according to Supervisor Williams.

Williams, who leaves the post of supervisor at the end of the year, said the new project will be named Veterans Memorial Field.

The Town of Saugerties made two advancements in recreation Saturday when the Town Board accepted a recreation area in Barclay Heights and purchased 30 additional acres to expand Cantine Memorial Field.

Navajos Rocked by Heavy Snow

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP)—The Navajo tribe, rocked by the worst winter storm in memory of old-timers, hopes for a break in the weather to reach thousands marooned by snow up to four feet in depth.

"The situation is pretty terrible," said Frank Chambers, Navajo tribal police assistant superintendent. Bureau of Indian Affairs officials estimated 60,000 Navajos are in varying degrees of distress from the storm that struck the reservation last Tuesday night.

Air Force cargo planes and helicopters were prepared to drop food, shelter, clothes and medical supplies for the Indians. Doctors were to accompany the helicopters.

At least one person is dead from the storm, a 60-year-old crippled sheep herder who lived in the sprawling reservation's northeast area. There were unconfirmed reports of five other deaths.

At Rough Rock a family of five, including three children, were extremely ill from exposure, Navajo police said. Adams estimated 16,000 to 18,000 square miles of the 25,000-square mile reservation, largest in the United States, was affected by the storm.

In many areas, deep snow immobilized tracked snow vehicles and other heavy equipment. There were reports 150 to 200 persons might be marooned in the Pinon, Ariz., area in the northeast section of the reservation. A helicopter, flying from Nellis Air Force Base, Nev., reported seeing mirrors on the ground in the region, signaling for assistance.

The Air Force moved into Window Rock during the weekend to fly helicopters with food and medical assistance. Bad weather had curtailed the rescue operation.

Eight C119 transports dropped an estimated 40,000 pounds of hay on the stricken Hopi reservation in central Arizona, which borders the Navajo area.

"We've got to get the people where they can take care of themselves," Adams said. "The Indian people have lived in hard country all of their lives. They have the ability to survive. They know what to do."

The sheepherder's death was one of several caused by the massive storm in the Southwest during the weekend. Three Ft. Bliss, Tex. soldiers died when a chartered bus carrying service men home on Christmas leave overturned on an icy highway east of El Paso, Tex.

Other deaths included two occupants of a single-engine plane which crashed onto a central New Mexico mountainside during a snow storm. The victims were Doss Maner, the pilot, of Alamogordo, N.M., and Alex Padilla, of Albuquerque, N.M. One of four survivors of the crash, Frank Reeder of Albuquerque, said, "I didn't get scared until I looked out and saw treetops. Then I knew we were in trouble."

Navajos Rocked by Heavy Snow

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP)—The Navajo tribe, rocked by the worst winter storm in memory of old-timers, hopes for a break in the weather to reach thousands marooned by snow up to four feet in depth.

"The situation is pretty terrible," said Frank Chambers, Navajo tribal police assistant superintendent. Bureau of Indian Affairs officials estimated 60,000 Navajos are in varying degrees of distress from the storm that struck the reservation last Tuesday night.

Air Force cargo planes and helicopters were prepared to drop food, shelter, clothes and medical supplies for the Indians. Doctors were to accompany the helicopters.

"The first thing we are going to worry about is the people," said an Air Force spokesman. "We pray for no more snow." said the tribal police superintendent, V. Allen Adams. "The one thing we don't need is more snow. The old-timers say they have never seen anything like it."

At least one person is dead from the storm, a 60-year-old crippled sheep herder who lived in the sprawling reservation's northeast area. There were unconfirmed reports of five other deaths.

At Rough Rock a family of five, including three children, were extremely ill from exposure, Navajo police said.

Adams estimated 16,000 to 18,000 square miles of the 25,000-square-mile reservation, largest in the United States, was affected by the storm. In many areas, deep snow immobilized tracked snow vehicles and other heavy equipment.

There were reports 150 to 200 persons might be marooned in the Pinon, Ariz., area in the northeast section of the reservation. A helicopter, flying from Nellis Air Force Base, Nev., reported seeing mirrors on the ground in the region, signaling for assistance.

The Air Force moved into Window Rock during the weekend to fly helicopters with food and medical assistance. Bad weather had curtailed the rescue operation.

Eight C-119 transports dropped an estimated 40,000 pounds of hay on the stricken Hopi reservation in central Arizona, which borders the Navajo area.

"We've got to get the people where they can take care of themselves," Adams said. "The Indian people have lived in hard country all of their lives. They have the ability to survive. They know what to do."

The shepherd's death was one of several caused by the massive storm in the Southwest during the weekend. Three Ft. Bliss, Tex., soldiers died when a chartered bus carrying servicemen home on Christmas leave overturned on an icy highway east of El Paso, Tex.

Other deaths included two occupants of a single-engine plane which crashed onto a central New Mexico mountainside during a snow storm. The victims were Doss Maner, the pilot, of Alamogordo, N.M., and Alex Padilla, of Albuquerque, N.M. One of four survivors of the crash, Frank Reeder of Albuquerque, said, "I didn't get scared until I looked out and saw treetops. Then I knew we were in trouble."

U. N. Session Near End, Hopes to Adjourn Tuesday

BY WILLIAM N. OATIS
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. General Assembly went on a three-day schedule today, with morning, afternoon and night meetings, in an attempt to end its 22nd annual session by midnight Tuesday.

High on the assembly's program was the establishment of a 30-member special committee to try to draft a definition of aggression—something various U.N. bodies have been trying to do since 1950.

Main Political Committee, with two meetings lined up, drove toward a vote on eight resolutions on various aspects of disarmament.

Two of the resolutions were revised overnight in line with a weekend compromise agreement designed to prevent a 1968 conference of countries that don't have nuclear weapons from interfering with the general al negotiations on a treaty to check the spread of nuclear weapons.

One of these resolutions called on the Geneva Disarmament Committee to report by March 15. The assembly would resume its session soon after to take up the report.

The resolution was amended to say the committee should consider the views stated in the current assembly—including, by implication, the demand of some countries not having nuclear weapons that the nuclear powers should give them security guarantees in return for their accepting the treaty.

The other resolution had called for a Geneva conference of nonnuclear countries March 11-April 10. The date was changed to next August and September.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov, U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg and delegates of 26 other interested countries worked out the compromise at private meetings Saturday and Sunday.

Another pending resolution called for careful consideration and wide distribution of a report from Secretary-General U Thant concluding that no security is to be found in the possession of nuclear weapons.

Reservists Aid Toys for Tots Projects

Santa visited downtown Kingston in Army fatigues this weekend.

About 11:30 Saturday morning, an Army truck pulled up in front of the Toys for Tots drive pickup point on Broadway, and out jumped five men from the local Army Reserve unit, the 854th Engineer Battalion. In the truck was a hundred dollars worth of toys, donated by the Reservists to provide a warmer Christmas for children in the Hudson Valley.

The toys were bought and delivered by Headquarters and Headquarters Company of the 854th Engineer Battalion in a project organized by SSG Robert Slater.

Toys for Tots was a 30-hour drive over the weekend sponsored jointly by the United States Marine Corps Reserve and WKNY Radio, Kingston. The toys will be distributed by the Salvation Army.

Hankenson formerly has been employed by the San Francisco Opera, Alabama Educational Television Network, Chautauqua Opera Company and Auburn University.

Youth Wounded, Falls on Rifle

Albert Fassbender, 18, of 87 Harwich Street, was accidentally wounded Sunday while hunting with friends in an area near Esopus Creek, Town of Ulster.

State Police Sergeant Charles Bundschuh said the youth started to run to catch up with other hunters in his party when he fell and his .22 caliber rifle discharged. BCI Investigator Roger Gardner investigated.

The wounded youth was taken to Kingston Hospital for treatment.

30 Participate In Peace March

Some 30 Woodstock area residents participated in a peace march on Saturday under the sponsorship of the Ulster County Peace Committee.

The march, protesting United States involvement in the Vietnam War, began at the Grand Union supermarket on Route 212, continued to Rock City Road, and ended up at the Andy Lee Memorial Field.

Marchers heard an address by Dr. Wade Thompson, professor of literature at New Paltz State University College. Activities began at 1 p. m. and ended at about 2:30 p. m. The public had been invited to participate in the demonstration and hear the address by Dr. Thompson.

Man Arrested After Argument

A 30-year old man, accused of criminal mischief after his arrest this morning, was released in the custody of his employer following an appearance in city court.

James Stokes, 424 Hasbrouck Avenue, alleged to have smashed the windshield of Mrs. Bernice Gulnick, 199 Greenkill Avenue, after an argument, told court officers the matter should be sent to the Family Court.

The court said it would consider Stokes' request.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 2.42 to 883.03.

General Motors, up a fraction, responded mildly to late Friday's news of a labor agreement with United Auto Workers, averting a strike threat.

Most other auto stocks gained slightly. Chrysler eased.

Steels and airlines moved up. Wall Street's background included news that industrial production in November made its sharpest advance since November 1964.

While the rush for gold continued unabated in London, the repeatedly expressed determination to keep the price of gold at $35 an ounce cooled some stocks which have benefited by doubts about the strength of the dollar. We're Near Check Limit: 17 Billion

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Americans wrote about 17 billion checks this year, an amount bankers seriously believe is close to the maximum that can be handled efficiently.

That, however, is only the beginning of the problem. It gets worse, Americans add another billion checks to that total each year, threatening to inundate the bill payment system in a flood of signatures.

How long can it go on? No body dares to guess, but some banking authorities feel the system of using checks is no more up to date than the Post Office. A vice president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, John Clarke, says the system originated as an improvisation and survives because of inertia.

If, as feared, this avalanche of paper does clog the arteries of commerce, alternatives must be ready. And, as has been publicized widely, the soundest alternative may be to substitute electronics for paper.

Instead of the signatured paper being offered in payment, an electronic computer would be

BPW Approves '68 Contract

Members of the Kingston Department of Public Works have agreed to a contract for 1968 with the city calling for a six per cent pay increase and three weeks paid vacation after ten years.

The BPW was represented by the Civil Service Employees Association during the bargaining sessions. Agreement was reached last Monday and the contract was approved by BPW members Tuesday. Woodrow Diehl, in addition to the commissioners, represented the city.

Leon Studt is chairman of the BPW negotiating committee and was assisted by Joseph McCordie, unit president.

Studt and McCordie said employees, as of the first of the year, would be receiving a six per cent raise in their base pay in addition to any increments. Improvements were also made in the vacation schedule in that after ten years of service each employee would be entitled to three weeks vacation, and four weeks after twenty years.

The negotiations also resulted in the obtaining of the right of each employee upon reaching retirement and should he have any accumulated sick leave left on the books, his time may be converted into payment of his health insurance premiums. The package included the setting up of a five-year tenure plan for all non-competitive employees in the labor class.

On holidays, all other city employees had these days off and the employees of the Public Works Dept. had to work. It shall be the policy of the city to allow these men to work only a half day in order to provide for the necessary removal of ashes and then take the rest of the holiday as provided for other city hall employees.

McCordie and Studt were assisted by Donald Brown, Charles Ruosa, Tom Fattemino and John Castle of the public works department and state field representative for the CSEA, Edward I. Gusty.

Young Man Should Forego Income: Aim for Growth

Q—I am 16 and have a nice sum in savings which I want to begin investing through my parents. I want a stock that pays a good dividend and has very good growth. I am thinking of Long Island Lighting, Pan American World Airways, American Tobacco, Scott Paper. What do you think of my selections? — H. B.

A—You seem like an intelligent young man and I think well of your selections — but not necessarily for you. It is difficult for a person of your age to realize that the market for many years has placed a premium on growth stocks which has resulted in a generally low yield for such issues. I believe that in your position you should disregard income and concentrate on growth which should help to make you independent some years hence. Because of competition from bonds, Llico has come down considerably in price and may go lower if money rates continue to rise. This is a strong stock, though, serving a growing area and it is the only one of your selections that I can recommend. American Tobacco and Scott Paper have been growing, but the pattern has resulted in little price progress in recent years and I would steer clear of this one at present. In place of the last three, I suggest Avon Products; Consolidated Foods; Talon. Over a period these should enhance your capital—which ought to be your main objective.

Q—We are an older couple and own Travelers Corp., at a cost price of $2.27 a share. The stock has sold down to 24 1/2. Should we sell it? — W. A.

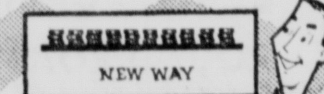

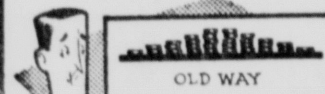

A—You own one of the finest and I would hold at present depressed levels which are characteristic of almost the entire group. Sale would involve a large capital gains tax liability which I do not feel you should incur.

Reservists Aid Toys for Tots Projects

Santa visited downtown Kingston in Army fatigues this weekend.

About 11:30 Saturday morning, an Army truck pulled up in front of the Toys for Tots drive pickup point on Broadway, and out jumped five men from the local Army Reserve unit, the 854th Engineer Battalion. In the truck was a hundred dollars worth of toys, donated by the Reservists to provide a warmer Christmas for children in the Hudson Valley.

The toys were bought and delivered by Headquarters and Headquarters Company of the 854th Engineer Battalion in a project organized by SSG Robert Slater.

Toys for Tots was a 30-hour drive over the weekend sponsored jointly by the United States Marine Corps Reserve and WKNY Radio, Kingston. The toys will be distributed by the Salvation Army.

Young Man Should Forego Income: Aim for Growth

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced in heavy trading early Monday. The ticker tape was late.

Gains outnumbered losses by a 5 to 3 ratio.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 2.42 to 883.03.

General Motors, up a fraction, responded mildly to late Friday's news of a labor agreement with United Auto Workers, averting a strike threat.

Most other auto stocks gained slightly. Chrysler eased.

Steels and airlines moved up. Wall Street's background included news that industrial production in November made its sharpest advance since November 1964.

While the rush for gold continued unabated in London, the repeatedly expressed determination to keep the price of gold at $35 an ounce cooled some stocks which have benefited by doubts about the strength of the dollar. Homestake sank a couple of points. Benguet and A. J. Industries were fractional losers.

Gains of a point or better were made by Rathenon, International Nickel, New York Central, Eastern Air Lines, United Air Lines, Admiral, Monogram Industries and Raymond International.

BPW Approves '68 Contract

Members of the Kingston Department of Public Works have agreed to a contract for 1968 with the city calling for a six per cent pay increase and three weeks paid vacation after ten years.

The BPW was represented by the Civil Service Employees Association during the bargaining sessions. Agreement was reached last Monday and the contract was approved by BPW members Tuesday. Woodrow Diehl, in addition to the commissioners, represented the city.

Leon Studt is chairman of the BPW negotiating committee and was assisted by Joseph McCordie, unit president.

Studt and McCordie said employees, as of the first of the year, would be receiving a six per cent raise in their base pay in addition to any increments. Improvements were also made in the vacation schedule in that after ten years of service each employee would be entitled to three weeks vacation, and four weeks after twenty years.

The negotiations also resulted in the obtaining of the right of each employee upon reaching retirement and should he have any accumulated sick leave left on the books, his time may be converted into payment of his health insurance premiums. The package included the setting up of a five-year tenure plan for all non-competitive employees in the labor class.

On holidays, all other city employees had these days off and the employees of the Public Works Dept. had to work. It shall be the policy of the city to allow these men to work only a half day in order to provide for the necessary removal of ashes and then take the rest of the holiday as provided for other city hall employees.

McCordie and Studt were assisted by Donald Brown, Charles Ruosa, Tom Fattemino and John Castle of the public works department and state field representative for the CSEA, Edward I. Gusty.

We're Near Check Limit: 17 Billion

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans wrote about 17 billion checks this year, an amount bankers seriously believe is close to the maximum that can be handled efficiently.

That, however, is only the beginning of the problem. It gets worse, Americans add another billion checks to that total each year, threatening to inundate the bill payment system in a flood of signatures.

How long can it go on? No body dares to guess, but some banking authorities feel the system of using checks is no more up to date than the Post Office. A vice president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, John Clarke, says the system originated as an improvisation and survives because of inertia.

If, as feared, this avalanche of paper does clog the arteries of commerce, alternatives must be ready. And, as has been publicized widely, the soundest alternative may be to substitute electronics for paper.

Instead of the signature paper being offered in payment, an electronic computer would be instructed to deduct a sum from the credit account of the purchaser and added to the account of the seller.

Such a system has been referred to as the checkless society, a term that becomes less popular as the advent of a new method of paying bills approaches. Clarke is among those seriously studying this new method.

In his view, as described at a recent credit conference here, the less-check society we might never have a checkless society, he feels—is now becoming technologically possible. To be implemented, however, it must be made attractive and rewarding to its users.

The transfer would merely be a bookkeeping one. No check or money would change hands. As a result, fewer checks would be used and the strain on banks would be relieved.

Much still needs to be done, of course, before the system could be tried.

Foolproof methods of identification must be devised. Hardware must be developed to activate the computers. Legal safeguards against access to personal information must be developed.

And, finally, who would run the computer utilities—the public or private sector?

City Meters Take Break From Now Until Yuletide

Shoppers in Kingston are again reminded that the parking meters in the city will be covered on a daily basis, after 10 a. m., between now and Christmas.

Free parking at curbside has been provided to shoppers in the city through the cooperation of the city administration. Bags to cover the meters and inform shoppers that money is not required for shopping have been supplied by the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce.

Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan also admonished business owners and employees to refrain from filling these spaces. "It is foolish," he said, "to try to improve the retail atmosphere of the community only to have the merchants who will profit most abuse the privilege."

Parking in the metered areas must be paid for during the period from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m., daily. The mayor went on to say that, even after the 10 a. m. limit for paid parking, merchants and their employees must not park in the metered spaces. Doing so would eliminate the advantages of free parking and would force customers out of the city for their Christmas shopping.

The mayor concluded his statement by noting that if the plan is successful, it will be repeated in future years. However, if business owners and

Is It Unfair to Young

The Social Security Controversy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new Social Security benefit and tax scales—both up—add fuel to an argument about the retirement system that has been hot for some time and gets hotter as the average population gets younger.

Critics of the system say it is loaded against the young worker, that the wage earner starting out now or still in his early productive years is being taxed unfairly to pay benefits to those already retired or well on their way to retirement, who paid in much less.

Defenders say everyone, statistically speaking, stands to get a lot more out of Social Security than he puts in.

The mathematics involved are complex and the social and economic arguments finely drawn. Skipping the philosophical dispute, here is an effort to simplify the mathematics, rounding all figures.

Suppose a young man starts work Jan. 1, 1968, and continues until Jan. 1, 2013, at which time he is 65 and retires. Suppose further he starts out at $4,000 a year and gets annual raises of $1,000 until he passes the $7,800 a year mark—the limit on which the payroll tax is levied.

Under the new rates, he would pay in a little less than $20,000 during his working life.

Of this total, however, almost $3,000 would have gone into medicare, giving him and his wife hospitalization rights in old age. Whether he ever actually recovered the equivalent of these contributions would, of course, depend on his and his wife's health.

Of the remaining $17,000 it is generally agreed that something must be charged off for the insurance value of Social Security during a man's working life.

If he had died leaving minor children, there would have been payments for them. If he had become disabled, he would have received payments.

Social Security values this insurance at 28 per cent of the contribution. Others put the figure as low as 20 per cent. Taking 25 per cent as a working figure, reduces the $17,000 to $12,750 for retirement.

At the new benefit rates, the retired worker and his wife of the same age would receive $323 a month in 2013. So a couple would recoup the principal amount of the contribution in a year and get annual raises of most exactly three and a half years, or by the time they were 68½. An unmarried retired worker would take half again as long to do this.

Social Security actuaries say in the past 30 years, will make more during the next 45. These probably will be in the direction of greater benefits, tending to give a mathematical break to the retired and the older active workers.

The calculations moreover don't take into account the employer's contributions, which are equal to those of the employee. These contributions provide the cushion enabling the system to broaden and, general-

Firemen Quell Chimney Fire

Woodstock Fire Co. 3 of Lake Hill was dispatched Saturday at 6:15 p. m. to the home of Stephen Elliot at the end of Harmati Lane, Shady, to quell a chimney fire. Firefighters were in command of Capt. Phillips Elmhoy and Lieut. Cornelius Maclary.

A company spokesman said ceiling beams in the cellar were ignited but quickly extinguished by firemen who responded to the alarm with a pumper and tanker and 12 volunteers. Firemen secured the fire within an hour.

Nixon in Front, Others Gaining

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon is still the first pick among Republican party professionals for the GOP presidential nomination but two other top unannounced prospects are closing his lead, a new poll says.

Elsewhere on the political scene, Gov. George Romney of Michigan, only major announced GOP candidate, is in Moscow and indications were he would meet Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin; Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., said President Johnson is in political trouble in his home state of Texas, and Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., a critic of the Vietnam war, said he's seriously thinking of entering the Indiana Democratic presidential primary as a favorite-son candidate.

Two Sentenced On Drug Charge

Accused of narcotics charges a 23-year-old former Ellenville County Club employee and a 19-year-old Dutchess county youth were in jail today after pleading guilty.

Nicholas Brazzle, formerly of the Town of Wawarsing, pleaded guilty before Ellenville Police Justice Ronald Elias today to charges of possessing dangerous drugs. The defendant, who appeared as arraignement with Attorney Frank Spada, was sentenced to 90 days in the Ulster County jail.

Brazzle was arrested in Kingston by State Police on Dec. 6 on a warrant issued by Judge Elias.

City Meters Take Break From Now Until Yuletide

Shoppers in Kingston are again reminded that the parking meters in the city will be covered on a daily basis, after 10 a. m., between now and Christmas.

Free parking at curbside has been provided to shoppers in the city through the cooperation of the city administration. Bags to cover the meters and inform shoppers that money is not required for shopping have been supplied by the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce.

Mayor Raymond W. Garrahan also admonished business owners and employees to refrain from filling these spaces. "It is foolish," he said, "to try to improve the retail atmosphere of the community only to have the merchants who will profit most abuse the privilege."

Parking in the metered areas must be paid for during the period from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m., daily. The mayor went on to say that, even after the 10 a. m. limit for paid parking, merchants and their employees must not park in the metered spaces. Doing so would eliminate the advantages of free parking and would force customers out of the city for their Christmas shopping.

The mayor concluded his statement by noting that the plan is successful, it will be repeated in future years. However, if business owners and

Is It Unfair to Young

The Social Security Controversy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new Social Security benefit and tax scales—both up—add fuel to an argument about the retirement system that has been hot for some time and gets hotter as the average population gets younger.

Critics of the system say it is loaded against the young worker, that the wage earner starting out now or still in his early productive years is being taxed unfairly to pay benefits to those already retired or well on their way to retirement, who paid in much less.

Defenders say everyone, statistically speaking, stands to get a lot more out of Social Security than he puts in.

The mathematics involved are complex and the social and economic arguments finely drawn. Skipping the philosophical dispute, here is an effort to simplify the mathematics, rounding all figures:

Suppose a young man starts work Jan. 1, 1968, and continues until Jan. 1, 2013, at which time he is 65 and retires. Suppose further he starts out at $4,000 a year and gets annual raises of $1,000 until he passes the $7,800-a-year mark—the limit on which the payroll tax is levied.

Under the new rates, he would pay in a little less than $20,000 during his working life.

Of this total, however, almost $3,000 would have gone into medicare, giving him and his wife hospitalization rights in old age. Whether he ever actually recovered the equivalent of these contributions would, of course, depend on his and his wife's health.

Of the remaining $17,000 it is generally agreed that something must be charged off for the insurance value of Social Security during a man's working life.

If he had died leaving minor children, there would have been payments for them. If he had become disabled, he would have received payments.

Social Security values this insurance at 28 per cent of the contribution. Others put the figure as low as 20 per cent. Taking 25 per cent as a working figure reduces the $17,000 to $12,750 for retirement.

At the new benefit rates, the retired worker and his wife of the same age would receive $323 a month in 2013. So a couple would recoup the principal amount of the contribution in almost exactly three and a half years, or by the time they were 68½. An unmarried retired worker would take half again as long to do this.

Social Security actuaries say in the past 30 years, will make more during the next 45.

These probably will be in the direction of greater benefits, tending to give a mathematical break to the retired and the older active workers.

The calculations moreover don't take into account the employer's contributions, which are equal to those of the employee. These contributions provide the cushion enabling the system to broaden and, generally speaking, to pay the individual contributor more than he has put in.

Bids Are Opened For Highland Job

Bids totaling $881,976 covering construction, heating, sanitary, electric work and food service equipment for additions to the Highland Training School for Boys were opened today in Albany, the State Office of General Services announced.

According to the office, Vassar Construction Inc., Poughkeepsie, submitted a bid of $639,200 for project construction work. The office said five bids were received on the job.

C. B. Strain & Son, Inc., Kingston, bid $93,972 for project heating work. Four bids were received, the state said. Strain & Son were also listed as low bidders at $47,368 for project sanitary work out of five bids submitted.

Electric work low bidder was David Jacobs, Inc., Hunter, who listed $75,576. Two bids were received.

And New York City's Ideal Restaurant Supply Co. estimated $25,860 for food service equipment. They submitted the only bid, the office said.

Firemen Quell Chimney Fire

Woodstock Fire Co. 3 of Lake Hill was dispatched Saturday at 6:15 p. m. to the home of Stephen Elliot at the end of Hartman Lane, Shady, to quell a chimney fire. Firefighters were in command of Capt. Phillips Elgmeier and Lieut. Cornelius Maclary.

A company spokesman said ceiling beams in the cellar were ignited but quickly extinguished by firemen who responded to the alarm with a pumper and tanker and 12 volunteers. Firemen secured the fire within an hour.

Nixon in Front, Others Gaining

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon is still the first pick among Republican party professionals for the GOP presidential nomination but two other top unnamed prospects are closing his lead, a new poll says.

Elsewhere on the political scene, Gov. George Romney of Michigan, only a major announced GOP candidate, is in Moscow and indications were he would meet Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin; Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., said President Johnson is in political trouble in his home state of Texas; and Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., a critic of the Vietnam war, said he's seriously thinking of entering the Indiana Democratic presidential primary as a favorite-son candidate.

The Gallup Poll said Sunday that while 52 per cent of the Republican county chairmen still prefer Nixon as the party's 1968 standard-bearer, New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is ahead of him for the first time in the East. In a similar poll last April, Rockefeller was a week third in the East behind Nixon and Romney.

Dr. George Gallup, director of the American Institute of Public Opinion, said Gov. Ronald Reagan of California has made enough gains among the party chairmen to make him second choice for the nomination, with 24 per cent of the professionals listing him as first preference. Rockefeller scored as first choice with 14 per cent, Romney 5 per cent and Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois 6 per cent.

Romney, on a foreign tour, is in the Soviet Union for two days. The Soviet government told the U.S. Embassy Romney will meet Soviet officials. While neither the Soviets nor the em-

Nicholas Brazzle, formerly of the Town of Wawarsing, pleaded guilty before Ellenville Police Justice Ronald Elias today to charges of possessing dangerous drugs. The defendant, who appeared as arraignment with Attorney Frank Spada, was sentenced to 90 days in the Ulster County jail.

Brazzle was arrested in Kingston by State Police on Dec. 6 on a warrant issued by Judge Elias.

Fishkill State Police arrested Detlef Schmitz, of the Little Falls Trailer Park, Wappingers Falls, on Sunday after the youth's home was raided. Schmitz was charged with possessing dangerous drugs and possessing an implement adapted for administration of marijuana.

Arraigned before Fishkill Town Justice Francis Williams, Schmitz pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 75 days in the Dutchess County jail.

Four Die In Upstate Accident

DUNKIRK, N.Y. (AP) — Four young persons on a date suffered fatal injuries early Sunday when their automobile shot off a street in this Lake Erie city and slammed against a tree.

Miss Debra Gosse, 17, was dead on arrival at Brooks Memorial Hospital here. Miss Billie Tucker, 18, and Robert Messere, 20, succumbed within a few hours of their admission. All were Dunkirk residents.

Thomas J. Maslakowski, 18, also of Dunkirk, died in Buffalo General Hospital about eight hours after the accident along South Roberts Road.

Police said the car, apparently traveling at high speed, failed to negotiate a curve and traveled 92 feet off the pavement before striking the tree. Messere, a construction worker, was thrown 30 feet from the wreckage, they said.

Miss Tucker was a student at a beauty school in Buffalo. Miss Gosse was a pupil at Dunkirk High School and Maslakowski worked at the General Electric Co. plant in Erie, Pa., their families said.

Miss Tucker lived at 305 Robin St., Miss Gosse on West Lake Road, Messere at 87 W. Chestnut St. and Maslakowski at 32 E. Courtney St.

New Paltz College Bids Will Be Let Next Year

Seventeen anticipated contracts totaling an estimated $12,021,000 will be made available for bid for new construction at State University College at New Paltz in 1968.

Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller announced today that contracts in excess of $200 million for construction of many State University facilities will be available for bid.

"This volume of work is nearly four times greater than the advertised bid during the current year, and in total number of projects, the 221 scheduled will be about three times that of 1967," Gov. Rockefeller said.

At the present time construction is under way on 175 projects valued at $332 million, while an additional 139 projects are in various phases of design. In the last five years approximately $512 million worth of facilities have been completed on the various campuses and locations of the State University. These figures do not include any construction at the community colleges where half of the actual building costs are paid for by the local sponsoring institution.

The State University began its major physical expansion program in 1962 following the establishment of the State University Construction Fund. This public benefit corporation was established by the Legislature upon the recommendation of Governor Rockefeller to expedite the construction of facilities to meet the State University's master plan requirements.

Rochester Students End Boycott

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — University of Rochester students have ended a three-day boycott of classes, which protested the suspension of 23 graduate students who demonstrated against a Dow Chemical Co. recruiting team last month.

About 350 graduate and 1,000 undergraduate students, who earlier were urged to call a halt by a faculty vote of 150 to 5, met separately Saturday and voted nearly unanimously to end the protest and return to classes today. A two-week Christmas recess begins Tuesday.

About 500 of the university's 5,700 students began the boycott Thursday. Later that day, Provost McCrea Hazlett decided to revoke the suspensions and substitute spring-semester social probation for the 23 graduate students who had participated in a sit-in against the Dow recruiters. Dow manufactures napalm used in Vietnam by U.S. forces.

Despite the provost's decision, the boycott continued two more days. The number of participants, however, dwindled to about 200 Saturday as faculty members from the College of Arts and Sciences met with President W. Allen Wallis and Hazlett for four hours behind closed doors.

After the meeting, a committee composed of graduate and undergraduate students and arts and science professors proposed that concrete action be taken on students' rights and privileges.

Shoots Gun, Hits Hunter

A 36-year-old Brooklyn hunter was accidentally wounded Saturday when a friend fired his shotgun at a rabbit and hit his companion while hunting in a wooded area one mile west of Routes 199 and 309 near Red Hook.

Rhinebeck State Police said James Smith of 437 Macon Street, was treated at the Northern Dutchess Hospital and released.

According to troopers, Smith was hunting with John Wright, 51, of 530 Greene Avenue, Brooklyn, when a rabbit ran between them and as Wright fired his gun the shot blast hit Smith's left foot.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Somebody may get called on the carpet for cutting the rug in a local hotel.

Houser said that his group, an affiliate of the 155,000-member CSEA was in a position to become the bargaining agent for approximately 180 members of the school district's staff in the custodian, maintenance and food service areas which has been defined as a unit for bargaining by the School Board under the Taylor Law.

Houser noted that currently the CSEA is faced with a runoff election in contest with the Teamsters Union Local 445 who also has claimed membership interest in the school district and the new Taylor Law, which gives employees the right to enter into collective bargaining agreements with the Board of Education as the employer.

Houser reported that John Longendyke and Larry Short of the maintenance section of the school system and Florence Fennelly and Hilda Kittle of the food service group have been assigned as committees

Expect DeGaulle to Balk British Market Entry

BRUSSELS (AP) — Britain's friends in the European Common Market launched a two-day effort today to open negotiations on Britain's membership application. President Charles de Gaulle was expected to balk them again.

Foreign ministers or their representatives from all the member countries—West Germany, Italy, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg—were assembled for the meeting of the Common Market Council. Britain was not invited. Five of the six members want to start negotiations with Britain, Ireland, Norway and Denmark, and the sooner the better. Only France is opposed. But De Gaulle has insisted on keeping a veto for such matters, and the others have failed to budge him. The five say they want a clear answer by Tuesday from the French on whether negotiations can start so that everyone can see who is responsible.

West German Foreign Minister Willy Brandt has threatened to hold up action on a matter of vital interest to France, relations between the Common Market and Africa, Belgium is reported delaying an order for French Mirage planes to add to the pressure.

Friday will transfer to the State Transportation Department on Thursday and have the title of director of the public transportation development division. He will be paid $25,608 a year.

Transportation Commissioner J. Burch McMorran announced the appointment Sunday.

Gold Rush Continues Despite Pledge By U.S.

LONDON (AP) — The new slightly weaker after the week-end announcement by the U.S. and its six partners in the gold Treasury and the Federal Reserve Board.

For the sixth time since the British devalued the pound a month ago, the United States announced it would not raise the selling price of gold. It added that the operations of the London market would continue unchanged despite widespread rumors that some form of restriction was being worked out to keep gold from filtering out of U.S. and European official reserves into the hands of private speculators.

The London gold price opened at $35.194 an ounce, a shade down from Friday's price but still only one-quarter of a cent above the official ceiling. The London demand was steady. Bankers said the pressure was an indication of steady demand. In Paris and Frankfurt, pressure came off the dollar and it steadied in currency markets. During the weekend banks and private holders had unloaded dollars in expectation of some announcement that could have brought devaluation of the dollar. Now they were apparently buying back the dollars to resume normal business.

U.S. officials had been hoping that the weekend reaffirmation would steady the gold markets by frightening off the speculators who are gambling on profiting by a rise in the price of gold. At the start of the week's business, the statement appears to have had little effect. One source in London said the dealers may have been reassured, but the gold buyers themselves were not—and they seemed to be in command of the market.

Man Sentenced In Harassment

Joseph Torrisi, arrested Saturday and charged with harassing two girls pleaded guilty this morning in city court and was sentenced to 15 days in the county jail.

Torrisi, who resides at 95 East Chester Street, was picked-up by police 11 days after the incident occurred. Officials said the crime took place in the Piccadilly Restaurant, 592 Broadway, on Dec. 5.

The girls, whose names are being withheld, told headquarters that Torrisi and another man entered the restaurant and immediately began to harass them. They claimed that Torrisi and his companion made suggestive remarks and when rebuffed, Torrisi grabbed an ice-pick and waved it threateningly.

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Herbert Howard, 18, was convicted in Municipal Court of disorderly conduct for threatening his teacher. Judge Robert S. Kraft sentenced him to 30 days in the workhouse and fined him $100 plus costs.

Miss Susan Garrity, an English teacher at Taft High School, testified that Howard had threatened to break her neck unless she gave him a C in English. She said Howard had told her he needed the draft to stay in school so he could graduate and escape the draft.

Gold Rush Continues Despite Pledge By U.S.

LONDON (AP) — The new pledge by the U.S. government and its six partners in the gold pool to keep the price at $35 an ounce failed to halt the gold rush in Europe and the drain on America's stock when the markets opened today.

Demand was heavy in the main European market in London, although not as heavy as the demand for 50 tons at the opening of the market Friday. The normal demand in London is about five to 10 tons a day.

The Paris market tapered off but sales remained considerably above normal with six tons sold. Twelve tons were sold Friday.

In Zurich, where banks funnel most of the buying orders to London, demand was steady. Bankers said the pressure was

The low bid for general construction was submitted by Stanley R. Benjamin, Inc., of Whitman Electric of Kingston submitted a low bid of $92,700 for electric work in the new school. Seven contractors were invited to submit bids, but only four replied.

Tougher Heating and Plumbing of Menands sent in a low bid of $142,000 for heating and ventilating. The second low bid for that phase of the work was submitted by Mechanical Construction Co., of Poughkeepsie in the sum of $147,870.

C. B. Strain & Son of Saugerties was low bidder for plumbing work. The bid was $81,800. Three other bids were received.

Name Friday To State Post

State Transportation Commissioner J. Burch McMorran today announced the appointment of Claude B. Friday, present commissioner of commerce, as the $25,000 a year director of the Public Transportation Development division of the State Department of Transportation.

In his new assignment, Friday will have direct supervision of mass transportation and aviation capital grants programs and will coordinate those activities with the development of a balanced transportation system in the state. The grant programs, affecting both public and privately owned transportation facilities, were made possible by voter approval in November of the $25 billion transportation bond issue.

Job Opportunity Week Set for Dec. 22-Jan. 1

Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan has designated Dec. 22 through Jan. 1 as "Welcome Home for the Holidays" time in Kingston.

The mayor stated that the most valuable asset to any community is its young people, and it is to the economic advantage of a community to retain its college-trained youth.

The Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring Career Opportunities Day on Dec. 27, at which time industries and other employers of our area will offer college seniors and others an opportunity to learn about career openings in Kingston and Ulster County.

In addition to providing a service for college students and employers, this event also will serve to remind us all once again that our area is a good place in which to live and work.

Career Opportunities Day, planned for the college student home for the holidays, suggests the desirability of extending a "welcome" not only to college students but also to members of the armed forces and to all other persons visiting in our community at this festive time of the year.

Mayor Garraghan has called upon all citizens to extend welcome to all visitors; to show our young people that we are proud of them, and show everyone that Kingston and Ulster County is good place in which to live and work.

Alabama Tornado Kills 2; Injures 20

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—A tornado killed two persons and injured at least 20 others as violent weather struck a large area of north Alabama today.

The tornado hopped around Madison and Morgan counties, touching down in at least five communities, but it missed the Redstone Arsenal missile complex at Huntsville.

Killed south of Huntsville was 60-year-old Clarence Ellison.

Another death was reported at Valhermoso Springs in Morgan County, but it was not determined immediately whether the person died in the tornado or drowned in heavy flooding that followed torrential rains. The victim was not identified immediately.

Lt. Richard Anderson of the Huntsville Police Department said 20 persons were admitted to hospitals.

He said the tornado "was traveling from southwest to northeast and cut a diagonal swath across Monte Santo Mountain."

The twister touched down at Valhermoso Springs and at Summerville in Morgan County before moving into Madison County southeast of Huntsville, several miles from the Redstone complex.

The heavy rains were completing the task of reaching and helping the tornado victims. A number of the injured was believed in critical condition.

The weather bureau had estimated 30 to 40 persons were hurt.

Many parts of north Alabama were under water, with almost five inches of rain drenching Huntsville during the night.

Some low-lying areas were flooded but none of the principal roads were closed.

The high wind and rains hit DeKalb, Marshall, Jackson, Limestone, Morgan and Madison counties.

Another twister hit three communities in Sumter County in West central Alabama.

There were no immediate reports of injuries from that one, which struck at Bellamy, Coatspa and Twin Oaks. Extensive property damage was reported and a gas main ruptured on Alabama 28 in Twin Oaks Community.

At Bellamy, a home reportedly was destroyed and utility poles were blown down.

Brooke on Riots

Slum War Is Likened to Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., a member of the President's Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders, says Congress will have to spend a lot of money to bring relief to America's riot-torn slums, likening the problem to the Vietnam war.

Brooke, the Senate's only Negro member—said the Vietnam war costs $2.5 billion or more a month and added: "But this is also a war in the United States. It is an important war, and this war must be won as well and I think we are going to have to spend the money necessary in order to win that war."

Another member of the civil disorders commission, Sen. Fred R. Harris, R-Okla., said "it would be terribly wrong to be surprised again next summer as we have been in every summer past" if riots break out. He said the social conditions causing the riots in the past have not been changed.

"We have got to learn from experience a lot better than we have in the past," Harris said. Brooke and Harris commented Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Want Pressure Exerted For South Viet Land Reform

BY CARL P. LEUBSDORF

WASHINGTON (AP)—For the second time this year, the chairman and ranking Republican on a House subcommittee have urged U.S. officials to pressure the South Vietnamese government to accelerate land distribution and other reforms. They say the Viet Cong is way ahead of Saigon in this respect.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk says the South Vietnamese have pledged to take such action.

Reps. John E. Moss, D-Calif., chairman of the House foreign operations and government information subcommittee; and Ogden R. Reid, R-N.Y., told Rusk in a letter released Saturday night that land reform should begin immediately.

Sources said their letter, which charged the Viet Cong land distribution program has involved five times as much land as that of the government, contained the conclusions of a forthcoming subcommittee report.

"We trust that during the impending period of congressional adjournment," Moss and Reid wrote, "the Department of State will take such action as is necessary to make crystal clear to the government of South Vietnam the imperative nature of its undertaking a true commitment of action with regard to the pressing problems of land reform."

Rusk replied to the letter by saying the State Department already is looking toward further action by the Saigon government regarding land matters. He said this includes "the whole broader field of agricultural development and reform."

Rusk said South Vietnam's newly elected government has made clear it plans further action on land distribution and reform. He referred to Prime Minister Nguyen Loc's statement pledging the government would distribute public lands to peasants, re-establish 500,000 expired land leases and issue ownership certificates to 110,500 peasants who have bought expropriated rice fields.

On Aug. 28, Moss and Reid wrote Rusk, when the subcommittee's previous reports were issued, that "the American people have the right to expect either prompt and meaningful substantive action by the government of Vietnam to deal effectively with the problem we have detailed or a searching reassessment of the United States' position."

Reid said in a weekend interview that one major problem is the attitude of both North Vietnam and South Vietnam toward the U.S. commitment.

"I think that our government is not always taken seriously in Hanoi and is taken for granted in Saigon," he said. Reid added that officials in Saigon incorrectly tend to regard the U.S. commitment in Vietnam as an "indefinite blank check."

Brooke said the commission will have recommendations for Congress in its final report, due in February, which will include spending, but did not detail them. However, he expressed hope Congress would act in its second session of the 90th Congress, beginning Jan. 15, even though inflation fears and Vietnam spending made the Congress budget-conscious in the first session.

Commenting on Black Power advocates, Stokely Carmichael and H. Rap Brown, Brooke said they represent the dissatisfaction of young Negro militants with "the slow process of racial equality that has been going on in this country."

"The thing we should be more concerned with than those who incite riots are the conditions which make people incitable," Brooke said. "Stokely Carmichael and H. Rap Brown would not be able to find followers if those conditions did not exist."

Harris declined to express specific agreement with a prediction by Prof. Herbert J. Gans of Columbia University that the violent repression of city riots will lead to "expanding guerrilla warfare between the races until the entire country becomes a tinderbox, like South Africa."

Gans made the comment in recent testimony before the civil disorders commission which was released Saturday.

He urged governmental action to deal with "grievances that make the ghetto boil over and that encourage police, troops and their supporters in the white population to resort to excessive repression in return."

But Gans added a long-range program will be needed to change the relationships between whites and Negroes. Republicans in the House were reported by one of their leaders to be preparing a civil rights bill for the next session of Congress.

Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin, chairman of the House Republican Conference, said the measure will include a "modified" open-housing provision. But he did not detail the GOP plan.

Laird appeared on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

A House Armed Services subcommittee said Sunday legislation is needed to protect federal personnel who are assaulted while trying to quell civil disorders.

The report said troops and other federal officials assigned to anti-riot duty are not protected by federal law against assault, injury or death at the hands of rioters.

It also urged early commitment of adequate forces where trouble breaks out and laid stress on planning and carefully developed command control systems.

Brooke on Riots

Slum War Is Likened to Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., a member of the President's Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders, says Congress will have to spend a lot of money to get relief to America's riot-torn slums, likening the problem to the Vietnam war.

Brooke, the Senate's only Negro member, said the Vietnam war costs $2.5 billion or more a month and added: "But this is also a war in the United States. It is an important war, and this war must be won as well and I think we are going to have to spend the money necessary in order to win that war."

Another member of the civil disorders commission, Sen. Fred R. Harris, R-Okla., said Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Brooke said the commission will have recommendations for change the relationships between whites and Negroes. Republicans in the House were reported by one of their leaders to be preparing a civil rights bill for the next session of Congress.

Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin, chairman of the House Republican Conference, said the measure will include a "modified" open-housing provision. But he did not detail the GOP plan.

Laird appeared on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

A House Armed Services subcommittee said Sunday legislation is needed to protect federal personnel who are assaulted while trying to quell civil disorders.

The report said troops and other federal officials assigned to anti-riot duty are not protected by federal law against assault, injury or death at the hands of rioters.

It also urged early commitment of adequate forces where trouble breaks out and laid stress on planning and careful development of command-control systems.

Want Pressure Exerted For South Viet Land Reform

BY CARL P. LEUBSDORF
WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second time this year, the chairman and ranking Republican on a House subcommittee have urged U.S. officials to pressure the South Vietnamese government to accelerate land distribution and other reforms.

They say the Viet Cong is way ahead of Saigon in this respect.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk says the South Vietnamese have pledged to take such action.

Over-all, he continued, "the pace and the scope of social and economic reform is far too limited."

Some Conclusions

The letter from Moss and Reid listed these conclusions:

1. Distribution of land was at a virtual standstill between 1962 and 1967.

2. "The present maximum retention limit of 247 acres may well be excessive. A retention limit of seven to 10 acres would appear to be more equitable."

3. Only 667,000 of 2.47 million acres have been distributed to 128,000 families since 1954, including 51,800 acres to 12,000 families this year.

4. "The Viet Cong during this period have instituted their own land reform program—reportedly distributing some five times the amount of land distributed by the government—and this program has not been effectively countered."

Rusk replied to the letter by saying the State Department already is looking toward further action by the Saigon government regarding land matters. He said this includes "the whole broader field of agricultural development and reform."

Rusk said South Vietnam's newly elected government has made clear it plans further action on land distribution and reform. He referred to Prime Minister Nguyen Loc's statement pledging the government would distribute public lands to peasants, re-establish 500,000 expired land leases and issue ownership certificates to 110,500 peasants who have bought expropriated rice fields.

On Aug. 28, Moss and Reid wrote Rusk, when the subcommittee's previous reports were issued that "the American people have the right to expect either prompt and meaningful substantive action by the government of Vietnam to deal effectively with the problem we have detailed or a searching reassessment of the United States' position."

Reid said in a weekend interview that one major problem is the attitude of both North Vietnam and South Vietnam toward the U.S. commitment.

"I think that our government is not always taken seriously in Hanoi and is taken for granted in Saigon," he said, Reid added that officials in Saigon incorrectly tend to regard the U.S. commitment in Vietnam as an "indefinite blank check."

Reps. John E. Moss, D-Calif., chairman of the House foreign operations and government information subcommittee; and Ogden R. Reid, R-N.Y., told Rusk in a letter released Saturday night that land reform should begin immediately.

Sources said their letter, which charged the Viet Cong land distribution program has involved five times as much land as that of the government, contained the conclusions of a forthcoming subcommittee report.

"We trust that during the impending period of congressional adjournment," Moss and Reid

Job Opportunity Week Set for Dec. 22-Jan. 1

Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan has designated Dec. 22 through Jan. 1 as "Welcome Home for the Holidays" time in Kingston.

The mayor stated that the most valuable asset to any community is its young people, and it is to the economic advantage of a community to retain its college-trained youth.

The Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring Career Opportunities Day on Dec. 27, at which time industries and other employers of our area will offer college seniors and others an opportunity to learn about career openings in Kingston and Ulster County.

In addition to providing a service for college students and employers, this event also will serve to remind us all once again that our area is a good place in which to live and work.

Career Opportunities Day, planned for the college student home for the holidays, suggests the desirability of extending a hearty "welcome" not only to college students but also to members of the armed forces and to all other persons visiting in our community at this festive time of the year.

Mayor Garraghan has called upon all citizens to extend welcome to all visitors; to show our young people that we are proud of them, and show everyone that Kingston and Ulster County is good place in which to live and work.

Alabama Tornado Kills 2; Injures 20

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — A tornado killed two persons and injured at least 20 others as violent weather struck a large area of north Alabama today.

The tornado hopped around Madison and Morgan counties, touching down in at least five communities, but it missed the Redstone Arsenal missile complex at Huntsville.

Killed south of Huntsville was 60-year-old Clarence Ellison.

Another death was reported at Valhermoso Springs in Morgan County, but it was not determined immediately whether the person died in the tornado or drowned in heavy flooding that followed torrential rains. The victim was not identified immediately.

Lt. Richard Anderson of the Huntsville Police Department said 20 persons were admitted to hospitals.

He said the tornado "was traveling from southwest to northeast and cut a diagonal swath across Monte Santo Mountain."

The twister touched down at Valhermoso Springs and at Summerville in Morgan County before moving into Madison County southeast of Huntsville, several miles from the Redstone complex.

The heavy rains were completing the task of reaching and helping the tornado victims. A number of the injured was believed in critical condition.

Folk Dancing Dramatics

Mrs. John Valentine gave instructions in folk dancing during the morning session and William Skilling conducted a workshop in dramatics during the afternoon session. Mrs. Robert Wirth taught the scouts the basic steps in ceramics, the shaping of the clay into small dishes and will also conduct second sessions for each of the scouts at which time they will learn how to glaze and complete their projects.

Mrs. David Fox conducted the Nature Crafts class, with each girl creating a mobile or plaque or other art form using natural materials such as dried weeds, twigs, stones, ferns, corn husks.

Mrs. James Chase of the Zena area, conducted the morning class in weaving and taught the basics weaving steps on small table looms with each girl making attractive woven place mats of their own design. Trooper Slaying Suspect Seized After Shooting OSWEGO, N. Y. (AP) — A suspect in the slaying of Trooper William G. Doyle has been charged with murder after his capture over the weekend in a rural area near here.

Maurice Lillis, 29, of Syracuse, is being held without bail at the Oswego County Jail.

He surrendered Saturday after shooting another suspect to death in their farmhouse hideout, police said.

Police said Lillis told troopers he shot Raymond Bailey, 34, also of Syracuse, to prevent him from killing a man in a nearby house and taking his family hostage.

Lillis and Bailey, both ex-convicts and escapees from Marcy State Hospital near Rome, had been sought since Thursday in the slaying of Doyle, 27, of Pulaski.

Doyle's body was found slumped over the wheel of his patrol car on a rural road near here. The trooper earlier radioed headquarters for a check on an automobile he had stopped, police said.

The car, which was stolen from the Griffiss Air Force Base at Rome, was recovered Sunday in a wooded area about 2½ miles from the farmhouse where police picked up Lillis.

Lillis turned himself in to the John Hyland family near Central Square. Police said he told troopers he had killed

Seven Hour Milk Strike Terminates

NEW YORK (AP) — Some short delays in milk deliveries were expected this morning as a result of a brief strike Sunday by Teamster Union drivers and dairy plant workers—a walkout that prompted a flurry of milk buying.

The seven hour strike sent thousands of New Yorkers scurrying to stock up in a move reminiscent of World War II hoarding of hard-to-get foods.

Although a virtual normal flow of milk was assured today for residents in the affected area—the city, suburban Nassau and Westchester counties and parts of New Jersey—an industry spokesman warned of probable price hikes soon.

Paul Corash, representing the Greater New York Milk Industry Labor Committee, said the increases would result from the "costliest settlement" gained from milk dealers here in 25 years.

Corash predicted that milk prices would be upped 2 to 4 cents a quart to wholesalers, with this much or more being passed on to consumers.

Milk now retails for 28 to 31

cents a quart in the city, and less in some suburban areas.

Tentative agreements were reached Sunday night on 28-month contracts, according to Bruce Simon, chief negotiator for the three Teamster Union locals involved.

Hunter Mishap Injures Five

While on their way to the Catskill Mountains for a day of skiing, five persons were injured Saturday when the car in which they were riding went out of control on a right curve and hit a gasoline pump stand-off Route 23A at Route 396 in the village of Hunter.

Leeds State Police said the car was driven by David Bressler, 23, of Fresh Meadows, L. I., who sustained a possible broken nose and abrasions and lacerations of the face and head.

Passengers in the car were Veronica Murray, 21, of Fresh Meadows, abrasions of the legs; Arland Rakowsky, of Madison, Neb., lacerations of the face and scalp; Rosemary Williams, of Queens Gardens, abrasions and lacerations, and Philip Lone, of Fresh Meadows, injuries of the left leg and right hand.

The injured were treated at Greene County Memorial Hospital, Catskill, and released, according to troopers.

Interviews Set Here For Academy Names

The 28th District Academy Advisory Committee will interview applicants for nomination to four of the nation's military academies next weekend, Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick's office announced today.

The committee is composed of seven business, professional and educational leaders from the 28th District, who meet for the purposes of recommending to Congressman Resnick the names of prospective nominees to the U. S. Air Force Academy, U. S. Merchant Marine Academy, U. S. Military Academy and the U. S. Naval Academy.

The Congressman then accepts the committee's recommendation and makes nominations to the appropriate academies.

Committee selections are made on a competitive basis. Application is judged for scholastic, achievements, physical ability extra-curricular activities, and scores on the Academy Entrance Examinations.

The interviews will be conducted Saturday in Congressman Resnick's Kingston office, 2 Pearl Street, from 10.30 a. m. to 5.45 p. m. Applicants have already been notified of their appointment times. Additional interviews will be conducted on Jan. 6.

The members of this year's Advisory Committee are, Seraphino DeLucia, Coxsackie, principal of Catskill High School; Donald Downs, Kerhonkson, insurance executive; Keith Rockwell, Esperance, member and past president of Schoharie Central School Board of Education; Lt. Col. Edward H. Gorman (ret.), Staatsburg, associate professor of French, Marist College; Theodore Yusco, Hudson, labor union official; Mrs. Rose Baum Kraut, Poughkeepsie, attorney and Calvin Tann, Ellenville, engineer-technician.

Yule Help for Poor

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The Negro congregation of a small church is helping to brighten Christmas for scores of children from low-income families in this city's East Side.

The Rev. Milton A. Williams, pastor of Durham Memorial AME Zion church, and Henry Coords, president of Fisher-Price Toys Inc., arranged to have parents buy toys at nearly wholesale cost.

The Rev. Mr. Williams also arranged to obtain trees—up to 5,000, if necessary—at cost from a nearby grower.

"It is a success," he said, "in the mere fact that we were able to get the cooperation. Many people of our community found it hard to believe this kind of thing could be done."

Sales were a bit slow in the first week, he said, but now that the idea has been publicized, more and more parents are buying toys and trees.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise: When unloading the washing line, it is a good idea to put the things to be ironed into one pillowcase and the other things into another case, while the cases are still on the lines. Then you'll save sorting time later.

Kay Fletcher

Dear Heloise: To entertain our children, my husband fixed a ring-tossing board. He drove nine nails part way in a square piece of plywood, spacing them a little apart.

Under each nail he painted a number. We had two fives, two tens, two twenty-fives, two fifties and in the center a one hundred.

I had some old rubber rings from mason jars and we tossed the jar rings at the board and kept score. Whoever reached 500 first won the game!

My children were entertained many hours by this game. Mom and Dad enjoyed it, too.

Grace Martin

Just like at a carnival. You are a peach because this game can be played indoors too with no damage to furniture. And all for free.

Heloise

Dear Heloise: The thick plastic bags which some frozen vegetables come in, to be boiled in water, are fine for heating up leftovers.

Just put the leftover to be heated back in the same bag and close it with a rubber band. The bag works as good as new, and no scouring the pot!

GUESTS SLEEP ON THE HIDE-AWAY

Dear Mrs. Post: If you have guests from out-of-town, which haven't got a guest room, which room of the house do you give them? I have two bedrooms—one for my two children and the other for us. We also have a living room with a hide-away bed. I am expecting company for the Christmas holidays.

Estelle

Dear Estelle: Since you have a hide-away bed in the living room, let your guests sleep there. There is no need to move your children or yourself out of your rooms as long as you can make your guests comfortable. See that there is some drawer and closet space available for them, so that their suitcases may be removed from the living room.

Dear Mrs. Worth: Your husband is being most unreasonable. There is no rule of etiquette which says a grandfather or a brother must take the place of a father in giving the bride away. However other members of the family feel about it, this is a decision which is entirely up to the bride, and it is her privilege to select the man to whom she feels the closest. Please show this to your husband and ask him, for the sake of the future relationship with his granddaughter, to attend the wedding with good grace!

Simple Holiday Decor

No costly purchases or hours of labor are required to achieve a distinctive holiday table arrangement, says Phyllis W. Barow, Extension Home Economist. You can create one as warm and bright as a Christmas hearth with no more than a gay cloth, candles, a pretty bowl, greens — and packaged soap or detergent! Except for one very modest purchase, this lovely setting can be arranged in minutes from "makings" readily available in any home.

First you'll need a favorite bowl set between a pair of candlesticks—polished till they gleam if they're metal, and complemented with Santa-red candles.

Next, borrow some evergreen or holly sprigs, princess pine

garlands, or shiny plastic roping from your Christmas decorations. Pile these greens artistically in the bowl so they rise to a soft peak and descend in graceful curves around the rim. If you don't have real holly berries for color accents, substitute bright clusters of cranberries.

Then top your creation with "snow". There's no need to shop for this item, as the most effective — and convenient — snow you can use is dry soap or detergent right in your kitchen. Just trickle several handfuls of it over your arrangement until the greens are frosted with white.

The only item you may have to buy is a Christmas-motif tablecloth, and attractive plastic "cloths" can be found for a dollar or less! Plastic coverings are no longer mere table pro-

A plastic cloth is also the most practical of holiday table coverings because spills and spots can be wiped off the surface—right on the table—with a sponge wrung out of sudsy water, or with a well-lathered brush to coax soil from a textured surface. However, before this holiday accessory is stored for next year, it should have an all-over washing by being swished through warm suds and rinses, then hung to dry before being folded.

When you've put the last Christmas-y touch to your table setting, you'll notice that the secret of its appeal is simplicity—a project so simple you'll wonder why you never thought of it before.

Area Residents Perform in Concert At St. Rose College

Several area residents were among 85 members of the College of Saint Rose, Albany, who performed at the College's annual Christmas Concert which was held Friday, Dec. 15, at 8 p.m. in the college auditorium, St. Joseph's Hall, 985 Madison Avenue.

Simple Holiday Decor

No costly purchases or hours of labor are required to achieve a distinctive holiday table arrangement, says Phyllis W. Barow, Extension Home Economist. You can create one as warm and bright as a Christmas hearth with no more than a gay cloth, candles, a pretty bowl, greens — and packaged soap or detergent! Except for one very modest purchase, this lovely setting can be arranged in minutes from "makings" readily available in any home.

First you'll need a favorite bowl set between a pair of candlesticks—polished till they gleam if they're metal, and complemented with Santa-red candles.

Next, borrow some evergreen or holly sprigs, princess pine garlands, or shiny plastic roping from your Christmas decorations. Pile these greens artistically in the bowl so they rise to a soft peak and descend in graceful curves around the rim. If you don't have real holly berries for color accents, substitute bright clusters of cranberries.

Then top your creation with "snow". There's no need to shop for this item, as the most effective — and convenient — snow you can use is dry soap or detergent right in your kitchen. Just trickle several handfuls of it over your arrangement until the greens are frosted with white.

The only item you may have to buy is a Christmas-motif tablecloth, and attractive plastic "cloths" can be found for a dollar or less! Plastic coverings are no longer mere table protectors. The Christmas selection presents a rich array of interesting textures, imaginative patterns, and vivid colors on white or tinted backgrounds. Designs range from gay Santas and toys to elegant candles glowing with golden radiance.

A plastic cloth is also the most practical of holiday table coverings because spills and spots can be wiped off the surface—right on the table—with a sponge wrung out of sudsy water, or with a well-lathered brush to coax soil from a textured surface. However, before this holiday accessory is stored for next year, it should have an all-over washing by being swished through warm suds and rinses, then hung to dry before being folded.

When you've put the last Christmas-y touch to your table setting, you'll notice that the secret of its appeal is simplicity—a project so simple you'll wonder why you never thought of it before.

Gallo Takes County Title With Eight Straight Wins

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

The man the area tenpin fraternity considers its very best proved it Sunday by winning the first annual Kingston Daily Freeman-Chamber of Commerce Individual All Star Classic.

Chris Gallo, a 33-year-old beer salesman, won eight straight games from four opponents to pile up 75.31 Petersen Points at Ferraro's Bowlerama to become the first recognized Ulster County Match Game Champion.

The victory was worth $100 in cash and a trophy for the Rheingold Beer salesman who knocked down 1673 pins for a 209 average in the highest block rolled in the entire tournament. At the start of the final round, Gallo was in 5th place with 34.08 points.

Jack Ferraro, a bowling stylist and with Gallo a member of the famed Whiz Kids of the 1950's, staged a strong finish to edge veteran Charlie Manfro for second place. Ferraro won 7 out of 8 games with a 1621 total worth $60 in cash and the runnerup trophy. Manfro earned an extra $20 with a 276 solo and placed third with 72.19 points.

Bob Shelightner, the second round leader with 39.04 points lost his first three games and quickly dropped out of contention. He hung on for fourth place.

Bob Overfield, one of the unexpected finds of the tournament, John Ferraro, Vince Carpino and Rudi Hohenberger trailed in that order.

Gallo rolled 214-207 against John Ferraro to take the lead with 54.47 points in the sixth round. He picked up 10.21 against Ferraro, then slammed 222-222-422 against Rudi Hohenberger for 10.42 points to boost his total to 65.39.

Manfro held second at 64.38, 51 pins behind after 213-211 wins over Overfield's 195-190. Jack Ferraro beat Shelightner with 161-231 and moved into third place with 62.27.

Gallo drew Manfro, of course, in the position round and Ferraro went against Overfield. In the first game Gallo opened with a triple before running into the 4-6-10 split, left 2 pins, doubled in the 6th and 7th, struck on the first ball in the 10th, then filled with 19 for 210.

Manfro, meanwhile, had a "Dutch" 200 through 9 frames, then doubled. With a chance to tie he filled with 9 for 209. Gallo picked up a crucial point and went into the final leading by 2 points and 52 pins.

Gallo missed the 10-pin in the first frame of the last game and Manfro drew the 7-10 split. Gallo doubled in the 3rd and 4th and got no more. He drew the 7-10 split in the 10th for 182. Manfro ran into the 1-7-8 setup in the 4th, got no doubles and ended with 172.

Jack Ferraro, meanwhile, having picked up a point on Manfro in the first position game, gained 36 pins and another point in the final game to sneak into second place by a 24-pin margin.

The sweet smell of success is nothing new to Gallo. He has two ABC sanctioned 300 to his credit and twice represented the Hudson valley area in the National All Star tournament.

Retired Briefly

He retired from the game for a year two seasons ago but is now back in a 3-times-a-week groove in the Invitational Classic, International and Summit

Classic. His best current average is 200 in the Invitational. He is employed by the Fallsburgh Bottling Works of Kingston.

Gallo's biggest forte was his ability to carry light hits better than anybody in the field. "The lanes were a little tight," but they worked well for me," said Gallo, a modest kegler throughout his brilliant career. Another veteran who was acclaimed by the crowd was Charlie Manfro, who finished second. He bombed 276 against Bob Shelightner and was in contention all the way.

Roby Condemns Negro Boycott

NEW YORK (AP) — Douglas F. Roby, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee, said Sunday that a boycott by Negro athletes of the 1968 Olympic Games "would be equivalent to somebody trying to burn down his own home."

The committee issued a formal statement in reply to the boycott movement supported by several Negro athletes as a protest against American racial policies. The statement invited "all qualified American athletes to try out for the 1968 teams in all Olympic sports" and promised "equal treatment in the manner of selection, in housing and in feeding."

Roby said, "Anyone, regardless of color, can be on our team and be treated as an equal."

Fearsome Four Kayoed Unitas And It Was a Long Day in LA

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Johnny Unitas spent an endless hour hurrying in the wrong direction ... and watching Los Angeles turn the National Football League's Coastal showdown into a Roman carnival.

Roman Gabriel, the Rams' strong-armed quarterback, eclipsed superstar Unitas Sunday by firing three touchdown passes as Los Angeles drubbed the previously unbeaten Baltimore Colts 34-10 for the Coastal Division title.

While Gabriel connected on 18 of 22 passes for 257 yards—to the delight of 77,277 revelers in the Los Angeles Coliseum—the Ram defenders hurried Unitas into two costly interceptions and dropped the NFL's Most Valuable Player seven times for losses totaling 48 yards.

"The crux of our defensive plan for this game," said LA Coach George Allen, "was not to allow Unitas enough time to throw the ball, because he can thread the needle in a crowd."

Fearsome Foursome Click
The Rams' Fearsome Foursome—Lamar Lundy, Deacon Jones, Merlin Olsen and Roger Brown—followed Allen's plan to the letter.

In snapping Baltimore's 13-game unbeaten streak, the Rams extended their own winning string to eight games and advanced into next Saturday's Western Conference championship playoff against Green Bay's Central Division kings.

Los Angeles and Baltimore tied 24-24 in their first meeting and finished in an 11-12 deadlock. The Rams, however, got the title nod by virtue of their point edge in the two games against the Colts.

The Packers, who nailed the Central crown three weeks ago, were upset by Pittsburgh 24-17 Sunday. New York pounded St. Louis 37-14. New Orleans stunned Washington 30-14. Philadelphia toppled Cleveland's Century champs 28-24. Chicago beat Atlanta 23-14 and Detroit trimmed Minnesota 14-3 in other games.

Dallas' Capitol Division winners, who meet Cleveland for the Eastern Conference championship next Sunday, bowed to San Francisco 24-16 Saturday.

In Sunday's American Football League action, Oakland belted New York 38-29. Miami outscored Boston 41-32 and Kansas City trimmed Denver 28-14. Houston topped San Diego 24-17 Saturday.

80 Yard TD Pass

Trailing 7-3 early in the second quarter, the Rams took charge on Gabriel's 80-yard scoring strike to Jack Snow and 23-yard TD pass to Bernie Casey. The second score followed Ed Meador's interception of a Unitas pass, thrown while Jones was draped over the Colt quarterback's shoulders.

Los Angeles boosted its lead to 20-7 in the third quarter on Bruce Gossett's second field goal. After Lou Michaels booted a three-pointer for the Colts, Gabriel capped a 67-yard drive with a nine-yard payoff pitch to Billy Truax.

The Rams' final touchdown, scored by Dick Bass from 20 yards out, came after Unitas was dropped at his own four-yard line for an eight-yard loss on fourth down.

"We played our best game of the year and put everything to gether," Allen said. "Green Bay? I'd like to enjoy Baltimore first."

End Ben McGee rambled 21 yards with a deflected Green Bay pass for one touchdown and tackle Chuck Hinton plodded 27 yards with a recovered fumble for another score as Pittsburgh's defensive unit wrecked the Packers, who substituted freely in their final pre-playoff tune-up.

Tarkenton Clicks

New York's Fran Tarkenton tossed four touchdown passes—two to Aaron Thomas—as the Giants overpowered and injured St. Louis and captured second place in the Century race.

The Saints nailed Washington punt returner John Love for a third-quarter safety, breaking a 7-7 tie, and struck again 19 seconds later on Randy Schultz' one-yard TD plunge following Walter Roberts' 68-yard free kick runback. They pulled away on Bill Kilmer's second TD pass to Dan Abramowitz and Don McCall's 49-yard scoring jaunt.

Norm Snead threw three scoring passes against the Browns, who rested several regulars and went all the way with third string quarterback Gary Lane. Sam Baker kicked four extra points for the Eagles and moved into third place on the all-time NFL scoring list with 824 career points—one more than Don Hutson, the former Green Bay flash.

Gale Sayers ran 51 yards for a touchdown, caught a 32-yard TD pass from Jack Concannon and finished with 120 rushing yards in Chicago's triumph over the Falcons. Mac Percival added three field goals for the Bears.

Rookie Lem Barney led the Lions past Minnesota with three pass interceptions, returning one 71 yards for a touchdown and setting up Detroit's other score with another.

DALLAS COWBOYS' Don Meredith (QB-17) was injured on this play when he went back to pass against San Francisco 49ers in 2nd period. He is grabbed by 49ers Stan Handman (80-DE), as Dallas Don Oerkins (43-RB) tries to help Meredith (UL). Handman spins around (UR) and pulls Meredith down (LL); and Meredith fumbles the ball (LR). Meredith re-injured his knee and left game. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

UCCC Senators—Area's Hottest Sports Team

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

What happened Thursday night at the municipal auditorium merely reiterated the old adage that all the world loves a winner.

Suddenly we have in our midst a winner—a big one—in the Ulster County Community College basketball Senators. And just as suddenly the ancient municipal auditorium is the "in" place in town.

Upwards of 1500 fans stormed the Broadway arena Thursday night to watch Coach Mike Perry's undefeated Senators demolish a strong Sullivan County team, likewise unbeaten, 135-92, in a contest that was supposed to be for all the Mid-Hudson Conference marbles.

A non-student sports populace that had largely ignored the Senators since they were organized four seasons has overnight discovered a brilliant basketball team that just might be the finest junior college quintet in the nation. A large order, to be sure, but when the final returns are in the UCCC Senators may be just that.

You know what the 1500 spectators at the slaughter of Sullivan represented? The biggest sports crowd at the municipal auditorium since the heyday of Ronnie Scheffel at Kingston High school. That's a tremendous turnout in these days of electronic sports and in an era when Kingston, sportswise, is just as dead as hundreds of other cities its size around the nation.

It takes a big man to make a big team click and Ulster has him in jumpin' Joe Uhl, a former Kingston High school star, who many consider the finest basketball shooter our town has ever developed.

Uhl Is the Big Man

What Johnny Unitas is to the Colts, Wilt Chamberlain to the 76ers and Carl Yastrzemski to the Red Sox, Uhl is to the Senators—the big man who can deliver the big play and electrify the cash customers.

In seven games to date, this gifted shooter has piled up 232 points for a near 32 average and has yet to play a complete contest. Coach Perry has rested him from 8 to 11 minutes a game. At the moment he holds the school record with 46 points and figures to soar higher before the 1967-68 campaign is over.

Uhl, Frank Roselli and Co-Captain Rod Chando are the heart of the ball club that has averaged 117 plus through 7 games. The 163 points scored against Northwestern Connecticut may be an all-time National Junior College record. The statisticians are trying to establish that at the moment.

Besides Uhl, the Senators have three other Kingston players—all KHS products—in Leon Hanna, Mike Derenbacher and Bill DuBois. Chando is from Marlboro and Ty Quill from the famed Beacon High powerhouses that terrorized the DCSL for five straight years. The remainder of the team was recruited from the metropolitan area.

Uhl's surge to basketball prominence is a tribute to the coaching finesse and recruiting ability of its intense young coach Mike Perry, who learned his trade well under Siena College's famed Dan Cunha. A persuasive talent scout, Perry is credited with a minor miracle in inducing Uhl to complete his education and continue his basketball career.

From Modest Beginning

The Senators' first two seasons under Coach Al DiBernardo were losing ones, 3-6 and 3-16. It's no rap against Al, a capable young man who in the early stages of UCCC was a one-man band coaching every sport and with an enrollment of about 190. It was the days when that radio fellow was constantly jabbing The Fiddlers 33 about the future of UCCC which seemed almost nonexistent at the time.

Perry coached a winner in his first season 13-8 in 1965-66 and followed up with 16-8. His current squad is 10-0 with a 3-game carryover from last season. Some experts are predicting a 26-0 record and trip to the national junior college finals in California for the Senators. The first part might not happen, the second could.

UCCC followers are mildly amused by Coach Perry's pre-occupation with defense when he has the highest scoring machine in the country.

"His defense is his offense," an observer quipped. "Mike emphasizes ball control, but from the size of the scores, UCCC must control the ball 70 per cent of the time." But like every successful coach, Mike Perry persists that the first step in basketball success is a sound defense.

Uhl and his splendid wares will be on display Tuesday night at the auditorium against Dutchess County and the current "in" crowd will be there, transforming the arena into the Roman coliseum. But the Senators are aware that basketball always has the most explosive potential for a sports "upset."

They refute the suggestion that this one is being played for laughs.

Raiders Trounce Jets, Ewbank Blasts Refs

By ED SCHUYLER JR.

Associated Press Sports Writer

Coach Weeb Ewbank thinks the New York Jets were at a disadvantage after the opening kickoff. Maybe. But one thing is certain—they are at a disadvantage now.

"This will probably cost me money, but I've got to say it," Ewbank fumed after Sunday's 38-29 loss to the Oakland Raiders.

He then scored the officials "for letting the game get out of hand. I thought the officiating was poor. I feel we were at a disadvantage after the kickoff."

Ewbank's criticism not only most likely will cost him money in the form of a league fine, the loss very likely will cost the Jets a shot at the American Football League title.

The Jets, 7-5-1, now trail Houston, 24-17 winner over San Diego Saturday, by one game in the Eastern Division race. Houston can win the title and the right to meet Western Division champion Oakland, 12-1-0, for the league crown by beating Miami next Saturday. The Jets play San Diego next Sunday.

Kansas City Romps

In other AFL games Sunday, Kansas City trounced Denver 38-24 and Miami outlasted Boston 41-32.

The Jets' Joe Namath, who set an AFL season record of 3,650 yards passing, threw for 356 yards and three touchdowns but took a beating in the process—suffering a possible fractured right cheek bone.

Namath, who was spitting blood during the game, said he didn't know when or how the injury occurred and refused to say Oakland played rough. The Raiders twice were penalized for roughing the passer.

Miami Cools The NBA

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Miami Beach, Fla., is not known as a basketball town, and somebody must have told the St. Louis Hawks and the San Francisco Warriors.

Oh, the two National Basketball Association teams played Sunday night as scheduled, but they didn't exactly play like two National Basketball Association teams.

The Hawks made less than 40 per cent of their field goal attempts. The Warriors made just 26 per cent of theirs. The Hawks won 97-79.

San Francisco was particularly inept in the second half. Leading 49-48 at intermission, the Warriors were able to make only 10 of 55 shots from the floor and scored 30 points in the second half. Their total was one of the lowest in NBA history.

The hottest of the cold shooting hands belonged to the Hawks' Lennie Wilkens, who made a game-high six field goals and 10-of-10 foul shots for 22 points. Nate Thurmond scored 16 for the Warriors, who fell 3½ games behind first-place St. Louis in the Western Division.

In other NBA games, Philadelphia whipped Seattle 139-124.

Killy Victor In Big Slalom

VAL D'ISERE, France (AP)—Jean-Claude Killy, France's world Alpine skiing champion, regained the winning habit while Billy Kidd of Stowe, Vt., continued to buoy the United States' Winter Olympic hopes.

Killy, who was beaten in his earlier races here, won the international giant slalom for the Henri Oreiller Cup on the 3,200-meter slopes of Col de L'Isere, beating Switzerland's Kurt Schneider by more than a second.

Kidd, making a comeback 18 months after breaking his leg, finished fifth in the race Sunday, which, combined with a fifth and a third in earlier races here, placed him in a tie for second in the combined standings.

Other Americans in the race were Jere Elliott of Steamboat Springs, Colo., who finished 12th; Harry Ryan of Rutland, Vt., who was 32nd and Jim Hugg of Squaw Valley, Calif., 33rd. Rick Chaffee of Rutland and Spider Sabich of Kyburz, Calif., were disqualified.

It Was Night of the Hat In National Hockey League

By HAL BOCK

It was the Night of the Hat in the National Hockey League but petit Pit Martin deserves at least a cap.

It was Martin's goal with 6½ minutes left to play that broke a scoreless tie and started the Chicago Black Hawks to a 2-0 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs Sunday night.

That moved the Hawks, who dropped their first six games this season, into a tie with idle Boston for the NHL East Division lead. Chicago has lost just three of the last 25 games since snapping the losing streak.

Elsewhere Sunday, Rod Gilbert's three-goal hat trick led New York to a 5-3 victory over St. Louis. Detroit's Norm Ullman and Montreal's Jean Beliveau traded three-goal performances as the Red Wings outlasted the Canadiens 8-6, and Philadelphia shaded Pittsburgh 2-1.

Martin, acquired in the six-player trade that sent Phil Esposito and Fred Stanfield to Boston, has been hampered by injuries and managed only four goals before Sunday.

center was in the right spot when Eric Nesterenko dug the puck out from behind the Toronto net and fired in front. Martin rammed the puck between goalie Johnny Bower and the left post. Until then, it seemed Bower and Chicago's Denis DeJordy were headed for a scoreless tie. After Martin scored, Doug Mohns hit an open net with Bower off for an extra attacker.

Gilbert, the Rangers' leading scorer with 28 goals last year, snapped an eight-game slump with his third career hat trick. Two of the goals came in the first period as the Rangers raced to a 3-0 lead.

JCC Five Drop Second Tussle

Newburgh's Jewish Community Center team handed Kingston JCC squad their second straight loss of the season, 65-55, Saturday in the Municipal Auditorium.

After falling behind 32-18 in the first half, a big fourth quarter was not enough to pull it out for Kingston.

Raiders Trounce Jets, Ewbank Blasts Refs

By ED SCHUYLER JR., Associated Press Sports Writer
Coach Webb Ewbank thinks the New York Jets were at a disadvantage after the opening kickoff, maybe. But one thing is certain—they are at a disadvantage now.

"This will probably cost me money, but I've got to say it," Ewbank fumed after Sunday's 38-29 loss to the Oakland Raiders. He then scored the officials, "for letting the game get out of hand. I thought the officiating was poor. I feel we were at a disadvantage after the kickoff."

Ewbank's criticism not only most likely will cost him money in the form of a league fine, the loss very likely will cost the Jets a shot at the American Football League title.

The Jets, 7-5-1, now trail Houston, 24-17 winner over San Diego Saturday, by one game in the Eastern Division race. Houston can win the title and the right to meet Western Division champion Oakland, 12-1-0, for the league crown by beating Miami next Saturday. The Jets play San Diego next Sunday.

Kansas City Ramps
In other AFL games Sunday, Kansas City trounced Denver 38-24 and Miami outlasted Boston 41-32.

The Jets' Joe Namath, who set an AFL season record of 3,650 yards passing, threw for 356 yards and three touchdowns but took a beating in the process—suffering a possible fractured right cheek bone.

Namath, who was spitting blood during the game, said he didn't know when or how the injury occurred and refused to say Oakland played rough. The Raiders twice were penalized for roughing the passer.

Miami Cools The NBA

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Miami Beach, Fla., is not known as a basketball town, and somebody must have told the St. Louis Hawks and the San Francisco Warriors.

Oh, the two National Basketball Association teams played Sunday night as scheduled, but they didn't exactly play like two National Basketball Association teams.

The Hawks made less than 40 per cent of their field goal attempts. The Warriors made just 26 per cent of theirs. The Hawks won 97-79.

San Francisco was particularly inept in the second half. Leading 49-46 at intermission, the Warriors were able to make only 10 of 55 shots from the floor and scored 30 points in the second half. Their total was one of the lowest in NBA history.

The hottest of the cold shooting hands belonged to the Hawks' Lennie Wilkens, who made a game-high six field goals and 10-of-10 foul shots for 22 points. Nate Thurmond scored 16 for the Warriors, who fell 3 1/2 games behind first-place St. Louis in the Western Division.

In other NBA games, Philadelphia whipped Seattle 139-124.

Killy Victor In Big Slalom

VAL D'ISERE, France (AP)—Jean-Claude Killy, France's world Alpine skiing champion, regained the winning habit while Billy Kidd of Stowe, Vt., continued to buoy the United States' Winter Olympic hopes.

Killy, who was beaten in his earlier races here, won the international giant slalom for the Henri Oreiller Cup on the 3,200-meter slopes of Col de L'Isere, beating Switzerland's Kurt Schneider by more than a second.

Kidd, making a comeback 18 months after breaking his leg, finished fifth in the race Sunday, which, combined with a fifth and a third in earlier races here, placed him in a tie for second in the combined standings.

It Was Night of the Hat In National Hockey League

By HAL BOCK

It was the Night of the Hat in the National Hockey League but pit Martin deserves at least a cap.

It was Martin's goal with 6 1/2 minutes left to play that broke a scoreless tie and started the Chicago Black Hawks to a 2-0 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs Sunday night.

That moved the Hawks, who dropped their first six games this season, into a tie with idle Boston for the NHL's Eastern Division lead. Chicago has lost just three of the last 25 games since snapping the losing streak.

Elsewhere Sunday, Rod Gilbert's three-goal hat trick led New York to a 5-3 victory over St. Louis. Detroit's Norm Ullman and Montreal's Jean Beliveau traded three-goal performances as the Red Wings outlasted the Canadiens 8-6, and Philadelphia shaded Pittsburgh 2-1.

Martin, acquired in the six-player trade that sent Phil Esposito and Fred Stanfield to Boston, has been hampered by injuries and managed only four goals before Sunday.

But the 5-foot-8, 156-pound

center was in the right spot when Eric Nesterenko dug the puck out from behind the Toronto net and fired in front. Martin jammed the puck between goalie Johnny Bower and the left post. Until then, it seemed Bower and Chicago's Denis DeBorja were headed for a scoreless tie. After Martin scored, Doug Mohns hit an open net with Bower off for an extra attacker.

Gilbert, the Rangers' leading scorer with 28 goals last year, snapped an eight-game slump with his third career hat trick. Two of the goals came in the first period as the Rangers raced to a 3-0 lead.

JCC Five Drop Second Tussle

Newburgh's Jewish Community Center team handed Kingston JCC squad their second straight loss of the season, 65-55, Saturday in the Municipal Auditorium.

After falling behind 32-18 in the first half, a big fourth quarter was not enough to pull it out for Kingston.

Urge Early File On SS Disability

George J. Habernig, district manager of the Kingston Social Security office stated today that many persons eligible for disability benefits apply too late to receive checks as early as they should.
According to Habernig, anyone whose work activity was covered by social security for five of the past 10 years, and is expected to be out of work for at least 12 months (because of sickness or injury) should apply for disability payments immediately.
He explained that although benefits can't be paid for the first six months of disability, medical reports and other data needed from the applicant can be collected, evaluated, and a decision reached before the six-month waiting period is up—enabling payments to begin on time.
Anyone in Ulster County who wishes to apply for disability benefits should visit the social security office at 57 Albany Avenue. (The office is open from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. week days and until 7 p. m. on Thursdays.) A person unable to come to the office may telephone, and arrange for a visit by an office representative.

Questions, Answers on Tax

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.
Q—My stock broker wants my social security number. Since I've put the stock in my wife's name as well as my own, should I give both our numbers?
A—No, only one social security number is needed. The general rule where stock is jointly owned, or a bank account is listed in more than one name, is to use the number of the husband. If the account is owned jointly by an adult and a minor, the social security number of the adult should be given.

Q—I'm paying back a loan I took out to finance my college education. Will these payments be deductible when I file my 1967 return?
A—No, only that part of your repayments representing interest on the loan will be deductible when you itemize.
Q—Is there any way I can spread out the tax on the profits I realized from the sale of farm property?
A—Yes, you may be able to report your profits on the installment basis. Then you would only be taxed on that part of the profit you received in 1967. This installment method can only be used when you receive payments of not more than 30 per cent of the selling price in the year of sale. If you receive more than 30 per cent, the entire gain must be reported in the year of sale.

Q—My daughter worked this summer but is now back at school. Can she file for her refund now? She could use the money for school expenses.
A—The law does not permit a return to be filed for a tax year that has not ended. Your daughter can speed things up next January, however, by making sure she has her W-2 withholding statement. Her employer should have given her this W-2 within 30 days of her last pay. If he did not, your daughter should contact him and ask for it.
Tax returns can't be processed unless W-2 statements are attached. Failure to do this resulted in refund delays on some 200,000 tax returns last year.

Q—I pay my maid's carfare.
A—No, only that part of your repayments representing interest on the loan will be deductible when you itemize.

A—No, only that part of your repayments representing interest on the loan will be deductible when you itemize.
Q—Is there any way I can spread out the tax on the profits I realized from the sale of farm property?
A—Yes, you may be able to report your profits on the installment basis. Then you would only be taxed on that part of the profit you received in 1967. This installment method can only be used when you receive payments of not more than 30 per cent of the selling price in the year of sale. If you receive more than 30 per cent, the entire gain must be reported in the year of sale.

Q—My daughter worked this summer but is now back at school. Can she file for her refund now? She could use the money for school expenses.
A—The law does not permit a return to be filed for a tax year that has not ended. Your daughter can speed things up next January, however, by making sure she has her W-2 withholding statement. Her employer should have given her this W-2 within 30 days of her last pay. If he did not, your daughter should contact him and ask for it.
Tax returns can't be processed unless W-2 statements are attached. Failure to do this resulted in refund delays on some 200,000 tax returns last year.

Q—I pay my maid's carfare.

Urge Early File On SS Disability

George J. Habernig, district manager of the Kingston Social Security office stated today that many persons eligible for disability benefits apply too late to receive checks as early as they should.
According to Habernig, anyone whose work activity was covered by social security for five of the past 10 years, and is expected to be out of work for at least 12 months (because of sickness or injury) should apply for disability payments immediately.
He explained that although benefits can't be paid for the first six months of disability, medical reports and other data needed from the applicant can be collected, evaluated, and a decision reached before the six-month waiting period is up — enabling payments to begin on time.
Anyone in Ulster County who wishes to apply for disability benefits should visit the social security office at 57 Albany Avenue. (The office is open from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. week days and until 7 p. m. on Thursdays.) A person unable to come to the office may telephone, and arrange for a visit by an office representative.

Questions, Answers on Tax

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.
Q—My stock broker wants my social security number. Since I've put the stock in my wife's name as well as my own, should I give both our numbers?
A—No, only one social security number is needed. The general rule where stock is jointly owned, or a bank account is listed in more than one name, is to use the number of the husband. If the account is owned jointly by an adult and a minor, the social security number of the adult should be given.
Q—I'm paying back a loan I took out to finance my college education. Will these payments be deductible when I file my 1967 return?
A—No, only that part of your repayments representing interest on the loan will be deductible when you itemize.
Q—Is there any way I can spread out the tax on the profits I realized from the sale of farm property?
A—Yes, you may be able to report your profits on the installment basis. Then you would only be taxed on that part of the profit you received in 1967. This installment method can only be used when you receive payments of not more than 30 per cent of the selling price in the year of sale. If you receive more than 30 per cent, the entire gain must be reported in the year of sale.
Q—My daughter worked this summer but is now back at school. Can she file for her refund now? She could use the money for school expenses.
A—The law does not permit a return to be filed for a tax year that has not ended.
Your daughter can speed things up next January, however, by making sure she has her W-2 withholding statement. Her employer should have given her this W-2 within 30 days of her last pay. If he did not, your daughter should contact him and ask for it.
Tax returns can't be processed unless W-2 statements are attached. Failure to do this resulted in refund delays on some 200,000 tax returns last year.
Q—I pay my maid's carfare.

Do I count this when I figure out the social security tax on her wages?
A—Yes, you should include all your cash payments to your maid for social security tax purposes even though they are for items other than wages. If you provide car transportation, however, you do not have to include its fair market value.
Q—My wife is now working part-time. If she files her own return to get a refund of her withheld taxes can I still claim her exemption?
A—No you may not. A wife is not considered her husband's dependent. When a husband or wife files a separate return the other must file separately too. In this case, neither is permitted to claim exemptions, expenses or deductions of the other.
If your wife receives only a small amount of money from her job it would probably be to your advantage to file a joint return. Compute your tax both ways to see which is best in your situation.
Q—On year end stock dividends, do you report them in the year declared or the year received?
A—Report them in the year they are constructively received. This means that if you received a dividend or had it credited to your account in 1967, then it must be reported on your 1967 return.
Orders From Mama
CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Melina Mercouri, the Greek movie star who lost her citizenship for speaking out against the ruling military junta, says the "king doesn't exist for us anymore."
Miss Mercouri was talking about King Constantine, whose unsuccessful attempt last week to wrest control of the country caused him to flee.
"He will receive orders from his mama," Miss Mercouri told 1,200 persons at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology about the king's next move.
She said on her arrival at Logan Airport, before the concert, that "we were very depressed when we heard the king had left the country after a few hours."
Her appearance here was sponsored by the Boston chapter of the Committee for Restoration of Democratic Government for Greece.
"The king doesn't exist for us anymore," she said. "The Greek people will have nothing to do with him. If he comes back, he will be a puppet of the junta."

Dear Abby

GIs Send Thank You Notes

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
1967 by Chicago Tribune
N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend is stationed at Tan Son Nhut air force base, Viet Nam, and I would like to quote a part of the letter I received from him yesterday:

"There is a Sgt. Jefferson over here whose problem was 'no mail,' so he wrote to Dear Abby. She printed his letter down and help himself. I was and asked if some of her readers would care to write to him. Well, you would have to SEE the mail that poured in to have believed it. He got so much mail that he sorted it according to states, then he put a mimeographed notice in every mailbox here, saying that anyone who wanted some mail from his home state should come on duty then, but later I went down and took a bunch from Pennsylvania.

"Let me tell you, Dee, the people in the United States are the greatest! I already know that, but some of those letters were out of this world. Folks of all ages, and from all walks of life wrote to this sergeant. You should see the guys with all that mail. They are trying to answer as many as they can. So am I. This morning I wrote a letter to a mother in a little town in Pennsylvania I never even heard of. She has seven boys, and just wrote to thank all the fellows over here for what we are doing for her and her seven sons. It really got me. I am so proud to be an American, and you can bet your bottom dollar that every one of the troops in this stinking place is saying the same thing, and I mean it from the bottom of my heart."

Well, Abby, I just thought you would like to know what one letter in the "Stars and Stripes" did for our men over there in Viet Nam. And I personally want to thank you for bringing so much happiness to so many people.

Sincerely yours,
DOLORES FLICKINGER

DEAR ABBY: I am the Sgt. Malcolm Jefferson who wrote to you from Viet Nam. I said I was homesick and wanted some mail for Christmas. You published my letter in your column, and so far I have received over 100,000 letters and 1,000 packages. They're still pouring in, and I've quit counting, but I am passing them around to the others who want mail. I've heard from all 50 states, and even some foreign countries. (I don't know why, but the two cities I received the most mail from were Dayton, Ohio, and Las Vegas, Nevada.)

Tell your readers that some of them may not receive a reply instantly, but I will personally do my best to answer as many as I can, if I'm still at it when I'm retired in the Old Soldiers' home. And if it is possible to answer mail in the world beyond, I'll do that, too.

Someone suggested that I have "form letters" made up, saying, "Dear Friend, thank you for your letter, etc." But, Abby, how can you answer a 6-year-old girl, who wants to know if she can send you a Bible, with a form letter? And how can you answer a mother, whose only son was killed in Viet Nam, with a form letter? And how can you thank teachers with a form letter for having the whole class write to you? And how can you send a form letter to an 8-year-old boy who says he wishes he could send a big box of cookies over here for our fighting men, but his family is on welfare?

I heard from a 10-year-old girl in Rome, Italy. She said, "Malcolm, Dear, if you answer my letter, please don't put your return address on the envelope because my mother might wonder why a strange man is writing to me." Another girl, age 12, wrote, "I have 10 brothers, 4 sisters, 7 rabbits, 2 dogs, 3 cats, and 21 kittens."

Abby, I did not receive one smart-aleck letter. Everyone who wrote expressed appreciation for what we are doing over here. I want to thank them all from the bottom of my heart. God bless you, Dear Abby. And God bless America.

SGT. MALCOLM JEFFERSON

TO MY READERS: I want to personally thank every man, woman and child who answered my plea and wrote to a lonely serviceman, and sent Christmas packages to Vietnamese orphans and refugees. The response was overwhelming! And to Feature Editor Peter Eiden, San Diego Union, and Representative Bob Wilson (36th District, California), a special thanks, for having quickly cut the red tape that sent those letters and packages on their way, after learning that they had been held up by the defense department.

Unfortunately some letters and packages were returned to their senders before the combined efforts of Editor Eiden and Representative Wilson became effective. And to those who sent them, my apologies.

ABBY

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply, inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

ahead. Accent today on how to get where you want to go.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Something may leave your life today to make room for new adventures. Don't try to hang on to past. Welcome adventure, challenge. Catch up on calls, correspondence.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Some of your plans may cost more than you estimated. Check with experts. Mate or partner expresses need. Take initiative. Emphasize independence, originality. Start project.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You want action, tend to be impatient. Some close to you may have to bear brunt. Know this. Refuse to lash out. Key is restraint. Count 10 before making important decisions.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): You are urged to greater action by one who plays behind-the-scenes role. Be flexible. Have alternatives at hand. Opposite sex figures prominently. Changes due. Be ready.

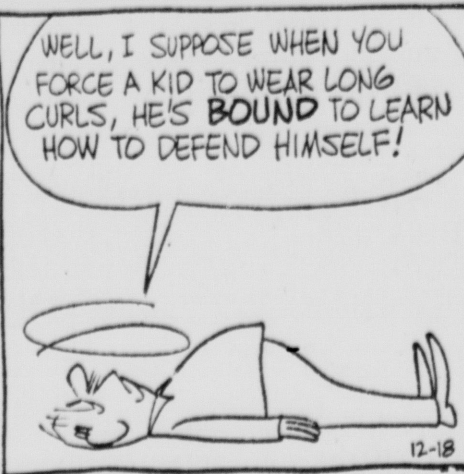

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are an original thinker—you usually set style, pace. You want to influence your locality, your time. You are not petty. Instead, your interests are universal. At times you must be more practical. Face issues as they exist at the moment. You are completing major cycle. Keep mind open for new ideas, projects.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for LEO. Special word to ARIES: break through maze of red tape. Go directly to source.

Oswald: "Here is a letter from Prof. Nathan Divinsky of Vancouver, Canada. Dr. Divinsky reached five clubs and made it after East won the diamond opening and shifted to a trump. South ran off seven clubs and West hung on to the king of diamonds and four spades while East let all his diamonds go. Then a diamond trick in declarer's hand, on dummy's good spades. The professor wonders just how East and West could find out about the spade situation?"

Jim: "It is always particularly difficult to find out that a threat suit is no threat because it can't be led, but this time East-West might have found out. West should drop the three of diamonds on the third club and East the deuce. On the fourth club, West should discard the 10 of hearts and East the eight of diamonds."

Oswald: "In such situations each partner must trust the other implicitly. East will know West started with exactly five diamonds, and West will know that East started with four. With an original six diamonds, West would discard a diamond on the fourth club. With three diamonds only, East would have discarded down and out and his play of the eight denied any lower diamond. Hence each would know that declarer could not hold more than two spades and hearts."

Jim: "On the fifth club West should have let the five of spades go. This should inform East that West was still holding three spades, whereupon East should drop his queen of spades."

Oswald: "This would require a lot of intestinal fortitude on the part of East. He would know that if West had started with three hearts and three spades, he would have thrown a second heart."

Jim: "It sure is easy when you see all the cards. Actually, I wonder if any pairs would be able to do this well at the table."

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend is stationed at Tan Son Nhut air force base, Viet Nam, and I would like to quote a part of the letter I received from him yesterday:

"There is a Sgt. Jefferson over here whose problem was 'no mail,' so he wrote to Dear Abby. She printed his letter and asked if some of her readers would care to write to him. Well, you would have to SEE the mail that poured in to have believed it. He got so much mail that he sorted it according to states, then he put a mimeographed notice in every mailbox here, saying that any one who wanted some mail from his home state should come down and help himself. on duty then, but later I went down and took a bunch from Pennsylvania.

"Let me tell you, Dee, the people in the United States are the greatest! I already know that, but some of those letters were out of this world. Folks of all ages, and from all walks of life wrote to this sergeant. You should see the guys with all that mail. They are trying to answer as many as they can. So am I. "This morning I wrote a letter to a mother in a little town in Pennsylvania I never even heard of. She has seven boys, and just wrote to thank all the fellows over here for what we are doing for her and her seven sons. It really got me. I am so proud to be an American, and you can bet your bottom dollar that every one of the troops in this stinking place is saying the same thing, and I mean it from the bottom of my heart."

Well, Abby, I just thought you would like to know what one letter in the "Stars and Stripes" did for our men over there in Viet Nam. And I personally want to thank you for bringing so much happiness to so many people.

Sincerely yours,
DOLORES FLICKINGER

DEAR ABBY: I am the Sgt. Malcolm Jefferson who wrote to you from Viet Nam. I said I was lonesome and wanted some mail for Christmas. You published my letter in your column, and so far I have received over 100,000 letters and 1,000 packages. They're still pouring in, and I've quit counting, but I am passing them around to the others who want mail. I've heard from all 50 states, and even some foreign countries. (I don't know why, but the two cities I received the most mail from were Dayton, Ohio, and Las Vegas, Nevada.)

Tell your readers that some of them may not receive a reply instantly, but I will personally do my best to answer as many as I can, if I'm still at it when I'm retired in the Old Soldiers' home. And if it is possible to answer mail in the world beyond, I'll do that, too. Someone suggested that I have "form letters" made up, saying, "Dear Friend, thank you for your letter, etc." But, Abby, how can you answer a 6-year-old girl, who wants to know if she can send you a Bible, with a form letter? And how can you answer a mother, whose only son was killed in Viet Nam, with a form letter? And how can you thank teachers with a form letter for having the whole class write to you? And how can you send a form letter to an 8-year-old boy who says he wishes he could send a big box of cookies over here for our fighting men, but his family is on welfare?

I heard from a 10-year-old girl in Rome, Italy. She said, "Malcolm, Dear, if you answer my letter, please don't put your return address on the envelope because my mother might wonder why a stranger man is writing to me." Another girl, age 12, wrote, "I have 10 brothers, 4 sisters, 7 rabbits, 2 dogs, 3 cats, and 21 kittens."

Abby, I did not receive one smart-aleck letter. Everyone who wrote expressed appreciation for what we are doing over here. I want to thank them all from the bottom of my heart. God bless America, Dear Abby, and God bless America, SGT. MALCOLM JEFFERSON

TO MY READERS: I want to personally thank every man, woman and child who answered my plea and wrote to a lonely serviceman, and sent Christmas packages to Vietnamese orphans and refugees. The response was overwhelming! And to Feature Editor Peter Eiden, San Diego Union, and Representative Bob Wilson (36th District, California) a special thanks, for having quickly cut the red tape that sent those letters and packages on their way, after learning that they had been held up by the defense department.

Unfortunately some letters and packages were returned to their senders before the combined efforts of Editor Eiden and Representative Wilson became effective. And to those who sent them, my apologies.

ABBY

NEW YORK (AP) — Truman Capote's short story, "Among the Paths to Eden" was translated Sunday night into a poignant, sometimes painful, television vignette. The subject was empty lives and loneliness. It was the story of a middle-aged, plain spinster desperately trying to find a husband, and it was beautifully acted by a pair of skilled, sensitive performers. The woman's hunting ground was a cemetery, because one of her married friends had told her that there were "always widowers walking around."

The ABC story opened with the woman standing among mourners at an open grave, awkwardly making conversation with men. Soon she wandered on to find a man planting flowers at his dead wife's grave. After making some tentative advances, she learned he was on the verge of remarrying—and moved on quickly. Eventually she encountered another man putting some flowers on his wife's grave. Largely through her insistence, they struck up a conversation.

A Curious Scene
In the course of the conversation, with her desperate efforts to attract him, all of her lonely, barren life revealed itself and, more reluctantly, so did his. There was one curious scene where, in her eagerness to impress him, she perched on a corner of his wife's headstone and gave him her impression of Helen Morgan singing a blues song. At the end, he gently re-had a fiery confrontation as Ed-also a number of university so-buffed her, and at the end, she ward P. Morgan conducted—orciologists. It sometimes turned into a shouting match. Search River for Bridge Victims

POINT PLEASANT, W.Va. (AP) — Working in a light rain, a water-borne crane probing the Ohio River's depths latched on to a crumpled car early today and brought up three more bodies in the grim search for victims of Friday's bridge collapse.

GRIM TASK — A hard-hat diver prepares to go into the Ohio River Saturday to start the process of retrieving the cars and bodies of the victims in the collapse of the Silver Bridge. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

jutting above the river's surface. Max Ray, a commercial deep sea diver from New Orleans, said that "you've got to worry about metal falling on you."

Ray spent several hours in the river's murky depths Sunday and said "it's real hairy and dangerous down there. You can't see your hand on the face plate of your mask. It's so dark, pitch black."

The tangled mass of the bridge's superstructure, lying atop the cars and trucks in 40 feet of water "is so shaky I could move the beams by hand. I dropped through the mess of steel and it started to slide," Ray said.

Another problem stemming from the disaster was that river traffic along the Ohio was choked and backed up for miles. Col. William D. Falck of the Army engineers estimated that 60,000 tons of cargo was stalled because the river was closed above and below Point Pleasant.

The cars pulled from the water Sunday reflected the tremendous impact which existed when the span collapsed. All were torn and smashed. The engine dropped from one as it was lifted. The top of another, which held two bodies, was peeled off.

The Ohio Highway Patrol said traffic on Route 7, which parallels the river for miles, was backed up for 4½ miles Sunday afternoon. Troopers estimated the crowds of the curious at between 10,000 and 15,000. But all were kept away from the river's edge so as not to hamper the search.

U.S. Rep. Ken Hechler, D-W.Va., who represents the area, toured the site for a second time Sunday and said the reason for the bridge's collapse "may never be known."

as a semi-official liaison with the White House.

"The immediate need is to establish a traffic link between Point Pleasant and Gallipolis," he said. "The economic implications of this disaster are staggering."

"We're trying to get the New York Central Railroad to establish a shuttle service on the railroad bridge (about one-quarter mile north of the disaster site) and we're also trying to arrange for a ferry."

The question of indemnity also arose. West Virginia owns the Ohio River to the Ohio shoreline and probes were being made to determine responsibility.

West Virginia State Atty. Gen. C. Donald Robertson said the state may be facing damage claims of several million dollars.

Leary's Attorney Preparing Suit

A $50,000 lawsuit is being filed to the County Jail over the death of Dr. Leary. He was released the following day on a $1,500 bail.

County Sheriff Lawrence M. Quinlan said that he had not yet decided whether to make Dutchess County a party to the suit or to treat the incident as purely an act of the sheriff which was not authorized by the county.

Dr. Leary and William M. Hitchcock, wealthy owner of the Millbrook estate, surrendered last Monday to face charges of conspiracy to violate narcotics provisions of the public health and penal laws, criminal facilitation, and maintaining a public nuisance. They are free in bail of $2,500 each.

Sheriff Quinlan told The Freeman that "I didn't even know about the hair cutting" but that such action "is a rule in the jail" and "everybody gets the same thing."

The Dutchess County sheriff claimed that the rule was passed "several months ago" for "sanitary reasons" and that there was "nothing personal in it at all."

The young man was among eight persons, including the older Leary, arrested following a sheriff's search of the LSD-centered Castalia Foundation at Millbrook Dec. 9. He was charged with illegal possession of marijuana and was committed to jail.

Reapportionment Hassle On Council Agenda Will Prove Lively

Defends Plan
Gallo defended the plan, stating that the committee had acted in accordance with guidelines laid down by Supreme Court Justice T. Paul Kane.

Judge Kane is a key figure in the reapportionment in Kingston. The city has had two plans rejected, both for the same reason, failure to reapportion by the 1960 census figures.

The first plan, presented last year, called for four districts with a total of 11 aldermen. The first district comprised Wards 11, 12 and 13 and had three aldermen. District Two included Wards One, Two and Ten and also had three aldermen. The Third District had three aldermen and included Wards Three, Four and Five. The Fourth District had two representatives and comprised Wards Six, Seven, Eight and Nine.

The second plan reverted to the 13 wards with 13 aldermen but this too was rejected. The districts were set up after a special head count which the court rejected.

The current plan, which reportedly has the preliminary blessings of officials in Albany, was drawn up from the 1960 census figures.

Mayor Raymond W. Garraghand had little comment on reapportionment today since, he said, he hadn't see the map yet. He said he expected arguments over the plan and added, "These guys (the aldermen) are all human and they'll be looking out for their own interests."

Due to reapportionment, Council members will have to run again next fall. They will then be up for election in 1969 when the mayor and aldermen-at-large are elected.

This whole process will probably be repeated in 1971 or '72 following the 1970 census. The issue evolves from a U.S. Supreme Court mandate of one man for one vote. Equal representation must be maintained and reapportionment is the tool to its maintenance.

Search River for Bridge Victims

POINT PLEASANT, W.Va. (AP) — Working in a light rain, a water-borne crane probing the Ohio River's depths latched on to a crumpled car early today and brought up three more bodies in the grim search for victims of Friday's bridge collapse.

They brought to 16 the number of known dead. There were 41 persons reported missing. The car was one of scores of vehicles that tumbled like play-toys off the bridge when the suspension span collapsed into the murky river.

The bodies of two adults and a child pried out of the car's twisted metal remains were taken to a temporary morgue in a state army.

They were not immediately identified.

Sitting on a barge in the river, the crane also pulled up one huge chunk of the bridge superstructure this morning. It was placed on the barge. It was believed that superstructure pieces were being hauled up in an effort to reach vehicles trapped under the debris.

The 1,500-foot-wide section of the river between Ohio and West Virginia yielded eight bodies from four cars and a truck when the derricks pulled them out Sunday. The other five bodies were recovered Friday, a few hours after the suspension bridge collapsed under the weight of rush hour and Christmas shoppers' traffic.

Forecast of more than one inch of rain for the Point Pleasant area brought with it the fear that the river's level would rise and increase its current. This would seriously hamper divers in their efforts to reach cars crushed under the bridge's superstructure.

The big 40-year-old bridge, a major link between the two states, crumpled into the Ohio River 80 feet below just after 5 p.m. Friday. The center span of the bridge disappeared, leaving only the approach ramps on both sides and concrete piers putting above the river's surface.

Max Ray, a commercial deep sea diver from New Orleans, said that "you've got to worry about metal falling on you."

Ray spent several hours in the river's murky depths Sunday and said "it's real hairy and dangerous down there. You can't see your hand on the face plate of your mask. It's so dark, pitch black."

The tangled mass of the bridge's superstructure, lying atop the cars and trucks in 40 feet of water "is so shaky I could move the beams by hand. I dropped through the mess of steel and it started to slide," Ray said.

Another problem stemming from the disaster was that river traffic along the Ohio was choked and backed up for miles. Col. William D. Falck of the Army engineers estimated that 60,000 tons of cargo was stalled because the river was closed above and below Point Pleasant.

The cars pulled from the water Sunday reflected the tremendous impact which existed when the span collapsed. All were torn and smashed. The engine dropped from one as it was lifted. The top of another, which held two bodies, was peeled off.

The Ohio Highway Patrol said traffic on Route 7, which parallels the river for miles, was backed up for 4½ miles Sunday afternoon. Troopers estimated the crowds of the curious at between 10,000 and 15,000. But all were kept away from the river's edge so as not to hamper the search.

U.S. Rep. Ken Hechler, D-W.Va., who represents the area, toured the site for a second time Sunday and said the reason for the bridge's collapse "may never be known."

Leary's Attorney Preparing Suit
A $50,000 lawsuit is being filed to the County Jail over-prepared by the lawyer of Dr. night. He was released the Timothy Leary against Dutch following day on a $1,500 bail. ess County Sheriff Lawrence M. Attorney Tepper said that he Quinlan because Leary's son had not yet decided whether to make Dutchess County a party to the suit or to treat the incident as purely an act of the sheriff which was not authorized by the county.

Dr. Leary and William M. Hitchcock, wealthy owner of the Millbrook estate, surrendered last Monday to face charges of conspiracy to violate narcotics provisions of the public health and penal laws, criminal facilitation, and maintaining a public nuisance. They are free in bail of $2,500 each.

Sheriff Quinlan told The Freeman that "I didn't even know about the hair cutting" but that such action "is a rule in the jail" and "everybody gets the same thing."

The Dutchess County sheriff claimed that the rule was passed "several months ago" for "sanitary reasons" and that there was "nothing personal in it at all."

The young man was among eight persons, including the older Leary, arrested following a sheriff's search of the LSD-centered Castalia Foundation at Millbrook Dec. 9. He was charged with illegal possession of marijuana and was committed to jail.
